NATION TO PAY HONOR AT TAFT RITES

4,000 PROTEST ANTI-RELIGIOUS SOVIET REGIME

CONSTITUTION HALL SCENE OF GATHERING

Six Young Communists Held for Distributing Scathing Leaflets.

LITERATURE SCORES CRITICS OF PROGRAM

Dr. Edmund A. Walsh Heads Speakers; Many Sects Are Represented.

Four thousand members of religious sects, adherents of divergent dogmas, were drawn to Constitution Hall yesterday by a convergence of interest to express sympathy for their coreligionists in Russia, who are suffering as a result of the atheistic program of the Soviet Union.

Outside the building representatives of the Communist party, the prevailing social philosophy in the Soviet Union, distributed leaflets upholding the Moscow program. Six members of the Young Communist League of Washington were arrested for distributing the leaflets.

All of the young Communists, most of them students of District High schools, were brought to the Third Precinct and were later released in $10 bail on a charge of distributing leaflets without permission.

Walsh Outlines Campaign.

To an audience composed of Catholics, Protestants and Jews, Dr. Edmund A. Walsh, vice president of Georgetown University, outlined the policy of the Soviet Union in its campaign of atheism. Shorn of its illustrations and political analyses, Dr. Walsh's address crystallized itself into an indictment against Russia for erecting into its system of government the negation of God.

Father Walsh, who is considered an authority on contemporary Russian history, declared that the outpouring of 4,000 people of various religious beliefs indicated the extent to which men had been stirred by the Soviet attack against religion.

Drawing a comparison between existing conditions in Russia and this country, Father Walsh averred that the freedom to worship God is woven into the warp of our political structure and that the American conscience by a kind of national instinct springs to the defense when that right is challenged.

Abolishes Religious Beliefs.

Communism, he said, demands the abolition of all religious beliefs. Its policy is to extend its influence throughout the world, and consequently, he asserted, its antireligious program has been executed within Russia as a prelude to its imposition on the entire noncommunist world.

Digressing from the economic and political tenets of communism, he dwelt at length upon the moral and religious content of the philosophy. He outlined the policies of the Communist leaders against religion. All these are representative of the declaration in 1923 of Sinoviev, then president of the Third International, that: "Our program is based on scientific materialism, which includes unconditionally the necessity of propagating atheism."

Father Walsh said that the policy of the Soviet Union is to make the youth not merely nonreligious, but antireligious. At this point he presenetd a detailed list of men who have been executed, imprisoned or exiled on religious grounds. The list included members of the Orthodox, Catholic and Jewish faiths.

After enumerating specific cases of persecution, Dr. Walsh said that he could testify that their only crime is the daily crime of Bishop Freeman, Bishop McNamara, Rabbi Simon and Dr. Sizoo. "They believed in God and taught his revelation."

Fear of Exile.

He then analyzed existing Soviet legislation and showed how the full might of the government is mobilized in an attempt to extirpate religion in the concrete by direct and indirect methods. Father Walsh further declared that the helpless victims of the persecution were unable to resist because of the discriminatory legislation and the fear of exile.

By indirect means, too, he said, the Soviet government is striking at religion by fostering the "Association of the Godless" and by forcing school

15 Captured in Drive On Extortionist Ring

One of Seized Chicagoans Trapped as He Walks in Shop to Collect $25,000 Ransom; Six Kidnapings Laid to Gang.

Chicago, March 9 (A.P.).—Capture of fifteen men, said by police to be members of a ring which has extorted thousands of dollars from Cook County victims through kidnaping and torture, was revealed by the State's attorney's office today.

One of the men was seized as he walked into a Michigan boulevard gown shop, allegedly to collect $25,000 ransom from Theodore Kopelman, an official of the Chicago National Life Insurance Co. Five others were caught as they waited outside in a car.

Kopelman had reported to Patrick Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney John A. Swanson, that he had been kidnaped early in the morning of February 26 as he drove toward his home and had been taken to a West Side house, where he was kept for a day and a half. Then, he related, he was removed to a cottage at Delmar Lake, near Antioch, where the kidnapers demanded $25,000 ransom and heated irons in his presence while they discussed means of torturing him if he did not comply. He finally agreed, he said, and negotiated for payment of $4,000 with a promise to pay the balance later.

Kopelman took the matter up with Roche and the latter persuaded him to make an appointment with the men to meet him at the gown shop of his sister, Gertrude Kopelman. Detectives were stationed across the boulevard from the shop and behind dresses in the store.

At the appointed hour Seymour Pellar, gangster, entered and was faced by the muzzles of shotguns. Other officers seized the men in the cab, and nine more were taken at their apartments in various parts of the city.

Seized with Pellar were Irving Sandler, once indicted as a bomber; Charles Hadesman, reputed election terrorist; Sam Gold, Norman Resnick and Michael Rosenberg. The others were lesser known hoodlums.

"I know of at least six kidnapings for which this gang is responsible," Roche said, today. "Within six months they have acquired at least

WOMAN, OF CAPITAL, IS KILLED IN CRASH

Mrs. Yetta Genderson Victim of an Auto Collision in Baltimore.

HUSBAND IS INJURED

Plunging to the pavement when she leaped or was thrown out of the automobile in which she was riding when it collided with another machine yesterday afternoon in Baltimore, Mrs. Yetta Genderson, 38 years old, of 327 Allison street northwest, was killed almost instantly.

Her husband, Rubin Genderson, 41 years old, proprietor of a dyeing establishment here, sustained minor cuts and bruises in the accident. He was prostrated with grief at his wife's death, and at a late hour last night had not regained his composure sufficiently to give a coherent account of the death of his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Genderson, who had gone to Baltimore Saturday to spend the week-end with the woman's mother, Mrs. Solomon Krupsitsky, at her home at 1505 Pulaski street, and were returning to the home after an afternoon motor drive when at Pulaski and Baker streets they crashed with a machine operated by Dr. William K. Skilling, 45 years old, of the 4100 block of Liberty Heights avenue.

The woman, according to a reconstructed story of the accident by Baltimore police, either was hurled from the car by the impact or leaped out at the moment of the crash. They expressed belief that she jumped out and substantiated this opinion by the fact that the force of the collision resulted in no injury to Dr. Skilling and only minor hurts to Mr. Genderson.

She was taken in a passing car to the West Baltimore General Hospital and pronounced dead on arrival.

Police of the Northwestern Station in Baltimore took in custody both drivers pending the outcome of an inquest tentatively scheduled there today by Dr. Geranus France, automobile coroner.

TOWN THREATENED BY $50,000 BLAZE

Virginia Village Is Saved as Three Buildings Burn to Ground.

WIND HINDERS WORKERS

The entire town of Clifton Station, Va., was threatened with destruction late yesterday morning when flames swept the business area and destroyed two two-story stores and a residence. Loss was estimated at between $40,000 and $60,000.

Quick response from the Fairfax Fire Department, which was 12 miles away, saved the village. Nearby structures were already on fire when the volunteer firemen arrived, and so they turned their attention to them rather than to the three buildings which were enveloped in flames that mounted 100 feet.

A brisk wind that swept into the valley made the work of the firemen more precarious. The Fairfax department was soon joined, however, by volunteer firemen and trucks from Herndon, Manassas, Vienna, McLean, Falls Church and Ballston.

The fire was discovered at 10:30 o'clock, when a passerby rushed into the ice cream and soft drink store where V. V. Weaver, owner of the three buildings, was serving a customer. Before he could do more than notify his wife, who was in the residence, the three frame buildings were blazing.

The main structure was one of the two largest general stores in the community. All of the stock, most of which had just been moved in from a warehouse, was lost, as were $2,100 in currency and $500 in checks and money orders which were in a money box.

The origin of the fire could not be determined.

The Southern Railway Station, the postoffice, another general store across the street, and several houses were endangered as sparks set them ablaze. The store is owned by D. W. Buckley, county supervisor, who until last week has been a foe of the tax levied for fire departments in Fair-

Officer Killed in Strange Fall to Be Buried Today

Maj. Walter E. Hobson, Well Known in Capital, Who Died in Plunge in Philadelphia, Will Lie in Arlington.

The body of Maj. Walter E. Hobson, U. S. A., retired, who was killed in a mysterious fall from the seventh floor of the Philadelphia Y. M. C. A. late Friday night, will be buried in Arlington Cemetery at 3 o'clock this afternoon following a brief service.

A brother, Maj. William H. Hobson, of Georgetown University faculty, returned yesterday from Philadelphia with the body after investigating the circumstances surrending his death. He declared last night that he was convinced that the former Army officer's death was accidental, probably resulting from an attack of heart disease.

Maj. Hobson, who was in the insurance business, had a wide circle of friends in Washington, being a former member of the Army and Navy Club and having served thirteen years in the United States Infantry. He left the capital about six months ago.

The major, who was 44 years old, had appeared in good spirits only the night before his death, his brother found, and his financial affairs were in good shape. The coroner agreed, he said, that there was no apparent motive for suicide.

The body was not discovered until 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. A friend, M. W. Brooker, who also lived at the Y. M. C. A., made repeated attempts to get a response to knocks on Hobson's door. Finally a clerk gained entrance.

LAMONT HOLDS OUT CHEER TO U. S. JOBLESS

CONGRESS PREPARES TO RUSH LEGISLATION

Unemployment Hearings to Be Started Soon by Subcommittee.

$7,000,000,000 FUND WILL BE EXPENDED

(Associated Press.)

Prompt "decisive action" on a $7,000,000,000 Nation-wide construction program was held forth to the Nation's unemployed yesterday by Secretary Lamont. The Commerce Secretary detailed plans for this gigantic expansion work of Federal, State, municipal and private industrial leaders as congressional pilots prepared to look into the unemployment situation and to rush such legislation as may remedy conditions.

More than $1,000,000,000 will be spent for construction and maintenance of public works in three States—New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio—Mr. Lamont reported.

"On the basis of complete reports from the governors of more than two-thirds of the States," the Secretary announced, "covering all types of public construction and maintenance to be carried out in 1930, together with reports from Federal departments and commissions and public utility companies, prompt decisive action in speeding up this year's $7,000,000,000 program of construction of these types seems well established."

Hearings to Begin This Week.

Hearings on the unemployment situation will be begun midweek by a a subcommittee of the Senate commerce committee, headed by Senator Johnson (Republican), California. He intends to confine the hearings to a "factual" study of means of remedying conditions by legislation.

Early enactment of the $230,000,000 public buildings bill and of the $125,000,000 Federal road aid measure also will be pressed on Capitol Hill.

Secretary Lamont listed the following new reports on construction programs by the States: $305,988,118 by Pennsylvania, $93,000,000 by Michigan, $70,000,000 by Iowa, $51,670,000

IN SENATE RACE

JAMES J. DAVIS.

DAVIS IS DEFINITELY IN RACE FOR SENATE

Secretary of Labor Expects to Make Announcement in Present Week.

PINCHOT FOR GOVERNOR

Sharon, Pa., March 9 (A.P.).—James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, let it be known here today that he would announce for the United States Senate possibly within the present week. The announcement, it was indicated, would be made at Pittsburgh, where Mr. Davis maintains his legal residence.

The Secretary, who came here to visit his father over Sunday, made known his plans were not contingent upon a decision by William S. Vare, Philadelphia Republican leader, who is expected to announce he will not seek the Senate seat now occupied by Joseph R. Grundy.

Philadelphia, March 9 (A.P.).—Gifford Pinchot, former Governor of Pennsylvania, announced here tonight that he would be a candidate for the governorship at the Republican primary election in May.

He said his platform would be announced within a week or ten days.

In a statement to newspapermen, Mr. Pinchot said:

"I am a candidate for governor in the coming Republican primary. I want to help to break the strangle hold of the electric, gas, water, trolley, bus and other monopolies on the cost of living and the government of this State. • • •

"The fight for common justice against machines and monopolies is the kind of a fight I like. I went into it with Roosevelt and have been in it ever since."

Six Killed When Train Hits Auto at Crossing

Lancaster, Pa., March 9 (A.P.).—Six persons were killed tonight as a Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train struck their automobile at a grade crossing at Florin, about 10 miles west of here.

According to tentative identifications, all of the victims were from this city.

SANFORD BODY IS SENT SOUTH TO LAST RITES

BRIEF CEREMONIES TO BE HELD TODAY

COURT TO ADJOURN THROUGH RESPECT

(Associated Press.)

The body of Justice Edward Terry Sanford was directed last night to its final resting place in his native Tennessee hills.

Accompanied by a group of his colleagues from the Supreme Court, the body of the jurist was sent from here to Knoxville, Tenn., where they will participate in brief funeral exercises today and return to Washington for the final rites tomorrow of William Howard Taft, who died but a few hours after the man with whom he had sat upon the bench.

Mrs. Sanford and Representative and Mrs. Fisher, of Tennessee, the latter a sister of the late justice, will be accompanied on their journey by Chief Justice Hughes and Justices McReynolds, Butler and Stone, who have been designated as a committee to represent the court.

Group Leaves Capital.

The group left Washington last night at 10:35 o'clock and will arrive in Knoxville this afternoon at 1:40 o'clock. They body will be taken directly to the cemetery, where a brief service will be held. An hour and five minutes after their arrival in Knoxville, the delegation from the Supreme Court will board a train for their return trip to Washington to participate in the rites for the late Chief Justice.

Out of respect to their late colleagues, the Supreme Court will not be in session today or tomorrow.

Death Came Suddenly.

Justice Sanford died suddenly Saturday after an illness of less than three hours. Leaving home in the expectation of joining his colleagues in honoring Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes on his eighty-ninth birthday, he collapsed in a dentist's chair and was removed to his home in an unconscious condition. He died a short time later. Uremic poisoning was given as the cause of his death.

Justice Sanford was in his sixty-fifth year. He was appointed to the Supreme Court in 1923 by President Harding.

Pallbearers Announced.

Knoxville, Tenn., March 9 (A.P.).—Arrangements were completed today for the funeral here tomorrow of Edward T. Sanford, justice of the United States Supreme Sourt.

Accompanied by a distinguished funeral party, the body will be taken directly to Greenwood Cemetery. There, after a brief Episcopal service, it will be lowered into its grave. The Rev. Dr. Walter C. Whitaker, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, will conduct the service.

Those in charge of the arrangements here announced that Chief

TAFT HOME STILLED AS FAMILY GATHERS

Streets Near Mansion Filled With Parked Cars as Curious Gather.

MANY CALL ON WIDOW

(Associated Press.)

Days of anxiety and excitement that have attended the fatal illness of William Howard Taft within his own home were supplanted yesterday by quiet and solitude as members of the family gathered from various sections of the country.

Without, the comparative quiet that normally is part of the Wyoming avenue section of the Capital in which the colonial brick mansion of the former Justice stands was broken by streams of automobiles moving slowly by or halting briefly; thousands of curious eyes peering at the stately mansion; scores of persons standing on the sidewalk in front of the home or sitting in their parked cars watching the distinguished procession of visitors who called to express their sympathy to the widow and her children.

Mrs. Taft, worn by the long vigil at the bedside of her husband, seldom left the rooms close-by that on the second floor where the body of her husband lay. Although the physicians who had attended the former Chief Justice called, they were not needed by the widow and late in the day Miss Gertrude Manifold, the nurse, who was with Mr. Taft until the end, left the home for the last time. Once Mrs. Taft slipped quietly and unnoticed from a side basement door of the home and drove to Arlington Cemetery with her three children to select the site where her husband's body will rest.

Only the flowers on the first floor and the respectful quietude of the servants as they moved about the house attending the family and receiving the cards of callers gave evidence of the death of the master of the household. From the grand piano, the mantles and table, baskets of flowers diffused their fragrance. On the floor of the study where Mr. Taft often sat and read was the unassuming but beautiful basket sent by President and Mrs. Hoover, filled with tulips, crocuses and early spring blossoms.

The body of Mr. Taft remained in the room where he died. Late today it is to be brought to the first floor and placed in the casket, preparatory to removal to the Capitol.

There was no crepe on the door. The blinds were undrawn. Only the passing procession outside gave evi-

HIGH OFFICIALS OF COUNTRY TO JOIN CORTEGE

Army Posts Throughout Nation Will Fire Death Salutes.

CITY'S SOCIAL LIFE IS AT STANDSTILL

Body Will Lie in State at Capitol Tomorrow for Three Hours.

CHURCH SERVICES ARE TO BE BRIEF

(Associated Press.)

The resting of his body in state at the Capitol and other honors befitting the exalted place he won for himself in the heart and the history of the Nation will be accorded William Howard Taft. Until 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, the body will remain at the home on Wyomnig avenue where he died. It will be taken to the Capitol to lie in the rotunda for three hours before the funeral services at All Souls' Unitarian Church at 2 p. m.

President Hoover and other high officials of the Government will attend the church services. Congress will be in adjournment, with delegations from the Senate and House joining the state funeral cortege.

A part of the military honors which are to be paid the late jurist will consist of firing salutes at all Army posts in the United States and foreign stations today and during the time the body is being taken from the church to the cemetery.

Army Posts to Fire Salutes.

At reveille today every Army post will fire thirteen guns. From then until sundown a gun will be fired every half hour and immediately afetr retreat a 48-gun salute will be fired.

During the funeral tomorrow the Army posts will fire a 21-gun salute.

In accordance with the 30-day period of mourning proclaimed by President Hoover, hostesses throughout the Capital have canceled invitations sent out for various dates within that period. The entire social life of the city will be at a standstill.

The last man who was President to lie in state at the Capitol was Warren G. Harding. In accordance with Mrs. Wilson's wishes, Woodrow Wilson had a strictly private funeral.

Cavalry to Escort Body.

Tomorrow morning a squadron of Cavalry will escort a caisson to the Taft home to take the former President's body to the Capitol. Eight noncommissioned officers of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps will be pallbearers, while the members of the Supreme Court will form the honorary escort. During the time the procession will be on its way from the church to the grave all Army stations will again join in firing a final 21-gun salute.

For three hours the public will be permitted to file by Mr. Taft's casket under the great dome of the Capitol rotunda. A guard of honor of 40 picked men from the Army, Navy and Marine Corps will be on constant duty.

Every military unit near Washington will take part in the funeral procession escorting the body, borne on a gun carriage, from the Capitol to All Souls' Church.

Very simple ceremonies, lasting only 30 minutes, will be conducted by Dr. Ulysses G. B. Pierce, the family pastor, and at 2:30 o'clock the party will start for Arlington Cemetery. The Unitarian service will con-

Parley Pessimistic As Discussion Fails

Briand and MacDonald Meet at Premier's Home to Talk Over French Security Demand, But Can Not Reach Friendly Agreement.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, March 9 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The London naval conference reached one of the most critical stages in its uncertain course today when the principal spokesmen for France and Great Britain discussed at Chequers, country residence of the British premier, one of the most controversial problems before the parley—the French demand for guarantees of security as the price for reduction of the announced French naval program.

This discussion, in which Foreign Minister Aristide Briand and Rene Massigli, of the French foreign office, spoke for France, and Premier MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson for Great Britain, was one of the most important that has taken place since the conference began nearly seven weeks ago.

No agreement resulted from the four-cornered conversation. As a result, pessimistic predictions were general tonight. It was several hours after the French spokesmen had left Chequers, however, that MacDonald, in a speech broadcast from his fireside to America, assured his radio audience that "all is well" with the London parley.

Those inclined to take a gloomy view of the conference prospects point out that MacDonald's speech, while delivered after Briand's departure, was prepared before the visit of the French foreign minister to Chequers. They also call attention to MacDonald's remark that, "We shall not agree to base any treaty which may result from the naval conference on entangling military alliance."

That Briand's effort today to induce the British to undertake a pact of mutual assistance and guarantee at sea proved ineffectual was in effect admitted by him in an unusually frank conversation tonight at the Hotel Carlton. The veteran French Foreign Minister, who returned to London shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon, made it clear to correspondents that when he tried to talk a security treaty, MacDonald tried to talk figures. He told the prime minister that the French figures would depend upon the securities offered France, and he intimated significantly that, even if naval limitation in figures proved impossible here, good work has been done in settling the controversy over limitation methods—by total tonnage or by classes of ships—so that the League of Nations preparatory disarmament commission can continue its work from that point at Geneva.

If naval construction can be limited for the next five years, Briand said, he will be pleased, but the fact remains that he will decline seriously to reduce the French program failing a naval guarantee pact. It is also clear that Great Britain appears to stand pat on the two power European standard against France and Italy, which means that the tentative British agreement with

Both Radio Chains to Carry Funeral Services for Taft

Entire Nation Will Be Able to Listen in On Rites Tomorrow; Columbia System to Describe Procession to Church.

The entire Nation will be able to listen in on the funeral services for William Howard Taft tomorrow through any one of the radio stations of the two major broadcasting chains, the National Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia System.

It will be probably the most extensive hookup of radio stations ever arranged for the broadcast of a funeral and the second time such a program originated in Washington. The services for William Jennings Bryan were carried over the radio from the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

The broadcast will begin with a description of the scene at the Capitol, where the former President will lie in state from 9 to 12 o'clock. This will be carried over the Columbia System only. The announcers will then describe the procession from the Capitol to All Souls' Unitarian Church.

As the parade approaches the church the historic Paul Revere bells will be rung for the radio listeners. The NBC account of the procession will go on the air at 1:40 o'clock, while the Columbia announcers will describe it from the time it leaves the Capitol.

The entire sermon of the Rev. G. B. Pierce, Mr. Taft's pastor, will be carried by both networks along with the other portions of the church service.

At the conclusion of the funeral Columbia will pick up a concert by the National Cathedral choir, composed of men and boys.

sist primarily of a reading of verses and no eulogy will be included.

Military Escort to Take Part.

From the church to the cemetery, the body will be taken in a motor hearse followed by President and Mrs. Hoover, members of the Taft family and the entire funeral party. At the Fort Myer entrance to the cemetery the procession will be rejoined by the large military escort, which will take part in the final honors at the grave.

A military escort will accompany the body to Arlington National Cemetery. There he who rose to the Presidency and Chief Justiceship will rest among the dead of the wars, as was his expressed wish. He will be the first man who was President to be buried at Arlington.

Charles P. and Robert A. Taft, sons of the departed jurist, joined their widowed mother and their sister yesterday while citizens eyewhere were mourning. With Col. Campbell Hodges, military aid to the President, they completed funeral arrangements.

The lower floor of the Taft residence was filled with floral offerings. A basket of tulips, crocuses and yellow spring blooms sent by Mr. and Mrs. Hoover fronted the fireplace of Mr. Taft's study.

Church Sends Lilies.

A huge basket of lilies was sent by the congregation of the Unitarian Church. Since 1906 he had worshipped with them, and only a few years ago he laid the corner stone of the handsome church, which is at Sixteenth and Harvard streets northwest.

The plot where Mr. Taft's body will rest was selected yesterday by Mrs. Taft and her three children. It is on the side of a wooded hill looking over the winding Potomac River and toward the Capital in which he worked so long and so well. It is situated not a mile to the northeast of the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. A magnificent monument is contemplated.

The burial plot is 50 feet square and surrounded by great oaks. It is near the grave where Robert Todd Lincoln, son of the Civil War President, is buried. From it spreads a vista of Washington, with the Potomac River and the gleaming white marble of the Lincoln Memorial in the foreground. Directly before the grave will soon be a memorial plaza marking the Virginia end of the Arlington Memorial Bridge now nearing completion.

Flags Fly at Half-Staff.

Col. Hodges accompanied the Taft brothers to the cemetery in a White House automobile. Mrs. Taft and Mrs. Helen Taft Manning, both heavily veiled, were driven in their own car. It was the only time during the day they left their home.

America's mourning was symbolized by the flag fluttering at half-staff from atop the White House. Similarly throughout the States and Territories of the Nation, and on vessels of war and peace in home and foreign ports, did the flag express the public's sorrow as proclaimed by President Hoover.

The sympathy of the world was brought to Mrs. Taft and her relatives at the home wherein her husband rested in death. Throughout the day friends and officials visited. All the while, too, messengers arrived with condolences, some in short sad sentences of regret and others in eulogy of the late jurist's talents and achievements.

President and Wife Call.

The President and Mrs. Hoover had called at the home shortly after death took Mr. Taft at 5:15 p. m., yesterday. Vice President Curtis returned to the city from Indianapolis as son as he heard, and conveyed his respects to the widow. His sister, Mrs. Dolly Curtis Gann, was among the visitors, as was Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, the widow of America's war-time President, who succeeded Mr. Taft in the White House.

The widow of Theodore Roosevelt, who preceded the late jurist as President, telegraphed her "sincerest sympathy" from Oyster Bay, New York.

The regrets of the Canadian government were expressed by Minister Massey in person and in telegrams from Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Lord Willingdon, governor general. Italian sorrow was conveyed by Ambassador de Martino.

Secretary Mellon, Speaker Longworth, Senator Fess, of Ohio; Senator Goff, of West Virginia, and Representative Dyer, of Missouri, were among the numerous visitors.

Notables Sent Sympathy.

Secretary and Mrs. Stimson in London cabled their "deepest sympathy and love" to Mrs. Taft. Messages also arrived from Gov. Myers Y. Cooper, of Ohio; Gov. John G. Richards, of South Carolina; Elihu Root and Adolph S. Ochs, of New York; Senator McKellar, of Tennessee; John Grier Hibben, President of Princeton University; Gen. and Mrs. Frank McCoy and Mrs. Ernstine Schumann-Heink.

Assembled in worship, the congregation of the free synagogue in New York expressed its sorrow in a message signed by Rabbis Stephen S. Wise and Sidney E. Goldstein.

Special arrangements have been made to enable Chief Justice Hughes and Justices McReynolds, Butler and Stone to be back in Washington on Tuesday, after attending the funeral of Justice Edward T. Sanford at Knoxville, Tenn., today. The Supreme Court delegation accompanied Mrs. Sanford on the funeral train carrying the body South. It will remain in Knoxville only long enough to attend the burial services.

All Members to Attend.

The entire court membership will attend Mr. Taft's funeral, along with representatives from the Government departments and foreign nations.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, and Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, were prepared last night to introduce resolutions for Congress to adjourn out of respect to the former President. Whether the Senate would do so today was uncertain, however.

SERMON EULOGIZES CHARACTER OF TAFT

SANFORD IS EXTOLLED

Picturing William Howard Taft as "a mountain of magnificent character in a range of pigmies," Dr. Robert Johnston paid eloquent tribute to the memory of the former President at morning services yesterday in St. John's Church, of which Mrs. Taft is a member. Dr. Johnston also extolled Supreme Court Justice Edward T. Sanford, whose death occurred a few hours before Mr. Taft's.

"Judge Sanford represented in his person all the gentleness and firmness of a good man," he said, "one who was of the great company of quiet, unobtrusive citizens who preserved the atmosphere of the old American tradition. His passing is obscured in a measure by the departure hence of another, but he is remembered before God."

In discussing Mr. Taft's contributions to civilization, Dr. Johnston said "today we should thank God for his character, and not forget the saying of Ecclesiastes: 'Let us now praise famous men and our fathers that begat us.'"

Was Outstanding Figure.

"There is nothing so unworthy as a mind which can not appreciate greatness," he continued. "There is no handicap so severe and no disease so deadly as a prejudice which blinds to greatness. There is no poison so shameful as the poison of hate, which shuts our mind to the great men of our age. Our age is unhappily an industrial one—the captains of industry, with their immense wealth and their greater power, are the heroes of the populace. Achievement in a worldly sense has become too completely identified with financial and an equivalent success.

"William Howard Taft stands out greatly as a mountain of magnificent character in a range of pigmies rich in golden ore. All the qualities which have made the Christian name powerful in the world were found in varying degrees but were found in him.

"Simple and sincere to the distraction of politicians; humble in highest office to the amazement of lovers of the cheap footlight on the human stage; truthful to the confounding of the partisans of puny statecraft; loyal to the truth he saw, to the irritation of those who cared more for opinion than for truth. An American patriot but a true servant of the world, a lover of man, and a servant of the most high God.

Lived Nobly Among Men.

"Ecclesiastically, he was associated with a body of men who have set as their only standard the exaltation of good character—and right nobly he embodied and set forth his truth. He won to not a few of the graces set forth and exalted in the Lord Christ, and in him that Christ will recognize His own. And to have lived so nobly among men is no small achievement.

"To have held high office without rebuke, to have gladly stepped down to the lower rooms (as men call them lower), in the quietness of a professional chair, to have lived happily and set forth the glory of life, to have ascended again the seat of power as Chief Justice, and to have maintained throughout it all the same sane equilibrium, is no little thing in the sight of God, is no little thing in the sight of men, and no little gift to our children.

"That we have seen it is no small privilege. As one who feared, as fear God he did, as one who worked righteousness, as indeed he did, he is accepted of God.

"And those who loved the tender human being that he was are comforted in the memory of a blameless life and in the fact that they will, in the generations to come, call the Nation happy that possessed such a son."

THOUSANDS GATHER 'ABOUT TAFT'S HOME

dence that the long feared death of the former Chief Justice had come.

Streets surrounding the corner upon which the residence stands were lined with parked cars. Sightseeing buses moved slowly along the opposite side of the house from the room where the body rested. A group of photographers and newspaper men and a police guard stood sentry over the front entrance from early in the morning until dark. Representatives of the official life in Washington of which Mr. Taft had been a part for so many years came and went.

Ambassadors, senators, representatives, Cabinet officers, associates of Mr. Taft on the Supreme Court bench and attaches of the court, Washington officials and those who knew the former President and Chief Justice only in private life left their cards. A few went in. Senator Fess and Speaker Longworth, natives with Mr. Taft of Ohio, entered and expressed personally to the family their sympathy. So did a few others. But mostly they did not go past the door.

Spanish Nobles Scorn Republican Movement

Madrid, March 9 (A.P.).—Centre de Accion Nobiliaria, which is composed of a portion of the aristocracy, held a session today under the leadership of the Duke of Almenara Alta, at which the regime of King Alfonso was praised. Plans were discussed for holding further meetings to express faith in the monarch.

A message was sent the king saying the members of the organization were disgusted at the antimonarchy campaign being waged by some elements, and that they wish to express wholehearted allegiance to him.

Mrs. Taft Carries Calmly Strain of Husband's Death

Serene Philosophy of Late Jurist Stands Her in Good Stead Now; She Always Had Faith in His Destiny.

Friends of Mrs. William Howard Taft note that she appears to be displaying some of her husband's calm philosophy in the fortitude with which she bears up under the strain of his death. Several weeks ago she came to a realization of the seriousness of her husband's condition and in a measure had prepared to face the end.

Throughout the long weeks of his illness after his return from Asheville, she had retained hope that he would recover, but a week or so ago the weakened state of her husband and the long hours that he lingered in a semiconscious condition forced her to the understanding that death was not far away.

She took a ride daily to obtain a few hours in the fresh air, but most of her time she spent in the sick room, watching for hours while he tossed restlessly. A few times he became conscious enough to recognize her and call for "Nellie," the name by which he referred to her through the years of their married life.

Even in the early years of their married life, Mrs. Taft believed her husband destined for the Presidency and she took a keen interest in politics. Throughout the early years of his career she brought all of her tact and wit to aid him in the posts he filled in various parts of the world.

One of the scenic beauties of Washington is due to Mrs. Taft. She formed a friendship with the royal family of Japan on one of the journeys she took with her husband while they were in the Philippines. One of their children became ill in Japan, and during her stay she became much interested in Japanese customs. After returning to the Philippines she did much to introduce floral landscaping.

Upon her return to Washington with Mr. Taft the Japanese government presented the United States with the Japanese cherry trees which now encircle the Tidal Basin in Potomac Park. The first trees died, but Japan sent a second shipment. The cherry blossom festival in Washington now has become a nationally known event and the park noted for its beauty at that time.

Evincing a keen interest in social events, Mrs. Taft nevertheless devoted most of her time to domestic affairs. During recent years she has done her own marketing and actively directed the affairs of the household.

Atlantic City Vice Quiz Witnesses Protected

Atlantic City, N. J., March 9 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Under a policy of strict secrecy imposed to avert attempts at intimidation, witnesses were subpenaed today to appear before the grand jury this week, when indictments are expected in Atlantic City's vice and graft investigation.

Judge Herbert C. Bartlett, of Vineland, special prosecutor appointed for the investigation, issued orders to withhold the names of the 20 witnesses listed to testify. He announced, after conferring with his assistant, Linus A. Kelly, that he desired to protect them from threats or reprisals.

2-Year-Old Is Drowned In Rain Puddle in Yard

Stumbling into a rain puddle, Leonard J. Frye, colored, 2 years old, was drowned yesterday afternoon in the rear yard of his home at 1433 Morris road southeast.

The child was said to have been playing in the yard when he fell into the shallow pool of water made by recent heavy rains. The pool was about 10 inches in depth. The child's mother, Jessie Frye, who had been working in the kitchen, found her baby unconscious in the water after she called him and received no reply. The baby was taken to Casualty Hospital, but was pronounced dead.

Rome Recalls Memories Of Visit From Taft in 1903

Few Vatican Ecclesiastics Remember Time When He Came to Settle Vexing Religious Problems Created by Philippine Annexation.

Rome, March 9 (A.P.).—The news of former President Taft's death produced a profound impression here, especially at the Vatican, where his name is still recalled with respect, although most of those he dealt with in 1903 regarding settlement of religious questions in the Philippines are dead long ago.

First among them to go were Pope Leo XIII, his secretary of state, Cardinal Rampollo, and his assistant secretary of state, who later became Pope Benedict XV. The last among them to die was Cardinal Merry del Val, who was then 38 years old, a relatively young prelate.

There are still some old Vatican ecclestastics who remember with pleasure Mr. Taft's jovial, frank, dignified personality and the charming manner which enabled him after three months of patient negotiations to settle one of the most important problems which arose from the Spanish-American war.

Among these is Pietro Gasparri, who then was not a cardinal, but a simple titular bishop. He always felt admiration for Mr. Taft, whom he considered one of the most lovable of men, with a superior and lofty mind.

In connection with Mr. Taft's death it was recalled at the Vatican that his mission had a thorough diplomatic character, which gave him even greater powers than those usually conferred upon an ambassador.

Mr. Taft also presented a letter from President Roosevelt to Pope Leo, besides a present consisting of eight volumes of Roosevelt's literray works, which are preserved in the Vatican library. Acting as an ambassador, Mr. Taft called upon the other ambassadors accredited to the Holy See.

EMPTY PEW IS SAD REMINDER OF TAFT

Dr. U. G. B. Pierce Expresses Sorrow of All Souls' Unitarian Church.

MANY ATTEND SERVICES

(Associated Press.)

The pew from which William Howard Taft worshipped for many years at All Souls' Unitarian Church remained unoccupied yesterday as a solemn reminder that the most distinguished member of the congregation had passed on.

Otherwise, the simple morning service was crowded. Many bowed their heads on passing the empty pew.

Mr. Taft had been a constant attendant at the church from the time he joined it while Secretary of War 24 years ago until he was stricken fatally several weeks ago. In recent years he was accustomed to sit in the front seat on the left.

It was always understood that this pew was to be left for him, and yesterday, while he lay dead in his Wyoming avenue home, the custom of years remained unbroken. Those who could not find seats in the auditorium mounted to the gallery.

Acceptance of Real Religion.

Voicing the sorrow of the congregation at the passing of the former President and Chief Justice, Dr. Ulysses G. Pierce, the pastor, said it "was inspiration to know that we had in our midst a man who exemplified to the fullest extent the difference between counterfeit and real religion."

"His religion was the real coin that is accepted at its face value in every land," he said. "A noble spirit has been called from our midst into the invisible and our hearts are touched with sorrow at his passing."

Dr. Pierce, who has been Mr. Taft's pastor since 1906, will conduct the funeral services in the church Tuesday.

Favorite With Children.

"Touch their wounds with healing and give them strength to bear their sorrow," he said. "May the angels of peace descend on the silent home and saddened hearts."

After the service, Dr. Pierce in an informal statement described Mr. Taft as "a rare specimen of religion at its best, combining with remarkable breadth of view a profound sense of devotion."

The broad smile and contagious chuckle of the late jurist made him a favorite with the children at the church. Usually he entered as they were being dismissed from Sunday school and he always had a cheerful word for them. Recently he spoke to the children at a Sunday school service.

Dr. Pierce said Mr. Taft had shown great interest in the work of the church and laid the corner stone of the present edifice six years ago. He also was president of the International Congress of Religion.

Germans Want Turks' Lumber.

Adapazar, Turkey, March 9 (A.P.).—German interests have been negotiating with the Turkish government for timber rights in the vast unexploited forests of this Black Sea region. The Germans say they are prepared to put $7,500,000 into the project and to build a railway from this city to Bolou.

FEDERAL BUSINESS TO BE SUSPENDED

Half-Holiday May Be Ordered by Government in Respect to Taft.

COURTS WILL ADJOURN

Symbolizing its profound grief at the death of William Howard Taft, with flags at half staff, the curtailment of social activities and the partial cessation of business, Washington officially will devote tomorrow afternoon as a period of mourning for the late Chief Justice.

The White House, through George Akerson as secretary to President Hoover, announced last night that in all probability a half-holiday will be ordered by the Federal Government in all its departments and subordinate groups to begin at noon tomorrow. A definite announcement is to be made at the Executive Mansion at 10 o'clock this morning.

The Senate and the House of Representatives will assemble and immediately adjourn today until Wednesday.

Announcing that the District government customarily conforms its plans to those of the Federal Government, Commissioner Sidney F. Taliaferro declared last night that the District in all probability will observe the same hours of mourning as decreed by the White House, and that the District Commissioners likely will consider the matter this morning after the official announcement by the Federal Government.

Courts are preparing to observe a longer period of mourning. Municipal Court will be closed today and tomorrow, according to announcement by Judge George C. Aukam.

The District Supreme Court will take a recess tomorrow that may be advanced to include today as well, action that would postpone until Wednesday the scheduled trial to Edward L. Dohany, wealthy California oil operator, on an indictment charging him with bribing a Cabinet officer to secure a lease on the naval oil reserve at Elk Hills, Calif.

Justice Wendell Phillips Stafford, acting chief justice of the Supreme Court, declared last night that while a recess would be taken tomorrow, as the day of the funeral, no decision on a recess also today would be made until a meeting of members of the court this morning.

No plans had been made by District schools for paying honor to Mr. Taft, according to Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools. He declared last night that he expected to await an announcement by the District Government before considering what action the schools should take. He pointe dout that the schools may be closed for a certain period tomorrow, or that exercises may be held in the schools as a mark of reverence.

President's Boy Scout Address Is Threatened

(Associated Press.)

Plans for President Hoover to address a meeting commemorating the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scouts of America tonight were threatened last night by the death of former President Taft.

At the White House it was announced that President Hoover was canceling all engagements, but it was indicated that he might make the Boy Scout speech from his study in the White House. Plans had been made to broadcast the address. The meeting was planned to initiate a five-year expansion program of the organization.

Taft's Favorite Bible Verse Found in Micah

(Associated Press.)

Here is the Bible verse which Dr. Ulysses G. B. Pierce, pastor of William Howard Taft, believes to have been his favorite:

"What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?"

World Air Trophy Awarded to Coste

League in Paris Honors James H. Doolittle in U. S. Recognition.

Paris, March 9 (A.P.).—The International League of Aviators, whose headquarters are here, has awarded its international trophy for 1929 to Dieudonne Coste, French ace of the air, for the finest series of aviation performances during the year.

The national trophy for the United States was given to James H. Doolittle, formerly a noted Army flyer and now working for a civil aviation company.

Coste, in addition to holding the world's record for long distance flights in a straight line, set up several new records for closed-circuit flights.

AUTO LIQUID KILLS FOUR SIOUX INDIANS

300 ILL IN OKLAHOMA

Devils Lake, N. D., March 9 (A.P.).—Four Sioux Indians are dead and three others are in a serious condition as the result of drinking what officials said they believed was an antifreeze automobile radiator solution at a dance near Tokio, N. D., on the Fort Totten Indian reservation last night.

The dead:

Francis Razett, 28; Elbow Woods, S. D.; Jerome Onehouse, 28, Fort Totten; Jerome Albert, 38, Fort Totten; Mike Goodhouse, 24, Fort Totten.

Those in a hospital here and who may die are George Ross, 20; William Wanata, 20, and Francis Demars.

James Jackson, a member of the party, is missing and it is feared he may have succumed while en route to his home following the dance.

Matthias Taylor, a Sioux Indian, was held by the authorities for questioning. He is accused of stealing a quantity of anti-freeze compound from a store in Tokio.

Johnson City, Tenn., March 9 (A.P.).—Fifty cases of partial paralysis, in a form which so far has thwarted all efforts to diagnose, were reported today to health officers of Washington, by Carter and Unicoi Counties.

Dr. S. S. Moody, Washington County health officer, said that 33 cases had been reported in his county. He was investigating "the possibility that poison alcohol is the cause."

In Carter County, Dr. E. W. King reported nineteen.

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 9 (A.P.).—The cause of a paralysis-like malady, which has stricken hundreds of residents of Oklahoma City, tonight remained a mystery, but physicians and chemists viewed the situation with optimism as the condition of some patients under observation improved.

Dr. Walter H. Miles, city health director, reiterated his belief that the strange disease could be attributed directly to the drinking of Jamaica ginger, and expressed the belief that danger, for the present, at least, had passed.

The city health director said he believed the maximum number of those stricken with the disease could be established roughly at 300.

Chemists worked all day seeking to establish the drug which is causing the attacks, but still were unable to isolate any of the suspected drugs. Several physicians said the cases they had observed resembled lead poisoning, but no trace of this element could be isolated by the tests.

Brickbats & Bouquets

By JAMES HAY, JR.

BY what weird and irresistible magic was the crash of the Senate coalition effected?

Some declare that Mr. Grundy, after midnight conferences with the Machethian witches of politics, said to a panic-stricken Old Guard: "Infirm of purpose, give me the dagger" And thereupon, by appropriate instructions to certain constituents of sundry members of the coalition, stabbed the combine to the heart.

* * * *

BUT there is yet another explanation of modern history's most blood-curdling debacle. It goes like this:

Hark, from the far West the echo of an imperious voice with a New England accent! It is the voice which ensnared those insurgent Republicans who reversed their votes.

It is the voice of no less a person than Calvin Coolidge who, in an inspired moment, gave utterance to a sentence so full of peace, harmony and the honey of sweet accord that the once militant legislators changed their battle cries to crooning lullabys more seductive than the radio singing of Rudy Vallee.

Mark the drama of the situation. In Washington the coalition had the so-called high protection tariff going full tilt down hill. Apparently no power on earth could prevent the runaway catastrophe. The Old Guard, headed by the indomitable but desperate Mr. Smoot, looked for all the world like a very small number of very little boys whistling merrily to keep up their courage in the graveyard of their hopes.

THEN it was that Calvin Coolidge mounted the parapet of the Coolidge Dam in Arizona, and, in telling the people of the Southwest how to enrich their territory, counseled them to avoid all bickering and disputation and to read the passage in the Bible which says: "Agree with thy adversaries quickly."

"Ha!" cried some of the insurgent senators in our fair city. "Across the wide open spaces formerly known as the wild and wolly West comes the voice of the Old Master! Who knows the political game better than he, who says he is out of it forever? If he says a quick peace with one's adversaries is the big medicine, big medicine it is for us!"

* * * *

STRAIGHTWAY, full of hypnotic harmony, they went forth and made peace with their tariff adversaries, and the Old Guard smiled for the first time in many weeks; and the graveyard of its hopes became the fertile field of the higher tariff duties for which it had yearned even as the dusty deer panteth for the water brook, and the coalition, buckling at the knees, waist and neck, slumped silently, sadly and surely into the mire of that political dissolution from which coalitions are seldom, if ever, rebuilt.

This explanation may or may not be true, but the fact remains that immediately after Mr. Coolidge emphasized the efficacy of promptly agreeing with one's adversaries, the reversible insurgents did a whole lot of high-speed agreeing with their adversaries.

QUIET SESSION SEEN FOR MINE WORKERS

LEWIS REMAINS SILENT

Indianapolis, March 9 (A.P.).—The thirty-first consecutive constitutional convention of the United Mine Workers of America, which opens here tomorrow, is likely to be a peaceful, proadministration session if the calm that marked the spirit of the advance delegations today is an indication.

The convention will be held in historical old Tomlinson Hall, scene of miners' conventions for nearly a quarter of a century. In this hall John L. Lewis, international president of the union, and his predecessors, have waged many battles against insurgent elements within the organization. Tomorrow, however, those opposed to the Lewis regime are expected to assemble in Springfield, Ill., where a rump convention has been called by a group that would depose the present administration.

With approximately 500 delegates in the city, many of whom appeared at headquarters to make adjustments in their credentials and to discuss matters with their fellows, no clouds had appeared on the horizon to threaten the Lewis administration. Representative delegates, when asked for predictions regarding the forthcoming convention, expressed the opinion that it would support the present officers.

Lewis, busily engaged in completing routine matters prior to the opening session at 10 o'clock tomorrow, maintained his policy of declining to discuss matters likely to come up before the convention, and said he had decided to make no statement prior to the session.

Special trains from the anthracite region brought several hundred delegates today, among them John Boylan, president of District No. 1 of Scranton, Pa., center of the anthracite industry.

One of the first matters to come before the convention will be the annual joint report of Lewis and other international officers. In this report it is expected that the state of the coal industry will be discussed, and the attitude of the administration toward the insurgent group meeting at Springfield will be set forth.

DELAY IN MARKET CLOSING IS ASKED

DEMAND HELD EVIDENT

Postponement of the closing of the Center Market until the time arrives for the construction of the Department of Justice Building is asked of the Treasury Department in a letter to Assistant Secretary Perry K. Heath by three representatives. It had been planned to close the market by July 1.

The missive is signed by Representative R. Walton Moore, of Virginia; Representative Stephen W. Gambrill, of Maryland, and Representative Frank L. Bowman, of West Virginia. The latter is a member of the District committee.

The letter reads in part:

"Very accurate statistics which we have obtained not only show that the revenue from the operation of the market is very much in excess of expenditures, but that many hundred farmers, some of whom were at one time accommodated at the Farmers' Market, are now afforded facilities at the Center Market, which they will be deprived of when the market is closed. In is estimated that during the last calendar year the sales of produce by those farmers at the Center Market amounted to about $3,000,000. It goes without saying that when they are compelled to lease facilities at privately operated markets, even assuming that such facilities will be available, which is not the case, they will be unable to dispose of their produce as cheaply, with consequent detriment to the local Washington buyers.

"While we realize that the market must necessarily at some time give way to the execution of the program of Government building construction, nevertheless we are sure you will agree with us that it should be allowed to remain in use until the land is actually needed, and particularly in view of the fact that there is a prospect of ample facilities being soon provided at a publicly owned and operated market elsewhere within the limits of the city."

Treasury Surplus Appears in Danger

(Associated Press.)

With a dwindling surplus in Government revenue indicated for the end of the present fiscal year, Treasury officials are watching closely the first quarter's tax on 1929 measures to determine whether receipts in President Hoover's first full fiscal year will be adversely affected by the stock market collapse last fall.

The surplus of $225,000,000 indicated when the executive submitted his first budget to Congress last December already has been reduced. If Congress grants the President's request made Saturday for $100,000,000 additional for the Farm Board, the surplus will be further reduced to $45,000,000.

This margin between a deficit and a surplus is so small that even with income tax payments as great as received last year it would be wiped out, and the larger receipts expected before the collapse would be required to balance the budget.

FLAMES MENACE TOWN IN VIRGINIA

fax County. Last Wednesday he voted for the levy.

Under the direction of Robert Buckley, residents of the town dug trenches under the railway track before the Fairfax firemen arrived, so that hose could be stretched from the water source under the rails and thus not hold up a train that was due.

William Bennett, Vienna fireman, and a volunteer from Fairfax, were slightly injured in battling the flames. Mr. Bennett suffered a broken ankle. Both were treated by Chief J. H. Beattie of the McLean department.

The fire drew a large crowd, attracted from miles around, and it was late in the afternoon before the excitement had died down.

Mr. Weaver said he had only $10,000 insurance on his property.

Boy Is Attacked by Dog.

Attacked by a dog while walking near his home at 902 Girard street northeast early last night, 10-year-old Richard Wells, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Wells, was bitten three times on the thigh. He was taken to Casualty Hospital and treated by Dr. J. Rogers Young, being dismissed later.

HOPES FOR PARLEY TOLD BY M'DONALD

HE SCOFFS AT FAILURE

New York, March 9 (A.P.).—Broadcasting from his country home at Chequers, England, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald today said the five-power naval conference at London was on the road to negotiation of its difficulties. He said he believed it would "set the face of the world toward the dawning day of universal peace."

In an address broadcast in the United States and Canada by the Columbia Broadcasting System, Mr. MacDonald told his listeners that he did not entertain the thought of failure.

"All is well," he said. "We have been delayed three weeks, but we have used the time well in clearing up differences between delegations. M. Briand and his fellow delegates returned Thursday evening and were hard at work Friday morning. Conferences are continuing over the week-end. The thought of failure is not entertained in St. James' Palace. Our American friends may be of as good hopes and heart as we are. We shall not give up until human ingenuity and patience are exhausted, and that is a long way off yet.

Conference Passes First Stage.

"Those pessimist friends of ours who find so much pleasure in deep mourning told you you would hear little more of us. They do not know us. We have worked hard, but not nearly so hard as we should have done had there been any serious chance of the conference failing."

He declared the conference had passed the first stage wherein the delegates discussed understandings with one another. The second stage, he said, was discussion of actual programs.

"Of course," he went on, "when we reach the inevitable point where programs have to be discussed, we are on dangerous ground. The program is the task of our beliefs in peace. When trying to adjust programs, conference after conference has failed, but there is no way around them. We must cut our way through them."

He said the technical experts would "never get us over and through that ground, but in London the last word rests with civilians and every one of us is determined to get an agreement, an agreement not with two or three of us but an agreement between the whole five of us."

Must Leave Fear Behind.

In conclusion the prime minister said:

"The agreement will carry us on until 1936 and then the troublesome things which we are now facing will have been settled and whoever will be in our places will have an open road to proceed toward the cherished goal of nations and arms.

"It may not be our happy lot to get as far as some of us would like at this conference. Confidence in peace and in judicial settlement is still a tender plan. We have to get our inheritance of militarists, rivalry and nationalist distrust and fear well behind us, and if we do that, as I believe we are doing, we can, when we put our names to the agreement, lift up our hearts in thankfulness that at the very least we have been able to set the face of the world toward the dawning day of universal peace. Good-by, good-by."

11-Year Term Given Killer in Arkansas

Man, 22, Is Found Guilty of Slaying Father of Sweetheart.

Nashville, Ark., March 9 (A.P.).—Cecil Killian, 22, was found guilty by a jury today of second-degree for the slaying of his sweetheart's father, B. G. Kesterson, last November, and was sentenced to serve eleven years in the State Penitentiary.

The jury was given the case at 6 p. m. yesterday, and at 3 p. m. today returned a verdict reducing a first-degree murder charge to second-degree murder.

Killiam, who was to have left for the State Penitentiary to begin serving a one-year term for liquor law violation, shot and killed Kesterton after an argument, witnesses said. Kesterson, according to testimony, had insisted that Killian marry his daughter, Savannah, 16, before he went to prison. After the shooting Killian was held for a few days and then taken to prison to begin the liquor sentence.

Fuel Oil Fliers Arrive At Miami From Detroit

Miami, Fla., March 9 (A.P.).—Walter E. Lees and Capt. L. M. Woolson, Detroit aviators, landed here at 4:21 p. m., today, 10 hours and 15 minutes after leaving Detroit in a plane with fuel oil instead of gasoline.

Leaving Detroit at 6:06 a. m., the the aviators made the trip as a test of the fuel-oil burning motor. They said they encountered no difficulties along the way. They plan to remain here about a week, they said.

MARRIES AGAIN

FOURTH WIFE TAKEN BY LOU TELLEGEN

DIVORCED LAST IN 1929

Asbury Park, N. J., March (N.Y.W. N.S.).—Lou Tellegen, actor and former husband of Geraldine Farrar, embarked on his fourth matrimonial venture today. He and Eve Casanova, who has been his leading woman in vaudeville playlets for two seasons, were married by Judge Martin L. Ferris at the latter's home here.

Desiree Tabor, operatta prima donna, was witness for the bride, and the Metropolitan tenor, Rafaelo Diaz, was best man.

The marriage is the culmination of a three-year courtship. The ceremony had been planed for a date immediately after the New York opening of "Escapade," which Mr. Tellegen tried out in Atlantic City. It was delayed ten weks by an accident that befell the actor during the try-out.

He was severely burned Chritsmas Day, whe nhe fell asleep in his hotel suite while smoking a cigarette. The bedclothing caught fire. He was removed to the Park West Hospital in New York, where he was confined until last Thursday.

Mr. Tellegen, the son of Anna Marie, the Russian dancer, and Gen. Tellegen, a prince of the Greek nobility, first came to this country as leading man for Sarah Bernhardt. He was first married in France, to the Countess Jeanne de Broucherre, from whom he was subsequently divorced. He next married Miss Farrar. His third marriage to Nina Romano, motion picture actress, was terminated in 1929.

Miss Casanova won a divorce from her aviator husband, Minor McLain, in the spring of 1929 on a charge of desertion. Besides appearing in vaudeville with her new husband, she has played with the Theater Guild and in motion pictures.

Body of Capital Woman Sent South for Burial

The body of Mrs. Marian LaGrand Adkins, Washington woman who was killed in an automobile accident near Petersburg, Va., Saturday, was shipped to her former home in Greensboro, N. C., yesterday, according to dispatches received here. Mrs. Adkins is believed to have been the wife of A. Howard Adkins, 1474 Columbia road northwest, where it was learned last night that a young man of this name had departed hurriedly for Virginia.

Miss Mary A. Mayes, of Greensboro, received minor cuts and bruises when theh machine, driven by Mrs. Adkins, is reported to have skidded and overturned as it passed a bus about 20 miles from Petersburg. The two young women were driving to Greensboro, the home of Mrs. Adkins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard G. Gilmer.

Rear Adm. Carr Dies During Sleep

Heart Disease Is Fatal to Retired Navy Officer; Found by Wife.

New London, Conn., March 9 (A.P.). Rear Admiral Clarence Alfred Carr, United States Navy, retired, died during the night in his sleep at his home here.

His body was found today by his wife.

The rear admiral's death was due to heart disease. He was 73 years old. During the World War he was in charge of the engineering work at the Philadelphia Navy Yard. He retired from the Navy in 1920.

He was born in Crawford County, Pa., and in 1879 was graduated at Annapolis. In 1898 he was married here to Miss Blanche Lanman, a daughter of the late Rear Admiral Joseph Lanman, of Norwich. Burial will be in Yantic Cemetery here.

WHAT A WHALE OF A DIFFERENCE JUST A FEW CENTS MAKE

SPECULATION IS RIFE ON COURT SELECTION

COOLIDGE IS MENTIONED

Although President Hoover will not turn his attention to the selection of a successor to Justice Edward Terry Sanford until after the rites are held for former Chief Justice William Howard Taft and the Tennessee jurist, speculation as to the next appointee to the Supreme Court has already begun.

Among the names that loom prominently among the prospective candidates are those of United States Circuit Judge John J. Parker, of Charlotte, N. C.; Owen J. Roberts, of Philadelphia, special Government oil counsel, and John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for President in 1924.

Others mentioned, though with less prominence, are Senator Borah, of Idaho; Calvin Coolidge; Judge William S. Kenyon, of the Circuit Court, and former Republican senator from Iowa; Attorney General Mitchell, a Minnesota Democrat; Circuit Judge Learned Hand, of New York, and Henry M. Robinson, of Pasadena, Calif., a close friend of the President.

Age Against Parker.

Judge Parker, in many respects, is considered the logical choice. He is regarded as one of the ablest lawyers in the South and figured as a Cabinet contender when Mr. Hoover took office. As Justice Sanford was from Tennessee, Southern Republicans think the President will turn to the South in filling his vacancy.

Although his age—he is 44—is somewhat against him, he is considered the most eligible candidate from the South. Former President Coolidge placed him on the circuit court bench October 3, 1925.

Party leaders believe the Chief Executive will hardly turn to New England for the new justice as Chief Justice Hughes is from New York and Justices Holmes and Brandeis are from Massachusetts. Mr. Mitchell's prospects are considered poor because he is a Democrat, is from Minnesota and is a former law partner of Justice Butler, of St. Paul.

It is doubtful whether Mr. Roberts would accept if nominated as he has indicated that he wishes to devote himself to private practice as soon as he ends his service in the oil cases.

Opposition Is Anticipated.

If the President were to take a Democrat it is believed he would likely offer the place to Mr. Davis as he is considered one of the ablest jurists in the party and also comes from the South.

Senator Borah is believed to have been too long from the court bench to be eligible for the post, besides he was one of the foes of the present Chief Justice when he was up for confirmation. Mr. Robinson would not likely pass the Senate as he has been a banker rather than a lawyer for years.

Justice Sanford belonged to the dominant conservative majority of the Supreme Court. If Mr. Hoover names a successor of the same character he may meet some of the same opposition that greeted Chief Justice Hughes in the Senate.

Cuban, 145 Years Old, Dies of Brief Illness

Havana, Cuba, March 9 (A.P.).—A dispatch to El Pais-Excelsior from Guantanamo today said that Dionisio Rojo, believed to be 145 years of age, died there yesterday after a brief illness.

Rojo was a slave under the Spanish occupation of Cuba.

Justice Hughes and Justices Stone, Butler and McReynolds will be honorary pallbearers. Chief Justice Grafton Geren, of the Tennessee Supreme Court, also will be an honorary pallbearer.

Associates of Justice.

All the active pallbearers selected today are Knoxville attorneys and business men associated with Justice Sanford during his career as an attorney and judge before he left the District Federal bench here in 1923 to become a Supreme Court justice.

Active pall bearers will be: Jay Donaldson, Horace Van Deventer, Carey Spence, Rogers Van Gilder, William Rule, Frank Mead and W. C. Ross.

Honorary, in addition to State and national justices and the entire Knoxville bar James Fowler, Knoxville, former Assistant United States Attorney General; Judge Ben Hicks, of the United States Court of Appeals. Dr. H. A. Morgan, president of the University of Tennessee, Maj. T. S. Webb, probably the oldest member of the Knoxville bar, U. L. McClung, prominent citizen here, Judge George C. Taylor, Federal District judge here, Chancellor Robert M. Jones of the eleventh chancery district, Newell Sanders, Chattanooga, former United States senator and Asa Hazen, Knoxville business man and friend of Justice Sanford.

Utilities to Spend $3,500,000,000.

The public utilities of the country will spend $3,500,000,000, the Commerce Secretary reported, of which $305,000,000 already has been spent by the electric, gas and street railway companies, representing an increase of 12 per cent over the first quarter of 1929.

Highway work, the Commerce Department reported, "is being speeded up throughout the country in order that there may be no avoidable delay in pushing operations as soon as weather conditions permit."

As for Federal activity, it was stated that ten of the larger public building projects will be opened to bidding this month, involving an outlay of $7,000,000. The Army housing program is being pressed, the report continued; flood control and rivers and harbors work is being accelerated, and naval docks construction is advancing.

Repair Work Is Urged.

Detailing the activity of Federal custodians in pushing alterations and repair work on Government structures, Secretary Lamont said, "Should this example be followed by more private owners of dwellings, commercial buildings and industrial plants, it would provide employment for several weeks to tens of thousands of workers on needed repairs to structures that should be preserved."

The legislation before the Senate commerce committee on which its hearings will be held are bills by Senator Wagner (Democrat), of New York, to set up Federal employment agencies in cooperation with the States and to establish an advance employment planning program.

Jersey Justices Object To Burning Foxes' Ears

Cape May, N. J., March 9 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—South Jersey justices of the peace have petitioned the State legislature for revision of the law requiring them to burn the severed ears of slain foxes in their office stoves.

The law provides a bounty of $3 for each fox killed, payable only after the animal's pelt is brought before a justice. The return made by the justice must certify that he personally cut off the ears and burned them in order to prevent the same pelt being used to collect more than one bounty. Seventeen foxes were killed in Cape May County last month.

Sodden Cliffs Imperil Inhabitants of Madeira

Funchal, Madeira, March 9 (A.P.).—Fearing that the sodden cliffs encircling Madeira may topple over as a result of the heavy rainfall during the last 48 hours, all residents near the foot of the precipices have been evacuated.

The storm, which broke over the island Friday night, continued unabated today, causing much suffering from exposure and want among the poorer classes. The gale blew with such violence that all seacraft were compelled to leave the beaches for sheltered spots. One hundred and eighty tourists from the liner Laurentic were unable to get aboard the vessel and spent another night ashore.

Northern Natal Swept By Damaging Floods

Capetown, Union of South Africa, March 9 (A.P.).—Heavy rains in northern Natal last night caused the Little and Great Bushman Rivers to overflow, flooding the Estcourt and Weihen districts. Eleven were reported drowned, but the exact figures were undetermined.

A massive bridge over the river near the Town of Estcourt was swept away. One resident disappeared with his wife and family, and every trace of their home. Reports said other residents living nearby were swept away by the torrent. Railroad communication between Natal to the Transvaal was halted.

Advance Guard of Byrd's Party Is Out of Antarctic

Dunedin, New Zealand, March 10 (Monday) (A.P.).—Six members of the Byrd Antarctic expedition arrived here today by motor from Invercargill, having landed at Stewart Island Saturday from the Whaler Larsen.

The members of the party are Ashley McKinley, aerial photographer, who accompanied Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd on the flight over the South Pole; Joseph T. Rucker, motion-picture photographer; Russel Owen, New York Times correspondent; Arthur Walden, who was in charge of the dog teams; Martin Ronne, sailmaker, and Paul Siple, Boy Scout.

All the adventurers were deeply thankful that the period spent in the Antarctic isolation was over. All were extremely reticent, saying it was for their commander alone to make a statement. Owen commented on the good fortune that attended the expedition. None had been left behind in an icy grave, and none seriously injured.

Thomas D. Morris Rites Announced

Services for University of Tennessee Treasurer Set for Today.

Services will be held at Wright's funeral chapel, 1337 Tenth street northwest, at 2 o'clock today for Thomas D. Morris, treasurer and business manager of the University of Tennessee, who died suddenly at Knoxville yesterday. Dr. Samuel Jackson Porter, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will officiate.

After spending his boyhood here, Mr. Morris, who was 58 years old, went to Knoxville at the age of 18 to become stenographer in the office of the president of the university. He had continued with the institution for 40 years, rising from that lowly position to the important post he held at the time of his death.

Mr. Morris will be buried in the Morris family plot in Glenwood Cemetery here, where his parents, Prof. and Mrs. Cincinnatus Morris, already lie buried. He is survived by a brother, Ernest C. Morris, of 2726 Woodley place northwest, who is with the War Department, and a sister, Mrs. Emily McDonald, of 4322 Fifteenth street northwest.

P. H. O'DONNOGHUE RITES.

Requiem Mass Will Be Said Tomorrow at St. Joseph's Church.

Patrick H. O'Donoghue, 55 years old, who died suddenly Saturday night of acute indigestion, will be buried tomorrow morning in Mount Olivet Cemetery. Mr. O'Donoghue was fatally stricken in front of his home, 804 C street northeast.

He was born in this city and had lived here all his life. He was a member of the Washington Lodge of Elks.

The funeral will be held from his late residence and at St. Joseph's Church, where a requiem mass will be said at 9:15 o'clock.

In addition to his widow he is survived by seven children, John A., Mrs. Sabina Tydings, Theresa M., Catherine, Patrick, jr., Clerture and Frances, all of this city.

Four Seriously Injured As Blast Wrecks Store

Chicago, March 9 (A.P.).—Four persons were seriously injued last night in an explosion of gas which wrecked a grocery store on the North Side. A clerk, blown through a display window, suffered injuries which may prove fatal.

Fire department officials said defective wiring had ignited a pocket of gas in the basement of the store and estimated the loss at $50,000. The blast shattered windows for a block around. A minor fire followed the explosion, but it was quickly extinguished.

PNEUMONIA IS FATAL TO DANISH EXPLORER

Prince Frits-Vilhelm Holm Dies in New York at Age of 48.

WAS DIPLOMAT, WRITER

New York, March 9 (A.P.).—Prince Frits-Vilhelm Holm, Danish explorer, journalist and diplomat, died of pneumonia today at the St. Regis Hotel. He was 48 years old.

He was born in Charlottenlund, Denmark, educated in private and government schools and in his youth served in the Royal Danish Navy.

He entered the journalistic field in the Far East, serving in Europe in 1901. He commanded the Holm-Nestorian expedition to Sianfu in 1907-1908, bringing out from the far interior of northwest China a two-ton replica of the famed Nestorian monument of A. D. 781, which was part of the China exhibit in the Metropolitan Museum, 1908-1916, and is now in the Lateran in Rome.

He was a member of a mission to the Vatican in 1916-1917; American war correspondent in northern Europe 1917-1918, and missionary abroad for the Cuban Red Cross 1918-1919. He was brevetted lieutenant general in 1919. In 1921 he was envoy extraordinary of San Marino at the inauguration of President Harding. He was honorary professor under the Mexican government in 1923, and chamberlain to his royal highness, the Count of Caserta, 1923.

In 1919 he married, in New York, Marguerite, lady of grace of the Constantinian Order, a daughter of W. L. Green, president of the American Banknote Co. She died in Paris a year ago.

Just before the prince died he was visited by his cousin, George Peabody Converse, and Mrs. Converse, who is Anita Stewart on the screen. They are his only known relatives.

HAITI COMMISSION SUGGESTS SOLUTION

HOOVER APPROVES PLAN

Port au Prince, Haiti, March 9 (A. P.).—With the approval of President Hoover, the American investigating commission this afternoon issued a statement to the press embodying their suggestions for allaying popular discontent with the rule of President Louis Borno and reinstituting legislative elections in Haiti.

The statement, prepared by the commissioners on the eve of their departure today into the interior of the country, was given out by Counsellor James Clement Dunn.

It suggests that the groups opposing the Borno regime should designate a "neutral and nonpolitical candidate" for the provisional presidency. The provisional president would then call a popular election "at the earliest possible date" and then resign when the new legislature had been constituted. The legislature would in turn elect a president for a normal complete term.

"This plan has the approval of President Hoover, and has been accepted, in principle, by both of the Haitian sides. Details have to be worked out. The commission has no candidate to present," the statement said.

The plan suggested by the commissioners conforms to the Haitian constitution. If adopted it insures legislative election on April 14 and inauguration of the president on May 15.

The Hoover commission left for their first visit to the interior at 6:30 a. m. Weather conditions were perfect.

The commissioners, traveling through a picturesque and hilly country, stopped at Pontbeudet, Mirabelais, Las Cahobas and Thomonde. They stopped for the night at Hinche.

At all these places they received a friendly and enthusiastic reception. At Las Chobas, they watched a special drill by a company of the National Garde in a district wholly officered by Haitians.

FRANCE AND BRITAIN FAIL IN DISCUSSION

the United States will have to be revised upward if there is to be an agreement at all.

A three-power agreement between Great Britain, the United States and Japan, the French foreign minister intimated, would be regarded with benevolence by his government, which must, however, in the absence of sufficient political guarantee of security, stick to its own standards of absolute needs for the defense of France.

The impression is current in well-informed French quarters tonight that M. Briand intends to deliver a powerful speech in the plenary session this week, defending the attitude of France, and that he will then return to Paris if he gets no satisfaction on the security question, leaving Minister of Marine Jacques-Louis Dumesnil to represent France here.

Despite apparently warranted pessimism tonight, it is learned that M. Briand has as yet made no formal proposal to the other powers for a pact of mutual guarantee. He knew before he came to London that the United States would not agree to this. He has now been told that Great Britain will not. The question of American participation in such a pact to the extent of agreeing to consult with other signatories in case of trouble thus seems to be settled in advance in the negative since there will be no such pact.

Another idea of Briand's put forward vaguely, although in no definite form—and report has it that Secretary of State Stimson asked him to put his views in writing—was that the United States should, at least, guarantee not to interfere with a blockade or other measures taken by other contracting parties in furtherance of the aims of a mutual guarantee pact. This issue also seems tonight to have been still born.

In American quarters where an attitude of optimism has been maintained throughout, stress was laid tonight on MacDonald's expression of belief in a five-power treaty in his broadcast. And it was hinted that leading Americans are still of the same opinion.

VICTIM OF PLUNGE TO BE BURIED TODAY

A police surgeon declared death had been instantaneous. Police worked at first on the theory of suicide but were unable to find any evidence of premeditation.

Maj. Hobson was unmarried. He was graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1909. At the outbreak of the World War he was assigned to the Ninth United States Infantry and served throughout in that regiment's unit of the Second Division. He was retired on April 20, 1928.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace P. Hobson, of Summerdale, Tenn., both of whom survive along with two brothers and three sisters.

Robber Loots Register At Gas Station of $50

While the manager, W. B. Couch, was serving customers, a man entered the office of a gasoline station at 16 Massachusetts avenue northwest yesterday afternoon and rifled the cash register. He got between $50 and $60.

Police were given a description of the robber and his arrest was expected momentarily.

"Cure-Alls"

In the dark old days when the human body was a mystery—"miracles" were believed—and quacks grew fat on public ignorance. Consider what you know today. Disease starts in clogged or run-down organs and tissues. Now it is "prevent-alls" instead of "cure-alls." But be careful. Air, sun, vitamins, exercise, rest, hygiene, sanitation, waters, minerals, proteins, fats, carbohydrates, ruffage—each plays a part—a simple natural part. Preventives—all. Know them, and realize that most of the real recoveries from disease today are through their proper use. We specialize in minerals and water—our experience covers four generations. Get our booklet. DR. COOK LIBERATED ON FEDERAL PAROLE

Explorer Dedicates Self to Research as Prison Door Clangs Behind.

REPEATS POLAR CLAIMS

Leavenworth, Kans., March 9 (A. P.).—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, physician-explorer, was released this afternoon on parole from the Federal Penitentiary here.

This morning Dr. Cook was No. 22,118, night interne in the prison hospital. Tonight he was a free man of science and medicine, with his immediate plans dedicated to a study of a cure for narcotic degeneration. His 68 years weighed lightly on his shoulders and his will was set in support of his claims of discovery of the North Pole in 1908.

Prison has meant five years of study, of nights filled with calls for aid from suffering prisoners, but also a period of rest for the explorer.

He came to the Leavenworth Penitentiary from Fort Worth, Tex., where he was sentenced to a fourteen-year nine-month term for using the mails to defraud in connection with an oil promotion scheme. He had served nearly five years of this sentence.

Looks Have Changed Little.

Today, admitting that he had decided not to eat immediately the large beefsteak his mind had conjured, he said he was feeling fit but "not hungry." He weighed approximately the same as when he was "dressed in" at the prison. His cheeks were ruddy. Streaks of gray in his heavy dark hair were not pronounced.

Attired in a light blue suit, a soft white shirt, and well-worn shoes, Dr. Cook smiled at interviewers and said he was going to Chicago.

There he expects to study and work toward creation of a new science, which he called "cellular therapy." His study would be aimed, he said, at a "better understanding of the anatomy, physiology and pathology of all the cells of the body." Such study, he believed, is necessary before physicians can cope with narcotic degeneration. "For five years," he said, "I have lived in close contact with an average of 1,000 of the worst narcotic addicts the world produces. They taught me more than I was able to teach them."

Paroled to Friend.

Dr. Cook expects to be associated in Chicago with Dr. P. F. Thompson, a lifelong friend and fellow explorer. The former prisoner was paroled to Dr. Thompson, who will act as "first friend" and forward monthly reports of Dr. Cook's activities to the prison warden. Later the paroled man expects to go to Texas to live, perhaps first visiting in New York.

Facing a battery of newspaper cameras, and then being questioned concerning his prison activities, Dr. Cook exhibited little of the expected influence of the "jungle," as he referred to the prison. His actions were not those of a confused old man, bewildered by the developments of the age.

Despite his attitude, Dr. Cook said: "Coming from the jungle of penaldom we must for some time feel like wild animals who have lost their way. But every jungle gives power and fitness to the life which it feeds. This peculiar energy may not harmonize with civilized rule, but it is an energy which will survive against all opposition. About 500,000 men and women go into this jungle every year."

PROMINENT WOMEN TO UPHOLD DRY LAW

Representatives of 12,000,000 Will Be Heard Before House Committee.

MRS. FORD HAS MESSAGE

(Associated Press.)

More than a score of prominent women representing nearly a dozen national organizations with an aggregate membership of 12,000,000 are to make three minute rapid fire speeches in support of prohibition Wednesday morning when the House judiciary committee resumes hearings on measures to repeal the eighteenth amendment.

Led by Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, of Boston, chairman of the women's national committee for law enforcement, the women leaders sponsoring prohibition are being mustered from nearly every part of the country to urge that the eighteenth amendment remain intact in the constitution.

The first witness Mrs. Peabody will present is Mrs. John F. Sippel, of Baltimore, president of the General Federation of Woman's Clubs, and she will be followed by the heads of other nationally known women's organizations.

Message From Mrs. Ford.

In addition, Mrs. Peabody will present to the committee many statements from prominent women who are unable to attend. Among them will be a message from Mrs. Henry Ford, wife of the automobile manufacturer, who, along with Thomas A. Edison, sent his protest for presentation by the drys appearing before the committee against repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

List of Witnesses.

Among some of the women to take the witness stand Wednesday morning are: Mrs. Clarence Fraim, of Wilmington, Del., legislative chairman of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. P. I. Johnson, of New York, president of the Federation of Foreign Missions Boards of North America; Mrs. Orrin Judd, of New York, president of the Council of Women for Home Missions; Mrs. Jesse Nicholson, of Baltimore, president of the Women's National Democratic League for Law Enforcement, and Mrs. Clarence Marshall Busch, of Miami, Fla., president of the National League of American Pen Women.

Other prominent women to testify include Bertha K. Landes, former mayor of Seattle, Wash.; Mrs. Grace Van Braam Roberts, of New York, president of the New York State committee for law enforcement; Mrs. Richard Aldrich, of New York; President Mary Woolley, of Mount Holyoke College; Mrs. John Henry Hammond, Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, Mrs. H. Edward Dreier, president of the Woman's City Club, all of New York; Mrs. Charles H. Greenleaf, of New Hampshire; Mrs. Haines Lippincott, of Morristown, N. J.; Mrs. Lewis Jerome Johnson, of Cambridge, Mass.; Mrs. Helm BBruce, of Louisville, K. Y.; Mrs. William Tilton, of Beverly, Mass., legislative chairman of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, and Mrs. William Alexander, of Ohio.

POLICEMAN KILLED IN GANGSTER FIGHT

Detectives Seek to Identify Two Suspects Held in Raid Slaying.

ARSENAL IS CAPTURED

Akron, Ohio, March 9 (A.P.).—Patrolman Harlan P. Manes, 33, whose injuries in a fight with gangsters yesterday preceded the capture of two gangsters and a host of armament, died today while Chief of Detectives Ed McDonnell sought to identify the two captives.

McDonnell was working on the theory that the gangsters had come here to "put somebody on the spot."

One of the men, who was wounded by the patrolman and who gave his name as Frankie Schultz, 25, of Chicago and St. Louis, was believed to be a member of "Egan's Rats," a St. Louis gang of Fred Burke, who is sought over the Nation as a participant in the Chicago St. Valentine's Day massacre, was a member. The other gangster gave his name as Bob Randall, alias Bert Walker, 28, of St. Louis.

In his investigation McDonnell sent photographs and fingerprints to St. Louis police to make identification positive.

The gangsters were captured when the chief, at the head of a squad, smashed the door of a cottage and found it strongly fortified. Wresting a Thompson submachine gun from a middle-aged woman, who stood guard at the door, he entered the house and found Randall and Schultz. Neither resisted. The woman also was held.

In the house were half a dozen large automatic pistols, many rounds of ammunition, nitroglycerin, two sawed-off guns and a long-range rifle.

The gun battle took place early in the day when Manes started to investigate a trivial automobile accident. The occupants of the car opened fire and ran.

TWO G.O.P. CHIEFS IN FLORIDA RESIGN

WOMAN IS NOW LEADER

Lakeland, Fla., March 9 (A.P.).—Glenn B. Skipper, Republican national committeeman for Florida, and E. E. Calloway, Republican State chairman, jointly announced their resignations from these offices today, and at the same time Mr. Skipper announced his decision not to be a candidate for Congress from the First District.

The action of the two party leaders followed conferences here last night and today, which were said to have resulted in a general agreement that harmony would prevail in the rank and file of the party if they were out as its heads.

William J. Howey, of Howey-in-the-Hills, former Republican candidate for governor, said the resignations removed "the last possible object for conflict within the party. We are now a united, militant force, capable for the election of at least one or two representatives and a number of members in the State Legislature."

The resignations of Mr. Skipper and Mr. Calloway marked the climax of a long drawn out controversy within the party in Florida. Mr. Skipper was made nominal head of the party at the national convention in Kansas City in 1928 when he headed a delegation which was openly in favor of Herbert Hoover for President.

Both Mr. Skipper and Mr. Bean headed rival delegations to Kansas City and the national credentials committee seated the skipper group.

New features of the FORD TRUCK

NEW SPIRAL BEVEL GEAR REAR AXLE—Strength, reliability and long life

THE Ford 1½-ton truck is a haulage unit carefully designed to provide unusual performance under a wide variety of conditions, and long, reliable service at minimum cost. With 4-speed transmission and 40-horse-power engine, the Ford truck has a remarkably flexible range of speed and power.

Rugged strength is a feature of the Ford truck. An important example is the new rear axle. It has a special spiral bevel gear, with straddle-mounted pinion. The axle shafts are heavier than formerly, and because of the three-quarter floating type of axle construction, they serve only to turn the wheels, without carrying any of the weight of truck or load.

The new front axle and spring are stronger and heavier, as are front radius-rod, king-pins, wheel bearings and thrust bearings. Brakes on the front wheels have been enlarged to the same size as those on the rear wheels, providing increased braking area and a high degree of safety. Brakes are of the mechanical type, internal expanding, and all are fully enclosed. Controls have been redesigned, and operate with minimum effort.

Dual rear wheels are available at small additional cost. Balloon tires of one size are used throughout with the dual equipment. All six steel disc wheels and tires are interchangeable. Only one spare wheel and tire need be carried.

LARGER BRAKES—Providing a greater degree of safety

TO MORTGAGE AMERICA.

Stripped of its high-sounding invocations to peace, Prime Minister MacDonald's radio message to Americans yesterday was an unmistakable hint that America will be asked to purchase a naval agreement. The price is to be a mortgage upon America's freedom of action in case of threatened foreign wars.

Under the pretext that the great powers are afraid of curtailing their naval forces, the United States is asked to reassure them by pledging its cooperation in case they are threatened with war.

All the nations represented at London have renounced war as among themselves. If they keep that pledge they will never go to war.

The demand that the United States shall agree to cooperate with them in preventing war is proof that they intend to place their trust in force. They have not at heart renounced war. They now hope to inveigle the United States into an obligation to make war on their side if war should come.

When the proposal for a naval conference was broached, it was intended that naval forces should be reduced, competitive building abolished, and an equilibrium established upon the basis of equality of naval strength between Great Britain and the United States. These aims have gone by the board.

The nations represented in London have changed the purpose of the conference. Expansion of naval power, not reduction, is demanded. The equality of the British and United States navies is no longer conceded. The American delegation has surrendered the demand for cruiser parity with Britain.

The chief aim of the conference is to form an alliance of the great powers, including the United States.

This object is kept hidden as much as possible, and is camouflaged under ingenious disguises. Careful soundings are being made, to ascertain just how far the American people can be fooled into signing away the freedom of action and neutrality of the United States.

Many Americans have already been fooled. They have lost their sense of proportion. They have convinced themselves that "some kind of agreement" must necessarily be reached at London, and they are now willing to mortgage the future freedom of action of their country rather than see the conference adjourn without agreement. The astute foreign negotiators are playing upon this American desire for an agreement, and are gradually developing the scheme for making America purchase an agreement at the price of its neutrality.

Of what value is a conference in London, if the outcome is to be an increase of navies, including an increase in the United States Navy? The negotiators say, "Oh, this agreement will last only until 1936, and by that time we can all begin to reduce our navies."

The plans now developing in London is a conspiracy to tie the hands of the United States now, on the plea that sometime in the future there may be less probability of war.

If the great powers are not willing now, in time of peace, to reduce their navies, what faith can be placed in their future willingness to reduce?

Much as Americans desire general reduction of navies, they are not willing to join a military alliance now on the promise that reduction will be undertaken in 1936.

The United States is not responsible for wars that may break out abroad. It should not make itself responsible for preventing foreign wars. By assuming such responsibility it becomes morally obligated to make war if necessary to stamp out a foreign war.

Who knows where the sympathies of the United States will lie in the next war? Who knows how or from what quarter war may come? Does the United States wish to assist France in putting down war in Morocco, or Great Britain in putting down the war that is impending in India? Are Americans ready to become allies of the great powers in fighting the Russian Soviet or the Chinese Nationalists? If the Soviet and Japan should clash, is it wise to be mortgaged in advance to join the Japanese?

Every tradition of the United States warns Americans against entanglements with foreign nations. The scheme now being unfolded in London is abhorrent to American traditions and a menace to American freedom from foreign wars. This scheme is subtly conceived and is to be plausibly presented, with the support of many Americans who would ignorantly sacrifice the Nation's vital interest and its future peace for the sake of "saving the face" of the negotiators in London.

The hour is approaching when the representatives of the United States Government, in London and Washington, must decide whether they will stand on the solid rock of American independence or ruin themselves, as Woodrow Wilso ruined himself, in an attempt to entangle the United States in foreign politics.

THE LATE CHIEF JUSTICE.

From all parts of the United States and from foreign lands come tributes of affection to the late Chief Justice Taft. The charm of his personality impressed itself upon millions here and abroad. His death reveals how widely he was known, and how universally he was esteemed. During the 40 years of his public service he came in contact with multitudes of men, rich and poor. The praise they now express will convey to future ages a good idea of the depth and richness of his character. He sought the good in men; he neither envied others' gifts nor nursed grievances when he was wronged. His nature was not only generous, but sweet. He loved home life, neighborliness, and a good laugh.

Through the currents of life, touching elbows with millions of his fellows, Mr. Taft gave good cheer; a smile, a word of sympathy, a helpful hint, a friendly greeting. He could be deeply moved, and when he struck at wrong it was with a heavy hand, but he punctured fallacies with ridicule, and was not stirred by trifles. He made allowances for error and ignorance, without swerving from his own sense of duty. His tolerance and patience were rewarded when men came to see that he was right.

The life and services of Chief Justice Taft leave grateful memories and will forever enrich the history of the United States.

INDIA'S POLITE REVOLUTION.

The world is about to witness a revolution in the true Far Eastern style. Mahatma Gandhi, Indian nationalist leader, will begin this week his solemn pilgrimage throughout the land to arouse the people against British domination. There is nothing of intrigue, no clandestine plots such as accompany revolutions under western civilizations, in his plans. Gandhi has courteously informed Lord Irwin of his intentions and the viceroy has formally acknowledged the communication. The campaign to overturn British rule begins without violence and if Gandhi has his way it will end courteously.

"I hold British rule to be a curse," the nationalist leader wrote to Viceroy Irwin, "but I do not intend to harm a single Englishman or any legitimate interest he may have in India." The plan is to bring the mother country to terms through civil disobedience. Gandhi is committed to this method, but his faith in its effectiveness is not shared by all leaders of the independence movement. The party of violence is gaining strength and it is improbable that the campaign so peacefully begun will end without conflict.

The arrest of Vallabhai Patel, one of Gandhi's chief lieutenants, is welcomed as an appropriate beginning of the independence campaign. Gandhi himself might be incarcerated, but that would no doubt give zest to the movement. The authorities must allow Gandhi to pursue his campaign of boycott or run the risk of a popular uprising by arresting him. The general belief is that if the plan of civil disobedience fails it will be followed by violence from the more radical groups in the independence movement.

India is seething with unrest. If once the "impoverished dumb millions," of whom Gandhi speaks, are aroused to action chaos will follow. By stimulating a peaceful revolution the nationalist leaders have certainly chosen the wisest method of making their demands felt, but it is impossible to predict how successful this method will be. Many an eye will be turned toward India during the coming months to witness the progress of the bloodless revolution.

CANADA'S NEW LIQUOR BILL.

The Prohibition Bureau is on record as asserting that without the assistance of the Canadian government it will be practically impossible to stop the flow of liquor across the border. Canada has proceeded on the theory that stopping the flow is up to American authorities. The manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages with certain restrictions is entirely within the law in the Dominion, and there is no more reason to limit the movement of liquor than there would be to limit the movement of any other lawful commodity. But goods for export to the United States have to meet certain customs requirements, and liquor, inasmuch as it is contraband, can not meet them. American prohibitionists, supported by the dry element in Canada, have long contended that since this class of goods can not meet the full requirements of the law, the Canadian government should prevent the shipment of liquor to the United States.

The agitation has borne fruit. Last week Premier King introduced in the House of Commons a bill to prohibit the open export of liquor to the United States. Under it the government would refuse to release from bond any liquor intended to be shipped to a country where the importation of such liquor is forbidden by law, and refuse to grant clearance papers to ships when the grant of such clearances would facilitate the introduction of such liquors into prohibition countries. It is freely admitted in Ottawa that the bill will pass the House. A bitter fight is expected in the Senate, but many believe that the bill eventually will be enacted.

If the bill should become law the duties of American prohibition agents guarding the border will be lightened. Liquor runners will face a double peril. Not only will they have to evade American authorities, but they will have to evade Canadian authorities as well. As a friendly gesture of international cooperation the Canadian control bill marks an important milestone.

The Canadian government, of course, realizes full well the burdens and the responsibilities it will be forced to assume with the enactment of such legislation. Without enforcement there can be no prohibition. If Canada undertakes to prevent the exportation of liquor an extensive enforcement machine will be required. The enforcement machine will deal with the same essential problems that beset the American Prohibition Bureau. There will be a similar effort to evade the law. There will be the same tendency toward bribery and corruption. Whether or not Canada will be able to prevent the exportation of liquor remains to be seen. This much is certain: Enforcement of the law will require eternal vigilance, unceasing effort, large appropriations and the sacrifice of revenues that heretofore have accrued from the tax on the manufacture of liquor destined for export, for which there will be no counterbalancing benefits.

Inasmuch as Canada stands to lose so much through enactment of this legislation, the fact that there was a sentiment, the strength of which may be discounted, for its enactment does not fully explain why the bill was introduced. Has Premier King been promised or does he expect to obtain a quid pro quo? If so, who promised it and what could it be?

YORKTOWN'S CLEBRATION

By OLIVER McKEE, Jr.,
In the Boston Transcript.

The United States will celebrate in fitting fashion the sesquicentennial of the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown, under the provisions of legislation now pending in Congress. The commission has completed the initial part of its work and has prepared plans for the participation of the Federal Government in the celebration. The exercises, under present plans, will last for four days in 1931, one of which will be October 19, the anniversary of the surrender. The President will make an address on that day.

The exercises will be somewhat similar to those held in commemoration of the one hundreth anniversary of the surrender of Cornwallis and his army. On that occasion, not only were the President and the members of his Cabinet present, but also representatives of foreign powers, descendants of participants in the siege and surrender, military units of the original thirteen States, the mayors of the principal American cities, patriotic organizations and many other distinguished guests.

The commission wants the celebration next year to be along the same general lines. The program will include educational and commemorative features, assemblages of patriotic organizations and societies, and military and naval reviews and parades. In preparation for the event, the commission wants the historical sites marked and made accessible to the public by appropriate highways with the construction of temporary roads, where these are necessary. Congress has been asked to appropriate the sum of $200,000 to cover the expenses of the celebration. The indications are, too, that the States and various municipalities will need to supplement this sum, if the celebration is to be of the magnitude and scope which the commission feels desirable. The issuance of commemorative stamps and coins would also be in order.

Under the commission's plan, all the States will be invited to participate in the exercises. Furthermore, all universities and colleges, and schools would be asked to mark the event through appropriate patriotic ceremonies. Certain foreign governments will be invited to participate in the event, and to unite with the people and the Government of the United States in observing the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown.

"The commission strongly urges that this great event be celebrated in a manner which will be worthy of this Nation, and which will promote good will and amity with the world," says its report to Congress. "The celebration will seek to exalt the principles of political freedom for which the Revolutionary fathers fought and the ideals of liberty upon which our institutions are founded. It will inspire love of country and devotion to its ideals. It will recall to younger generations the struggles of the past. It will perpetuate the principles upon which the Nation was built and upon which its future most rest. Yorktown was the glorious culmination of a long struggle filled with tragic memories and heroic achievements. Yorktown is the place where the immortal truths declared in Philadelphia were made permanently effective. It is the birthplace of the Nation, and the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the surrender should be celebrated in a manner befitting the importance of the event and the greatness of the country."

The creation of a national monument to include Jamestown Island, parts of the city of Williamsburg and the Yorktown battlefield, is provided for in a bill sponsored by Representative Cramton of Michigan. The commission recommends favorable action on this bill. The proposed park would include Moore House, where the terms of the surrender were negotiated.

As part of its report, the commission has prepared an exhaustive memorandum of authorities dealing with the siege of Yorktown and the surrender of Cornwallis. Roy G. Fitzgerald, a member of the commission, prepared this memorandum, and the commission suggests that it would be a good thing if a painstaking study were made of the story of the siege and the surrender of Yorktown, and this account published and distributed.

EXTREMES MEET.

Delegates are now being named for attendance at the millennial celebrations in Iceland next summer. At least six Americans will go, says the Boston Transcript, the five appointed by President Hoover and also Mr. J. P. H. Farrell, of Chicago, who will represent the Civil Legion. If opposites attract, there will be many more, for Iceland is what the United States is not.

No railroads, no factories, no automobiles, no criminals, no wars—that is a swift summary of Iceland. There are a few criminals, but they always are punished. There are a few factories, but they do not intrude. If there is an automobile, it has almost nowhere to go. Iceland's neutrality is guaranteed by Denmark, and it has neither army, navy nor war debt.

America's interest in the Icelandic millennium is not merely that of a youngster respectful to its elders. Leif Ericsson will be honored by a statue, and one trusts that the American delegates on their return will explain his failure to develop colonies in the Vineland which he said he discovered in 1000 A. D. This oversight is taken to mean that he never actually saw America; but in view of Iceland's sane, peaceful, happy existence, it is a reasonable guess that he not only saw America but also foresaw it and preferred not to assume any responsibility.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

A BELIEF.

Some say we shall not meet again
And scoff at us who dream;
If they be right this world of men
Has neither plan nor scheme.

If this is all of life to be
Then love itself is vain,
And every hour of ecstasy
Breeds bitterness and pain.

I know not how, nor where, nor when,
But to the faith I cling—
That after death the soul again
Resumes its journeying.

And somewhere in new realms above
Life spins a golden cord,
Where in eternal peace and love
The family is restored.

The Cloud Is Mere Vapor When You Are in It

By ROBERT QUILLEN

At the present moment you are free of troubles.

You are suffering no great pain, else you could not remain quiet enough to read.

You feel no agony of grief, else your mind would be numbed or held fast by your misfortune.

No immediate danger threatens; no present calamity makes you tremble.

You are one of earth's fortunates—a man free of troubles.

"Not so fast," you say. "I have my share of troubles—a tooth that needs pulling, debts to pay, an insurance premium to meet, a dreaded family of relatives coming, falling hair, a new apartment to find."

You are mistaken.

These are not present troubles, but troubles that may appear in the future—if you live, and if your worst fears are realized.

Your "troubles," in short, are imaginary.

At any given moment of your life you are free of great affliction—as you are at this moment—as you will be when another moment has followed this one.

The troubles that affright you and rob your days of happiness and keep you awake at night are troubles you picture in your imagination.

They do not exist now, for at present you are safe—so safe that you would be happy if you knew you never would be in worse plight than you are at this moment.

If you permit yourself to be unhappy, it is because you heed your imagination more than you heed your reason.

You know from experience that the filling of a tooth or an interview with a displeased employer or any other dreaded ordeal is never as painful as your imagination would have you believe.

In other words, when a dreaded moment has become the present moment, and thus its details are real instead of imaginary, you find in it nothing unbearable.

Brutes suffer much less than men because they merely endure the pain, while men suffer the multiplied agony of their fright and their imaginings.

So stolid, literal, matter-of-fact people suffer little because they think in terms of reality, while those cursed with much imagination—notably the high-strung Irish—suffer agonies because of troubles that never happen.

The wisdom of age is the knowledge that tomorrow is merely another today when it comes.

The heart and core of the wisest philosophy is the realization that the present moment, easily endurable, is the stuff of which life is made, and that the moments yet to come will be equally endurable if lived one at a time.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE ONE RELIEF.

I.

The noisy "Reds" are fighting cops
And shouting 'round the town;
There's much complaining in the shops
And stocks are falling down;
I'm out of work, the larder's bare,
I see no hope till fall—
But I don't care, for ev'rywhere
I hear the cry, "Play ball!"

II.

In Europe they are having floods,
There's talk of war in Spain;
The farmers can not sell their goods
Or get their price for grain.
My pocketbook is far too thin
To buy two postage stamps,
But what the h——! The teams are in
The Southern training camps!

III.

The wets and drys are in a fight,
And feeling's running high;
The psitticosis spreads its blight,
In China millions die;
The naval limitations meet
Seems well upon the rocks,
But from the South come items neat
Of circuit clouts and socks.

IV.

Three million men are out of work
As Congress proves a flop;
The drys are bringing us a Turk
Who never touched a drop;
There's lawlessness throughout the land,
We've never seen darker days;
But in the press are stories grand
Of snappy double plays.

V.

Herb Hoover looks quite glum and sad,
And so does Davis, too;
The butcher whispers, "Business bad,"
The baker says he's blue;
I've got the grippe, alas, alack!
My trousers have a shine;
But what's the diff? Don't Connie Mack
Say Ehmke's going fine?

VI.

That stock I bought a year ago
Is now worth just a dime;
The papers say, "Steel Trade Is Slow,"
"There's No Decrease in Crime;"
Such headlines these days I don't choose
To give more than a glance;
Give me the more important news
Of Hornsby, Reese and Vance.

VII.

The tariff outlook's very punk,
And magnates all look dour;
The pessimists cry, "Help! We're sunk!"
In tones morose and sour;
My wife is sick, my kids, forsooth,
Are starving one by one;
But never mind; George Herman Ruth
Has smacked his first home run!

FAMOUS NAVAL SAYINGS REVISED.

"Damn the ratio! Full speed ahead!"

"You may announce the tonnage when you are ready, Gridley."

A best friend and severest critic, perhaps.

THE UNSWERVING LOVER.

This drab earth turns to Paradise
Each time that I see you.
But I am sad and blue because Those times are mighty few.

I alternately rage and plan
Against fate's hard decree;
But what's the use? You never take
The slightest note of me.

A thousand leagues of hill and dale,
The stormy ocean wide,
Would seem but tiny journeyings
If you were by my side.

I rant and rage and storm about;
My head is in a whirl;
And but one thought composes me—
I've got another girl!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Let There Be Attractive Female Guides to Accompany Tired Business Men Through Traffic.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The great and growing danger to human life caused by the multiplication of auto vehicles and human beings has recently been suddenly increased by the number of people on the street going from office to office, or shop to shop, in search of employment. It is a trying situation both for the motorist, who may lose his license, and for the pedestrian, who may lose his life. In the interest of both I suggest a new vocation, that of accompanying people on the street and relieving them of responsibility for violation of the traffic rules. The men and women adopting it should be examined and licensed by the city and wear a conspicuous badge and uniform. They might form an auxiliary to the police, with offices in the police stations or annexed to them, where calls could be sent for them.

With no limit on the attractions of the female guides, one might expect from the innovation a new interest in walking. Tired business men would see the importance of exercise in a new light, and would take more to going to and from their offices on foot. The tonic of the exercise, with their minds off the traffic rules, would be reflected in their business.

This is not all. Certain married women who are never satisfied would want people to watch their husbands on these walks. This would mean more secret service men, and would help to solve the problem of unemployment. JOHN BIGELOW.

Not All Men Are Heartless Toward Animals—Some Instances.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In the Wednesday Post I read the pathetic story of Jupe, who after a frantic, but successful attempt to save his master's life, was left basely and thoughtlessly to perish in the flames. A woman who read it said, "Just like a man." But I disagree with her entirely. Nine out of ten men would have placed him on the windowsill, when the dog would have jumped to safety.

In your paper some weeks ago, there was a story of a man on a journey to Richmond seeing a dog on a piece of ice in the Potomac. He was so concerned in regard to the dog's fate that he telephoned to his son to rescue the dog if possible, which the latter did. They were both men.

The other day a small cat climbed a tall tree, and apparently could not descend. The neighborhood was excited, as the tree was dangerous, being old and rotten, and it was supposed that no one would venture to rescue the cat. An ice truck came along with two men. Upon learning about the excitement one immediately, although warned of the danger, climbed the tree and brought the kitten down. It was only a stray cat. He was a man.

Poor Jupe! Perhaps in his canine heart he wondered why, after his supreme effort in rescuing his master from the flames, he should be left by that same master to perish. Who can say? Poor Jupe; some dog!

MRS. W. P.

Mr. McNish Does Not Agree With Dr. Wilbur's Plan to Help Illiterates — Will "Glorify Political Leaders."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I protest vigorously against your editorial, "The Fight on Illiteracy," which appeared in this morning's edition of your paper. I am in no way affiliated with the American Federation of Teachers, but to one who is devoting his life to education, the proposed plan of Secretary Wilbur is fraught with grave dangers.

To render persons literate in the broad sense in 24 lessons is an impossible task, and as the results of this campaign will serve only to satisfy the Government's definition for literacy—namely, ability to write one's name in any language—it will seriously impair the cause of literacy forever.

The educators of this country desire true literacy for all. Any steps which will bestow an appearance of literacy upon the at present 5,000,000 illiterates without making them truly so will give a false picture of the case, and, while glorifying political leaders of the campaign, will diminish both ardor and argument for those desiring a campaign of genuine education. Your biased condemnation of the federation's protest is unfair to the 5,000,000 illiterates whom the campaign pretends to help. ALVIN G. M'NISH.

Suggests That Chairman Graham Debate With Some Eminent Dry. Hire a Hall!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Having just returned from the prohibition hearing before the judiciary committee of the House, I am impelled to ask two questions. Is the committee undertaking to hear testimony on both sides of this important question, or is it staging a debate between the chairman and dry witnesses? Some of today's proceedings would indicate as much!

I realize the chairman's zealous and, I am sure, sincere objection to prohibition, but is the chair the place from which to express it at length?

May I suggest that a debate between him and an equally eminent dry would be of deep interest, but that, in my humble opinion, a more appropriate place would be the House of Representatives or a hall engaged for that purpose.

Also may I add that since we have all listened attentively for many days to wet testimony or else read it, that it might be fair to allow the committee and the public to hear the other side, without wasting time on the reiteration of wet sentiment from members of that committee? Questioning a witness is one thing, but dissertating to him is another!

TURKISH POLYGAMY PASSING, SAYS ENVOY

SEES VOTE FOR WOMEN

Polygamy in Turkey is found only among the peasants, who practice it "occasionally, for economic reasons," according to Ahmed Mouhtar Bey, Turkish Ambasasdor, in what is believed to have been the only radio address in Turkish ever delivered in America, broadcast yesterday over the Columbia chain through Station WMAL.

After its delivery in Turkish, the ambassador turned over his speech to a secretary, who translated it through the microphone into English. The ambassador was introduced by Representative Stephen G. Porter, of Pennsylvania, chairman of the House committee on foreign affairs, and Turkish musical selections were played.

"The abolition of the fez," said the ambassador, "which is not a religious or national head dress at all, is symbolic of the new attitude of mind, which wishes Turkey to be considered as she really is—an Eastern nation, not distinguished by any singularity of costume from other Eastern countries.

"The abolition of the veil, which had been growing thinner and thinner, represents also a new attitude of mind, although the status of women in Turkey was never as novel as the moving pictures portrayed it. Their dress is exactly like that of other European women.

"The harem, which means 'separate apartments' for women of the household, has not existed in most families for over 200 years. Polygamy also is an institution greatly exaggerated by rumor, and rarely found in the past century except perhaps occasionally among the peasants and this for economic reasons. There is now before the grand national assembly a bill to give the vote to women, and there is little doubt that it soon will be passed."

In conclusion, he said that the Catholic Church, on March 19, will chant a world-wide "Miserere" for the suffering of all faiths in Soviet Russia.

The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Episcopal Bishop of Washington, in his introduction of Father Walsh declared that we in America have moral obligations that transcend those of diplomacy.

"It is not our right to determine the laws or habits of other peoples, but it is our right and privilege to express convictions that relate to justice and equity and that bear vitally on the interests of men the world over."

Bishop Freeman said that invasion of the right of individuals strikes the American people as contrary to our traditions and ideals. "Granting," he said, "that every nation had the right to determine its own course of political action, we can not conceive of a situation where the practices of a people in regard to their religion are to be determined by the authority of the State.

"We hold as represensible any intrusion of the church upon the domain of the state, we hold as alike reprehensible any intrusion of the state upon the domain of the church. Persecution has never stayed the progress of religion and never will.

Sympathy for Brethren.

"Allowing for all the discrepancies of unauthenticated reports, there is indisputable evidence that the present Russian government is pursuing a policy of extermination of institutions and organizations whose avowed purpose is the propagation of religion.

"It is to register our unfailing sympathy for our persecuted brethren in Russia that this meeting is called today. It is a happy and significant circumstance that the representatives of great religious bodies in America, find here an opportunity for fellowship in an appealing and compelling cause.

Invocation was given by the Rev. Joseph R. Sizoo, pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church Rabbi Abram Simon, of the Washington Hebrew Congregation, read the Scripture lesson. The concluding prayer was given by the Rev. Frederick C. Reynolds, pastor of the Wesley Methodist Church.

Countercharges in Leaflets.

As the audience filed from the building, six members of the Young Communist League distributed leaflets condemning the action of all churches in opposing Russia. The leaflets said that Father Walsh was trying to stir war against the Soviet Union under the guise of "religious persecution."

It also attacked Rabbi Simon and charged the Protestant Church as being hte archenemy of the workers and being responsible for the murder of millions of Chinese. It also characterized the religious as war-mongers and called for a defense of the Soviet Union.

Capt. W. G. Stott, of the Third Precinct, with several officers arrested the group soon after they began their distribution. All were brought to the Third Precinct and charged with distributing pamphlets. They were released in $10 bail. Collateral was furnished by S. Pearlman, secretary of the International Labor Defense.

Those arrested are Sarah Deskin, 21 of Georgia avenue near Harvard street northwest, who was arrested at the White House demonstration Thursday; Burton H. Williams, 17 years old, D street near Twelfth street southwest; Thomas Holmes, 18 years old, of Baltimore, Md.; Ruth Reese, 17 years old, Allison street near Illinois avenue northwest; Annette Collodny, 17 years old, Water street northwest, and George Reed, 25 years old, Irving street near Park place northwest. All are active in the Communist party in the District.

Col. Lindbergh Makes Brief Flight in Glider

Carmel, Calif., March 9 (A.P.).—A brief glider flight in favorable but light winds comprised today's experimental work by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. The flight, of about eight minutes' duration, was made on the Whitney Fish ranch in the southern part of Carmel Valley, south of here.

After the flight, during which Col. Lindbergh was unable to obtain elevation, the glider was dismantled and taken still farther down the coast, but light winds there balked further flying for the day.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

THE baiting of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt on the wet and dry issue now going on in New York is one of the most significant developments in the political situation. In actual importance, in the view of shrewd leaders of both parties, it overshadows farm relief, the tariff battle, and the Hoover commissions. The only thing that transcends it in political importance, in the view of these leaders, is prosperity, and so far there is no indication that any individual has been able to capitalize that. The baiting is being done by both Democratic and Republican newspapers. All of them want to know just where the governor stands.

* * * *

THE real trouble for Roosevelt, whose path might have been simple enough had it not been that he became one of the two or three outstanding possibilities for the Democratic presidential nomination the day he carried New York while Alfred E. Smith was losing it, has been caused by Mrs. Roosevelt. It had been assumed all the way through that he was a wet. But she has been making talks and conversing with leaders of women's dry organizations until it became a matter of doubt where he stood.

At once the suspicion was created among some of the wets, particularly the New York City newspapers, that Roosevelt was trying to carry water on both shoulders in order to win dry support for his presidential candidacy in 1932. Until this developed he had been the great wet hope, on the theory that he could carry Southern and border States which Smith lost, not having the religious handicap which was so large a factor in defeating Smith.

* * * *

ALSO the fact that he inherited a little of Woodrow Wilson's mantle, having been Assistant Secretary of the Navy during the Wilson eight years, plus the enormous value of his name, were cited by those who believed he would make a strong candidate. Then there was the curious angle that the drys did not seem to resent Roosevelt on the wringing wet ground as they did Alfred E. Smith and Gov. Ritchie, of Maryland.

This last factor has been so obvious that it has begun to annoy the wets. Especially irritated were the Republican organs which supported Hoover despite regarding themselves, in the words of one of their editors, as "religious wets." When this suspicion was reinforced by a whispering campaign that Roosevelt was really a dry, this being based on Mrs. Roosevelt's obvious attitude, the heckling began.

* * * *

CONFRONTED by a dozen newspapermen, Gov. Roosevelt made it very clear that he was against reenactment of the Mullan-Gage dry enforcement act "or anything like it." Some of the men rushed out to bulletin this news to their papers. Perhaps their enthusiasm caused a chill down Mr. Roosevelt's spine as he thought of the drys in the South and Middle West, whose votes he might want in 1932. At any rate, he hurried to say that this was not for quotation. But he was too late. The bulletins were already being screamed in extras on the sidewalks of New York.

* * * *

ALL of which is most unfortunate for the Roosevelt aspirations, in view of the probability that the proposed enforcement act will not reach the governor anyhow, so that he need not have taken the onus of acting on it. Meanwhile the New York Republicans are more heartened than for a long time in the thought that they might capture the governorship, though their organization seems as badly split and ineffectual as ever, with no strong candidate so far in sight to make the race.

Wobbling on the wet and dry issue does not seem very nourishing this year. Perhaps by 1932 it will have regained its former standing, but consider what happened to the dry Republican in Massachusetts who, running against a very wet Democrat, said he would vote against the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act if elected.

Citizens of Spanish Town Refuse Offices

Madrid, March 9 (A.P.).—If Don Quixote were in Spain now he might be able to keep his promise to make his faithful squire, Sancho Panza, ruler of a town, because for the first time in Spanish history a hamlet has been found where no one wants office.

In the town of Torrelaguna, near here, citizens have declined to accept office. In an effort to find officials, the governor of province sent a herald through the streets announcing that any citizen wishing to become mayor, judge or solicitor should present his application in the usual form.

Treasury Certificates Subscriptions Closed

(Associated Press.)

Subscriptions for the Treasury's offer of $450,000,000 of 3¼ per cent certificates of indebtedness, dated March 15 and due December 15, closed Saturday at the end of the business day.

Secretary Mellon in closing the subscription lists gave notice that offers received by mail prior to 10 a. m. Monday would be considered as having been tendered in time. Tabulations of total subscriptions received have not yet been completed.

Civil Disobedience Call Is Issued by Gandhi

Ahmadabad, India, March 9 (A.P.).—Mahatma Gandhi today sent a message to Bengal through Satindranath Sen, leader of the passive resistance movement in the Barisal district, saying: "Compose your differences and start civil disobedience."

PLEAS FOR CHARITY INCREASE IN CAPITAL

MUCH MONEY PAID OUT

Reports showing a greatly increased demand for assistance, due to the unemployment situation in Washington, were heard yesterday morning at a meeting of the Washington Branch of the St. Vincent de Paul Society in Holy Comforter Church.

Twenty-eight parishes were represented by the 248 delegates present and reports from each of these parishes showed that the society has paid out more money recently to aid the needy than at any time in its history.

George E. Clary, president of the Washington Society, presided and reports were presented by M. F. Moore, secretary. Representative John J. Cochran, of Missouri, gave an interesting talk on the work of the society in St. Louis.

The Rev. John O'Grady, of the Catholic Bureau of Charities, was another speaker. He told of increased demands for aid in recent months. Work of the society was also praised by the Rev. John Dowling, of Holy Name parish.

Resolutions of esteem and sympathy were adopted on the deaths of Judge William H. de Lacey and Lawrence Mengan.

Edward Sexton, of Georgetown University, described the work of the student body in acting as "big brothers" to a number of smaller boys in need of aid. The students also are supplying hospitals in Washington with papers and magazines of all sorts.

Walsh Will Address Society.

Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, will deliver an address tonight at 8:30 o'clock in St. Dominic's Parish Hall, Sixth and F streets southwest, at a meeting under the auspices of St. Dominic's Branch of the Holy Name Society.

What Business Needs Most Now—

Editorials from Current Issues of THE BUSINESS WEEK

In the Issue of March 5th

Do It Now

THE Federal Reserve authorities are probably—and properly—tired of being told by outsiders what to do. They know best what action to take in a given situation. That is their business, and on the whole they have usually done the right thing. THE BUSINESS WEEK believes the reduction in discount rates in 1924 and 1927 in the interests of international financial stability was sound policy. It supported their effort in 1929 to check the wave of security speculation which led to the stock market crash and the business depression.

But what to do is often less important than when to do it. In credit policy especially the right time is more difficult to choose than the right thing. In this matter business opinion and the general situation are an indispensable guide, quite as important as internal technical banking conditions. To know when to act the Reserve authorities must keep their finger on the pulse of business sentiment at home and abroad.

Here Federal Reserve policy, throughout its history, has been sadly and often disastrously deficient. It has always acted wisely but nearly always too slowly, too late, too cautiously, with too much deliberation and vacillation, for the effects of its action—always long delayed at best—to be fully and promptly realized. Rate changes have been made infrequently and with the portentousness of declarations of war, or with elaborate explanations, preparations and apologies. Open market operations are engaged in so diffidently, vaguely and indecisively that it takes weeks to discover what is going on.

This dilatory and indecisive procedure was fatal to business stability in 1929. It promises to be fatal to prompt business recovery now. The action so far taken to expand credit has been ineffective and will have no effect for months, because it has not yet been proportionate to the severity of this, the worst business recession since 1921. Events are now shaping the basis of what may be a prolonged depression unless credit is quickly made generally cheaper and more abundant for all uses. Commodity prices have collapsed, depression and political uncertainty are spreading abroad, gold is flowing to this country, the bond market is weak, mortgage money is high, foreign borrowing is not reviving and our export trade is threatened.

This is a critical juncture. What is done now will not be effective till considerably later at best. Every week of delay defers recovery by months. Fear of raising another Frankenstein of speculation is trifling beside the real spectre of protracted unemployment. There can be no bull market till business recovers. A little speculation, in either commodities or stocks, would do no harm anyway. We should be able to control it if—here again—we have sense and courage enough to act promptly.

This is no time to surrender to financial fear or fatalism. Rediscount rates should be reduced immediately, to 3% if necessary, and bills and securities bought freely and steadily.

In the Issue of March 12th

In Praise of Speculation

BY AND LARGE, no one is taking a chance just now. That's why business is slow.

The moralists and the politicians have had their way. They have for the moment slain speculation. Stock prices back and fill. Commodity prices just back. Business lags.

There is a direct relationship between the death of speculation and the sickness of business.

Wheat and cotton prices would be higher today if the speculators, who usually carry the crop, had put their usual billions in it this year. Prices would not have dropped so giddily had there been the usual wicked bears in the pit, covering their winning bets. But we have slain the speculator in commodities. Congress has bedeviled and frightened him. The Farm Board is in the market. And while many a wheat trader and cotton trader has the nerve of John W. Gates, he just won't buck the Treasury and Senate.

In Wall Street the Federal Reserve Bank has slain the dragon speculation. It proposes to keep him dead, so the Board hesitates to cut its discount rate further, delays pumping money into the market by purchase of bills and securities.

Well, if we may be so bold, a little bull market in stocks right now would be enormously durable. General business would perk up again under its influence. The stock market used to be the barometer of business. It is more than that now; it is an essential tool of business. Business is financed largely by the stock market today.

Beyond all this, speculation is a creative force in American business. This country was discovered, explored, conquered, developed, by men who took a chance. We are a venturesome people. We make prodigious bets—that a streak of rails from coast to coast will pay. It did. That people will buy a new toy, the radio. They did. That Florida lots and Iowa farms will go up forever. They didn't. And so on.

Was Mr. Couzens investing or speculating when he put a little money into Henry Ford's dream? Was A. T. & T. investing cautiously when it bought Lee De Forest's funny little three-element vacuum tube?

"But," says the moralist, "these things are constructive; these are not the same thing as betting that wheat will go up a cent a bushel, or steel stock a dollar a share. We are not so sure about the distinction, but let that pass. The point we want to make is that you cannot have the one without the other. We want the kind of man who will make business bets. We must have him. Well, then, we must let him bet.

An orgy of gambling like the one that ended in October, does immeasurable harm. Excess is always evil. We know all the arguments against wild bull markets on the scale that sucks in the scrubwoman and the bank clerk. We have pointed them out, and forcefully, we think. We exhorted the business man to take his eyes off the ticker and focus them on his job. We subtract no word from all that sound advice.

But an orgy of conservatism, is, perhaps, worse. Controlled, and it can be controlled, in its place, and it has a place, speculation in stocks, in wheat, in cotton, in what you please, is important to the health of business.

It would be well to let down the bars a bit, and quickly.

Mrs. Stetson, Noted Artist, Visits Capital

Wisconsin Portrait and Animal Painter Here for Spring Stay.

ALTHOUGH her home is now in New York, Mrs. Eleanore Stetson is so fond of Washington that she usually contrives to spend a few weeks here each year and she is established in a pleasant little apartment at 1533 Q street for the early spring season. An artist of great ability, Mrs. Stetson was forced by trouble with her eyes to give up her work some years ago, but she is still remembered among artists for many fine portraits and work of an imaginative character.

Most famous of her paintings, perhaps, is "The Lion's Bride," a study of contrasting strength and helplessness, which has been exhibited in New York, Chicago, Paris, London and other cities, and which is now a highly prized possession of a well-known art collector. Another fine work is "Fruits and Flowers of Wisconsin," a panel which is so significant of the State's resources that the Wisconsin Historical Society is endeavoring to purchase the picture from the artist.

Mrs. Stetson is a native of Wisconsin and a grandniece of the State's first governor, James Duane Doty. He had the distinction of being the governor of two States, Wisconsin and Utah, and it was he who chose the site for Madison, the capital of Wisconsin, which is one of the most beautifully situated cities in this country. Admitted to practice before the Supreme Court at the age of 22, he was appointed judge in Wisconsin before it became a State and was one of the pioneer builders of the Commonwealth. Under Lincoln he served as Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

During the last term of Grover Cleveland as President of the United States he gave Mrs. Stetson letters to American Ambassadors in Europe which were helpful in launching her in her career as an artist. Through this influence many important men posed for her at home and abroad. Her portrait of William McKinley hangs in the Hamilton Club in Chicago and is thought by many to be his best portrait. Mrs. Stetson also excels as an animal painter, and her painting of "The Duke of Clarence's Tigers" is almost as well known as "The Lion's Bride."

The Chinese Ambassador to the Court of St. James, Dr. Alfred Sao Sze, and his two daughters, who have been passing some time in Washington, will sail for London on the S. S. America on Wednesday.

The Minister of Siam, Maj. Gen. Prince Amoradat Kridakara, accompanied by Maj. Thomas C. McDonald, of Alban Towers, has returned to Washington after passing the week-end in New York.

The minister announced a day or two ago the gift by the King of Siam of two book cabinets to the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York. A formal presentation will be made at the cathedral as soon as the cabinets arrive from the arts and crafts department of the Siamese government at Bangkok, the minister attending the ceremony. The cabinets are now on their way to the United States from Siam, which represents the fourteenth foreign government to make a gift to the cathedral in New York.

Gen. Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff of the United States Army, and Maj. Gen. Stephen O. Fuqua, chief of the United States Infantry, are in New York, where they are staying at Hotel Astor.

Mr. Sam Park, American Vice Consul at Biarritz, France, and Mrs. Park, will sail next Saturday for France. This afternoon in New York Miss Constance Drexel is giving a reception for Mr. and Mrs. Park at 18 Gramercy Park south.

Mrs. James C. Crawford is in New York, where she is staying at the Ambasadon.

Mrs. Elmer Schlesinger has returned to Washington after passing some time in New York and has opened her house on Dupont Circle.

Mrs. John Joy Edson, jr., of East Drive, Sewickley, Pa., has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Jane Edson, to Mr. William Dudley Livingston. Miss Edson, who is a granddaughter of Mr. John Joy Edson, of Washington, D. C., and the daughter of the late Mr. John Joy Edson, jr., was graduated from the Masters' School, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., and made her debut a year ago last June. Mr. Livingston is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Griswold Livingston, of Lawrence, Long Island. He prepared for college at St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H., and was graduated from Harvard in 1925. He now lives in Pittsburgh. No date has been set for the wedding.

At the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Harriet Drew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Drew, of New York City and Scarborough, N. Y., and Mr. H. Charles Tomlinson, of Croyden, England, on March 21 in New York, Mr. Henry G. Hayes, of Washington, will be best man.

The wedding, which will take place in St. Bartholomew's Chapel, will be of international interest, as Mr. Tomlinson is a son of the widely known British writer, Henry M. Tomlinson, and Mrs. Tomlinson.

Mr. Tomlinson and his bride will sail on the Lancastria on March 22 for London to attend the marriage of his sister, Miss Margery Tomlinson, to Mr. John Dickinson, secretary of the London School of Economics, which will take place on April 5 in the Church of St. Martin's in the Fields. They will return in May to New York, where they will live. Mr. Tomlinson is with Harper & Bros., publishers.

Junior League Planning For National Meeting.

Delegates from all the larger cities in the United States, Canada and Hawaii are formulating plans to attend the national conference of the Junior League which opens its annual sessions in New York on April 29. Miss Lydia Dadmun, of New York, chairman of transportation, has a large committee for meeting the delegates and has engaged the Bristed-Manning Travel Bureau to direct arrangements for transportation from coast to coast. Two Junior League members, Miss Grace Bristed and Miss Elizabeth Manning, managers of the Travel Bureau, are busily engaged in final plans and have arranged two concentration points for the delegates, one in Chicago and one in St. Louis.

Special cars for the Junior Leaguers will be attached to trains at these points, the de luxe cars including luxurious beauty and hair-dressing parlors.

The Junior League clubhouse in New York will be the center of activities relating to the conference and here all delegates will be transported from their trains where they will meet their hostesses who will conduct each to her home during the period of the conference. A program of sightseeing will supplement the round of business meetings, teas and dances arranged for the delegates. The sessions will continue until May 2.

The Mary Washington Chapter, D. A. R., has engaged as a benefit performance the opening night of the National Theater Players, Monday, March 31, when they will present "Holiday." Assisting Mrs. Frank Hight, regent, and chairman of the committee, are Miss Janet Richards, Miss Dorinda E. Rogers, Mrs. Edward A. Keyes, Mrs. Cabot Stephens, Mrs. Wayne Wirgman, Mrs. W. Gwynne Gardiner and Mrs. Charles B. Hayes.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore J. Morgan will leave Washington Wednesday to motor east. Mr. Morgan's exhibition of paintings and etchings will open at the Museum of Fine Arts in Binghamton, N. Y., on March 15. Mr. Morgan is engaged to give a series of art talks during his stay in Binghamton. They will return to Washington on March 19.

Death of Taft Leads Society To Halt Plans

Invitations Withdrawn by Hostesses During Mourning Period.

In accordance with the period of mourning designated by the President in respect to the memory of Mr. William Howard Taft, former President and Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, hostesses throughout the city have canceled invitations sent out for various dates during the month of March. Practically all dinners and entertainments have been given up.

The luncheon which the Ambassador of France and Mme. Claudel were to have given yesterday was immediately canceled upon receipt of the news of former President Taft's death; Representative and Mrs. J. Charles Linthicum withdrew invitations for a dinner last evening at the Mayflower.

The Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr have given up plans for two dinners which they were giving this month; Mrs. Henry P. Dimock has recalled invitations sent out for dinners on the evenings of March 11, March 22 and March 26 and the ladies of the Senate will not give their luncheon on Tuesday.

The Stonewall Jackson Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, has postponed a reception scheduled for tonight at Continental Memorial Hall until the second Monday in April.

The Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d League of Republican Women has postponed its meeting, planned this week, indefinitely.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Greve, of Louisville, Ky., are now making their home at the Cavalier. Mr. Greve is with the National Family Stores and is manager of the E. J. Foley store in Washington.

Mrs. H. S. Wherrett, of Pittsburgh, has been the guest for a few days of Mrs. J. S. Carr, who is living at the Cairo Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. B. Barber will receive on Friday evening at their home in Chevy Chase in observance of their thirtieth wedding anniversary. Following a reception there will be an informal program of music. Mr. and Mrs. Barber will be assisted in receiving by their daughter, Miss Willa L. Barber.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Carr were hosts to a party at the Club Chantecler supper dance on Saturday evening.

Society Plans Attendance at Local Concert

Mrs. Hoover Heads List of Those Holding Boxes for Symphony.

Mrs. Hoover heads the list of boxholders for the second concert of the National Symphony Orchestra which will be given in Constitution Hall Friday afternoon at 4:45 o'clock. Mr. Frank J. Frost, president of the orchestra, has secured Mr. Hans Kindler and Mr. Gustav Strube as guest conductors.

Others who have taken boxes are the Ambassador of Poland, Mr. Tytus Filipowicz, Senator Hiram Bingham, Representative Ruth Baker Pratt, Mrs. Lawrence Phipps, Mrs. W. Bayard Cutting, Mrs. Edwin B. Parker, Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, Mrs. Christian Heurich, Miss Alice Clapp, Mr. H. Barrett Learned, Mrs. Adolph C. Miller, Mrs. Bruce E. Clark, Mrs. James Wentz, Mrs. Walter Bruce Howe, Mrs. Franklin Ellis, Mrs. Raymond Lee, Mrs. Frank Frost, Mrs. H. H. Barton, Mrs. Duncan Phillips, Mrs. Herman Hagedorn, Mrs. L. Corrin Strong, the Ohio Federation of Music Clubs, the California Federation of Music Clubs and the New York Federation of Music Clubs.

Others who have made reservations for the concert are Mrs. Robert Hinckley, Mrs. Beale R. Howard, Mrs. Hennen Jennings, Mr. Richard Pairo, Mrs. A. C. Downing, Mrs. Charles J. Bell, Mrs. Avery Coonley, Mrs. Tracy Downs, Miss A. M. Hegeman, Mrs. Schuyler Merritt, Mr. Y. H. Van Royen, Mrs. W. L. Capps, Miss Lucy Brickenstein, Mrs. Gilbank Twigg and Mrs. Armistead Peter.

Massachusetts Writers To Be Society Guests.

The Massachusetts press correspondents will be the guests of honor at the fifth meeting of the Massachusetts Society of Waashington on Friday evening, March 21, when a reception and dance will be held in the gold room of the Wardman Park Hotel. Several special features are arranged for the intermissions, which will be directed by Mrs. John A. Chamberlain and Mrs. L. D. Gibbs, members of the entertainment committee.

Mr. Sanford Bates, director of the Federal penal institutions, and president of the society, will head the receiving line. The dancing will be in charge of Mr. Lewis W. Hart, Mr. Robert H. Kempton and Mr. John H. Springer. Mr. George A. Hernan, secretary, has charge of guest tickets for the dance.

Maryland Garden Clubs Plan Pilgrimage.

To further the restoration of the gardens at Stratford, the birthplace of Gen. Robert E. Lee, an extensive pilgrimage to a number of widely known gardens and old manor houses in Maryland has been mapped out by the garden clubs of Maryland. A pilgrimage to historic houses on the Eastern Shore will begin May 4, continuing for several days, the groups starting from Baltimore. Among the places to be visited will be Hampton, Montpelier, Belmont, Mount Clare, Glenelg, Dougboregan, Manor, Homewood, Tryconnell, Holly Beach Farm, Tulip Hill and the gardens of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bouton in Roland Park.

On the Eastern Shore the houses and gardens are at Wye House, the Anchorage, Radcliffe Manor, Hope House, the Wilderness, North Bend, Marango, Rich Neck, Canterbury, and in Annapolis the Harwood House, the Brice House and the Rideout House will be visited.

There will be a similar pilgrimage to historic houses in Virginia from Baltimore on April 28 to May 3, including Federal Hill, Sabine Hall, Virginia House, the Oaks, Nordley, Shirley, Hampstead, York Hall, Claremont Manor, Lower Brandon, Westover, Old Colonial House, Old Lynnhaven, Poplar Hall, Staunton Hill, Folly, Stuart House, Enniscorthy, Maxfield Horse Shoe, Montebello, Peliso, Carter Hall, Long Branch, Annefield, Audley, Fairfield, Clifton, Oak Hill, Foxcroft and many others.

Mrs. William Gotthardt entertained twenty at luncheon Friday at the Dodge Hotel.

Miss Janet Richards, at her weekly lecture this morning on "Political History in the Making," will review a number of critical "states and conditions" both at home and abroad, some of which threaten a political crisis of far-reaching possibilities. Under "Home Affairs" a brief summary will be given of affairs congressional and the menace of unemployment in connection with renewed Communist activity and its significance. Two recent travel books of special interest to those going to Europe this summer also will be reviewed. The lecture will be given in the Masonic Temple, Thirteenth street and New York avenue at 10:45 o'clock.

Ambulance Plane To Be Given Test

Largest Craft of Kind Ever Assembled in America Is in California.

(Associated Press.)

The largest and most complete ambulance airplane ever designed in this country will be tested April 1 in the annual Air Corps field exercises at Sacramento, Calif.

In making this announcement yesterday, the War Department described the craft as a trimotored Ford plane fitted with wire "cradles" accommodating from four to six patients. Its crew consists of two pilots, a flight surgeon and a medical attendant.

Four red crosses, on each side of the ship and on the wing tips will identify the plane. Besides radio and regular equipment, it will carry surgical instruments, dressings, drugs and splints.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THERE was a surprise visit to Walter Reed yesterday by "Amos 'n' Andy," Graham MacNamee and Roxy, who stayed over, following the White House Newspaper Correspondents Association dinner.

They were conveyed to the hospital by M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Co., and Thomas R. Shipp. Miss Margaret Lower, field director; Mrs. Mabie D. Shackleford, recreational director, and Leo Sack, a former patient, saw to it that a capacity house greeted them.

Introduced by Roxy, through whose efforts the radio installation was originally made at Walter Reed, the first in any hospital in the United States, the spirit moved Amos to call up Ruby Taylor in Chicago.

"Dis is Amos, honey," he said. "I'se in Washington!"

Ruby, however, couldn't seem to get it, and after several attempts to spell "Washington," Amos finally said:

"You knows where I left for, honey. Well, I got there!"

AVERSATILE pair, under obvious handicaps in white face, they put on a chalk talk where Andy, the high financier, demonstrated some surprising examples of revision. Also Amos proved he was a far better vocalist than he sounds when he sings "Is I Blue?" off key.

Those patients who were not able to attend the impromptu performance heard it by means of headphones. Afterward there was a visit to the wards.

Amos made a special trip to the bedside of Tom Cushing, who was desperately wounded in France, a boyhood friend of his years ago in Richmond.

THOSE who happened to be in the National Press Club Saturday evening are still laughing over the apparently serious attempt of "Amos 'n' Andy" to get Robert, the famous colored waiter at the Press Club to join the Mystic Knights of the Sea.

"But, gentlemens," said Robert, who never forgets his good manners, "I already belongs to the Knights of St. John. And I pays my dues."

Whereupon Andy gave the distress signal, but that was as far as they got with Robert.

Talking with newspapermen, Amos said that he had never conquered his fear of the microphone and never expected to. Only two persons witnessed their broadcasts in Washington, Herluf Provensen, the WRC announcer, and Donald Cooper, station operator.

REFERRING to "Doc" Rockwell, famous vaudeville impersonator of medical quacks, someone who had never heard of him but who had seen his name as a guest at the dinner Saturday asked F. M. Russell, vice president of the National Broadcasting Co.:

"Who is this 'Doc' Rockwell?"

"He's our company physician," Russell replied.

The most powerful transmitting station ever operated in the world may be heard any morning this week when Station W2XAG, at Schenectady, will use 200,000 watts experimentally.

THIS is four times the power of WEAF or KDKA. The tryout is being made on WGY's frequency of 790 kilocycles, which is found on the dial between WHAS, Louisville, and WJZ, New York.

Formerly a vaudeville actor, Walter Winchell, the New York columnist, will give a five-minute talk from that city over Station WMAL at 9 o'clock Wednesday evening, during the Van Heusen Hour.

Paris, March 9.

RUFFLES, especially for evening wear, just have to be crisp and cunningly stick-out-ish—and I don't know WHERE this is more delightfully achieved than when these ruffles are made of, sh-h-h-h, horsehair braid just exactly like hats, or wired tulle!

But then you mustn't think that the only ruffles that are smart are those that are stick-out-ish! Oh, no! Ruffles can be very subtle these days, not just gathered onto what they are supposed to be gathered onto, but sort of carefully planned as to this gathering—one or two pleats per ruffle or a turned-back-and-under per ruffle, or ruffles showing very tight accordion pleats in the center per ruffle, each group of pleats about an inch apart.

White crepe evening shoes are the bunk!"

"Shame on you!" But you see, they are so lovely and so flattering to the feet, and then you wear 'em once and they get all stepped on, 'n' then you step in the mud getting out of a taxi, 'n' then some one spills a glass of champagne——er-er-er. I mean lemonade on 'em—'n' then you send 'em to the "cleaner" 'n' then they don't clean—oh, there just isn't any guardian angel of limited pocketbooks!

But there is an answer to all this problem—'n' I'll tell you what it is tomorrow—er, or "manana!"

And what are nice little fans made of? Chiffon and lace and an ebony brace! Or some such or other, you know, and handkerchiefs, too! Get some new ideas about them from this week's illustrated leaflet. The "price" of the leaflet is a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post and I just have a hunch you'll think it's much more than worth it!

Georgette of a heavy and very substantial quality is one of the most popular materials this season for afternoon dresses, coats, tailleurs and some evening gowns.

Mag-helly has a particular line that is noticeable to an "observant observer"—see what I mean in the coat and the dress I sketched for you today? The dress was of mauve crepe, and the coat of dark green woolen trimmed with beige fox—they are not supposed to be worn together, of course, but I sketched them together to show you the line!

WORK ON BRIDGE

MISPLAYED HANDS I HAVE MET.

At Contract the bidding would be: South two No Trumps, jumped by North to three.

When the hand was played, West properly started by leading the Eight of Clubs. Dummy played the Trey, East the Deuce, and South won the trick. South then led the King of Spades; and next the Nine of Spades, playing small from dummy with the hope that the six adverse Spades were evenly divided and that a long Spade could be established in dummy. Although the chances were against the success of the scheme, it worked; but when East won the second Spade trick, he led a Club through South and the adversaries won the next three tricks. Needing but one more trick to save game, West led a Heart, forcing South's Ace. Dummy then was put in with a Spade and South obtained a discard on dummy's Seven. Dummy next led a Diamond for a successful finesse after which the Ace of Diamonds was cashed. So all that Declarer could make was three Spades, one Heart, two Diamonds and one Club—two tricks short of game.

The Correct Play.

The Declarer was guilty of an oft-committed error in not playing dummy's Club Ten to trick 1. When a Declarer holds in the suit originally led against a No Trump, Ten and two small in dummy and King-Queen and one small in closed hand, the play of the Ten from dummy gives the best chance of capturing two tricks in the suit. In this case the play was marked because of West's lead of the Eight. Presumably he was leading his fourth best, and the Ace, Jack and Nine were the only higher Clubs not in Declarer's view; consequently the Ten was sure to win. After winning with the Ten of Clubs, dummy should lead a Diamond; South winning the finesse, should lead a low Spade which (North also playing small) the adversaries would win and establish their Clubs. With the adverse Spades evenly divided, three Spades could be made by Declarer, and also the Ace of Hearts. Furthermore, as dummy would have two chances to lead Diamonds, four Diamond tricks could be secured and two Club tricks; so that the Declarer should take ten tricks instead of the seven actually obtained.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"The Mystery of Attraction."

DEAR Miss McDonald: I have been reading your column with much interest, and was particularly interested in a letter from a girl who signs herself "Pearl" and who explains that she can not decide whether she loathes or loves a boy who has a strange attraction for her. This gives me courage to write of my problem, which before I read this seemed so utterly silly I hated to ask advice on it. In your reply to Pearl you referred very briefly to magnetism, attraction, &c., and said that when people were better educated along such lines they would understand such situations. I wonder if there are not many others who find themselves unaccountably attracted to people they shouldn't be attracted to, and whom they don't want to be attracted to. Do you not think that some people seem to have an "atmosphere" which attracts certain people with whom they come in contact? I am really beginning to believe this, for in no other way can I account for my experiences, which came undesired and unwelcomed.

I have never had a romance, and but few and very casual friends among the "men." People all tell me I am the type who never attracts men. However, while I don't attract, there are certain men who have crossed my path who have caused me to feel the strongest attraction to them. This is quite disturbing to me, especially as I have to get over it the best way I can, having no hope of attracting them. Oftentimes these men are married, other times they are decidedly not at all worth while, again they are extremely fine men, and single. None of them has known that I really existed; none of them gave me, except on rare occasions, any reason for becoming infatuated, if I may use that term. Life has taught me to at least try to be sensible, and whenever possible I always sever all connections with such persons, especially when the person is married or undesirable. I can't understand why just certain men have this ability, while others equally attractive leave me "cold."

One of these affairs is happening now. It came entirely unexpectedly. I am a very healthy woman, but have a sinus trouble which has resisted every effort to cure. For several years I took treatment from a certain physician but received no relief. A friend told me of another doctor, whom I decided to try as a last resort. I visited him and now it has "gone and happened" again. I felt attracted to him the moment I saw him. He is a tall, slender, quiet man with a bashful grin and ears that stick out like sails. I thought at first it was just the genuine liking one feels for a thoroughly nice person, but lo and behold it is something entirely different. He is completely and satisfactorily married, seems to adore his wife, and certainly sees in me only a "case" and probably a totally routine and uninteresting one. I find myself looking forward with the keenest pleasure to my visits to him. If it were not for the fact that he is really getting very good results with the treatments I would discontinue them in a hurry, but you see it would be ridiculous to do so when I have tried so long and so unsuccessfully to get relief. Now, why in the name of common sense, if I had to become so smitten with somebody, why wasn't it the other doctor to whom I went for several years? He was better looking, more polished, shaking hands upon each visit, jumping to open doors and to help put on coats, never failing to be interested, expressing the greatest regret if he kept me waiting, and so far as I know he is single, at least I never heard any one mention his wife. Strange to say all these dozen or so men who have thus affected me resemble each other, and usually, but not always, they are men whom other women find very unattractive. Other women have found very attractive men who have not affected me in the least. Please don't think me a silly old maid with a complex, but if you have any ideas about throwing off or resisting these apparently irresistible attractions won't you pass them along to me? Thanks a whole lot. LOUISE.

They all resemble each other! That would just delight the dear scientists, Louise! You see the latest theory is that we are just a handful of chemicals. That one person has a "calcium" personality, another a "sulphur" personality (the redheads, maybe), anyway the theory is that if you are a calcium all the calciums leave you "cold," no matter how attractive they may be to the "sulphurs" or the "limes." But let your particular chemical complement step up and ask you for the next dance, and "ohmigoodness!"

Not a bit romantic, is it? But vastly intriguing! And, of course, the psychoanalysts would see in your statement that they "all resemble each other" the proof of their theory that not only do they resemble one another but they also all resemble your father. And so it goes, Louise, until really when one's heart goes pit-a-pat today one does not know whether to look up the family album to locate the complex or eat a meal of sulphur to restore the balance.

It's hard on romance, anyway you take it, but does give romance a new angle, yea?

You just love the new books on the subject of magnetism, Louise, why not ask for them in the library and give yourself a treat?

This column is for you! Your experiences, opinions and suggestions will help those who read this page. Express your views and help those in need of advice. You need not sign your name.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

APPLE BUTTER CAN BE MADE WITH OR WITHOUT CIDER.

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

Apple butter has not lost its old-time popularity, but it does not seem to be made in such generous quantities or in so many homes as formerly. It is an excellent spread for school or supper sandwiches, as well as a good preserve to use at any time. You can make apple butter out of the sound portions of windfall, wormy and bruised apples, saving the perfect fruit for other uses.

While almost any apples will make good apple butter, those which have a distinctly rich, tart flavor and good cooking quality are most satisfactory. Such old standard varieties as Northern Spy, Rhode Island Greening, Tompkins King and Smokehouse, as well as Jonathan, Grimes Golden, Stayman Winesap and other standard sorts are excellent for the purpose, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Overripe apples are not desirable, but if they must be used a little vinegar, determined by taste, may be added to give some snap to the butter.

APPLE BUTTER WITH CIDER.

Either fresh cider or commercial sterilized cider may be used. The usual proportion of peeled and sliced apples to cider in gallon for gallon, but from one-half to three-quarters of a gallon of cider to a gallon of sliced apples will also give a rich product if the apples are good cookers. The mixture is cooked until the cider and apples do not separate and the butter when cold is as thick as good apple sauce. Strict attention must be given to stirring throughout the cooking, lest the butter scorch. Determine the thickness at frequent intervals by cooking small portions.

"PISCES."

IF March 10 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 9 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2:30 to 2:30 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 8 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., and from 10 p. m. to 11 p. m.

Viewed from a material standpoint only, favoring influences will be in force on this date. An unsatisfied hunger, however, will be sensed for those things which feed the mind and soul. Travelers are warned against minor accidents.

The child born on this March 10 will be endowed with much natural ability, and is not destined to play a minor role in this life. It will be gracious in manner, kindly of heart and sociable. Its adaptability will be its dominating trait.

Nature was most kind to you when she gave you your "contentment." Your wars with self or your surroundings are short-lived—you accept the inevitable with a smile and you work for the rest with a spirit which is bound to bring success and not failure. Your ambitions are more of an intellectual nature than a material one, and you are always striving to improve your mind. You are only sociable to a degree. You enjoy the companionship of congenial folks, but you are really happiest when in communion with your own thoughts or browsing in a book. You have far too great a mental storehouse to permit boredom. It is not ease, riches or the applause of men for which you are striving, but the opportunity of doing something worth while. A superficial life in any form does not appeal to you, nor do superficial people attract you.

You have a very strong will power (separate and apart from stubbornness), and you usually carry out your resolutions. You have a modest amount of self-confidence, but you never assume a know-it-all attitude. You are able to recognize your own powers without letting conceit enter into your being. You have considerable initiative and you are not afraid of responsibilities. You are generally regarded as well-informed and intellectual and your judgment is respected. A busy but secluded and quiet life is the one which you choose from preference.

Successful people born March 10:

3—Donald M. Fairfax—naval officer.

4—Dudley Buck—organist and composer.

The Washington Post

One of the strangest phenomena of the World War has been the reluctance of veterans to talk about their experiences—excepting when in the company of those who shared their hardships and dangers and the occasional bright spots of humorous occurrences.

Now the silence is to be broken—veterans themselves will tell of the outstanding memories of happenings in which they participated; in the training camps, on shipboard, in the training areas of France and England and on the field of battle. Short, punchy stories, in the language of the soldier, sailor and marine, giving an intimate glimpse of life as it was in the stirring years of 1917-1918.

200 BODIES YIELDED IN FLOOD TERRITORY

Toll Expected to Reach 400 in Ruined Provinces of France.

PILLAGERS ARE CAUGHT

Mountauban, France, March 9 (A.P.).—The tragic triangle marked by Agen, Moissac, and Montauban today presented a scene of devastation which branded the flood which swept the district last Monday night and Tuesday morning as one of the worst in the history of France. Thirty-five more bodies were found under the ruins of Moissac today.

This brings the total of known dead at Moissac to 125, and there are forebodings that many are still lying under the wreckage of the three ancient and prosperous towns. More than 200 bodies have now been recovered. In addition to the 125 at Moissac, 43 have been found at Montaban, 9 at Agen, and the rest in a scattering of small towns and villages along the banks of the Garonne and Tarn Rivers.

Death Estimate Rises.

Five days after the flood, reconstruction workers have begun to get a line on the extent of the deaths and damages. It is now estimated that the deaths will be nearer 400 than 300. The estimates have been steadily rising.

The material damages are enormous. At Reynies, a village near Montauban, not one house out of a total of 140 is left standing. Some parts of the village are still 6 feet under water, and searching parties have not even been able to get to work. The loss of life here will probably be heavy.

More than 3,000 houses were destroyed in the cities and villages within the triangle. Within a district of 300 square miles the crops were destroyed and flocks and herds wiped out.

Quarter Wiped Out.

Montauban itself is a fine town of 30,000 inhabitants, and lies near the extreme eastern edge of the ravaged area.

One of its quarters, called Sapiecou, was entirely wiped out, and another, Villebourn, has about one-quarter of its houses left standing. Besides the bodies of 43 persons that have been recovered, nearly 80 persons are listed as missing.

The grewsome find of 35 bodies at Moissac this morning struck consternation into the hearts of the searchers at Montauban, where the salvage work has been slower because of the more difficult lines of the terrain.

Passing through Moissac today, the Associated Press correspondent saw seventeen coffins of cheap white wood piled up inside the Church of Sainte Catherine, which has been transformed into a mourning chapel since Thursday.

One Continuous Funeral.

"There has been one continuous funeral since Thursday," Father La Broue, the parish priest, said.

President Doumergue and Premier Tardieu, catching their first sight of the destroyed quarter here, both exclaimed, "It's like the war." The Tarn River, flowing among the ruined houses, bears a strange resemblance to the River Meuse at Verdun in 1918. The bodies of animals and wreckage of all sorts are floating rapidly down the stream.

Marauders and pillagers have made their apearance at Moissac. Three were captured during the night by Sengalese soldiers on relief and patrol duty.

"When do we shoot them, captain?" the soldiers asked.

The prisoners, who came from distant parts of France, were locked up in the jail at Agen.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agri., Weather Bureau.
Washington, Sunday, Mar. 9—8 p. m.

Forecast for the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia—Fair and warmer Monday; Tuesday increasing cloudiness and warmer; gentle variable winds, becoming southerly Monday and increasing Tuesday.

The Atlantic Coast disturbance has moved northeastward to Nova Scotia and the Gulf of St. Lawrence, Chatham, N. B., 29.12 inches, and it has been attended by rain or snow within the last 24 hours in the Appalachian region, New England and the interior of New York, and by strong westerly winds in the middle Atlantic and north Atlantic States. Other disturbances are centered as follows: Mayo, Yukon, 29.20 inches; The Pas, Manitoba, 29.46 inches, and Wichita, Kans., 29.64 inches. These three disturbances have caused very little precipitation. Pressure is relatively high from the Ohio Valley southward to the Gulf of Mexico, Tampa, Fla., 30.08 inches, and it is high and rising over the north Pacific States and the northern plateau region, North Head, Wash., 30.40 inches. The temperature has risen from the lake region southwestward to the Rio Grande and the west gulf coast, and in the southern Appalachian region and portions of the south Atlantic States. Elsewhere temperature changes have been unimportant.

Fair weather will prevail in the Washington forecast district Monday, and in the Atlantic States Tuesday, but the eastward advance of the disturbance now over the plains States will likely cause showers Tuesday or Tuesday night as far east as the Appalachian region. The temperature will rise Monday and in the Atlantic States Tuesday.

Fifth Ave. Fashions NEW YORK

EVEN hemline predominant fashion for street wear.

In the fashionable supple tweed in Lanvin green tones, the becoming open neckline with attractively shaped shawl collar is of plain green woolen in blending shade. The belt indicating normal waistline is of the green woolen. The long dart-fitted sleeves show a touch of green in piping at the wrists.

It is designed in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust.

Black and white tweed, with plain black, Paquin red novelty woolen with plain woolen in matching shade, black silk crepe with absinthe green crepe, wool jersey in rust brown and canton crepe in Patou tan are advanced ideas for spring.

All patterns of Lucille Lorraine styles are 15 cents each. Mail your order to our Fashion Department, Washington Post, 259 Fifth avenue, New York City. Be sure to write your name and address clearly and give the number and size of the pattern.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

WHEN the Theater Guild unpacks its baggage at the National Theater tonight and unravels Turgenev's comedy, "A Month in the Country," 'twill mark the first presentation of this famous play in the United States.

"A Month in the Country" was recently given a successful London production. For years the play has been in the repertory of the Moscow Art Theater. One of the most brilliant of the Turgenev plays, "A Month in the Country" will be presented by rather a brilliant cast, including Alla Nazimova, Dudley Digges, Elliot Cabot, Henry Travers, Alexander Kirkland, Hortense Alden, Douglass Dumbrille, Eunice Stoddard, Eda Heinemann, Minna Phillips, Charles Kraus, Edward Wragge, Louis Veda and others.

The production has been staged by Rouben Mamoulian. Mr. Mamoulian will come to Washington and remain here throughout the engagement of the play. The stage settings are by Raymond Sovey from the original Russian designs of Doduschinski.

The National this week has the field to itself. Mr. T. D. Bonneville, manager of Poli's Theater, with no attraction to keep him busy, has staged a duck hunt down—or up—the Potomac. "A Month in the Country," according to Mr. Bonneville, is not a bad idea; especially at this time of year when spring fever is on the wing, and the frost off the pumpkins. Alas, he must be back at his desk week after next—for he has an attraction on the way, "The Merry Widow," with Donald Brian starred It is due here the week of March 24. So there'll be no month in the country for Mr. Bonneville.

• • • •

While the Stratford-Upon-Avon Festival Company sped on its way to Philadelphia yesterday this office was deluged with letters—written probably the night before—all of which contained high praise for the players. The general hope is expressed that this English company returns as a regular feature of the dramatic seasons ahead. Several writers took issue with Mr. Robert King, the old-timer, who compared Wilfred Walter's voice with the heavy basso of DeWolf Hopper. Especially did they light upon the assertion that Mr. Hopper never played Shakespearean roles. "Aha, me lad," writes one who wishes his identity hidden, "hast never heard DeWolf Hopper recite Marc Antony's oration." Other letters claim the same thing, and still others point to a private—performance wherein Mr. Hopper played "Hamlet," but that's all news to me. "Othello," yes; and perhaps Romeo, but Hamlet, never! Not even in the Lambs' Club.

GAYETY

"Step Lively" is the title readily suited to the 21 girls who participate in that snappy production holding forth at the Gayety this week.

Michael and Bentley, sponsoring this production, introduce as their feature, Elsie Burgere, that Hotsey Totsey Girl, who appears to have a claim on the title of Miss Personality, of the Mutual Circuit. Yesterday this little blonde, not only appeared in flashy numbers, but entertained with some dancing of a high caliber. A little "Doll," Jackie Teeters, was full of pep yesterday, and made her presence felt in a high degree. The funny combination of Bentley and Levy supplied all the laughs of the performance.

The plantation scene, which brought the principals out in some classy costumes, and a snappy chorus, dominated by two former Georgetown lassies, was pleasing to view.

With his continuation to give the fans plenty of entertainment, Jimmy Lake had that famed Raffles and Company, who sent several thrills to those in attendance. Marcella, Vera, and Louise, all pretty, lent to the quality of this extra.

Wednesday, "Auction," and Friday, "Amatuer," are the two big nights listed on the Gayety bill this week.

OWNERS AND PUBLIC MUST AGREE ON POWER POLICY

Utilities Interests Face Public Ownership Talk

Consumers, Regulating Bodies and Private Owners Can Stave Off Agitation Only by Closer Union, Is View.

By IRVING FISHER
(Professor of Economics, Yale University).
(Special to The Washington Post.)

Critics assert flatly that public ownership in some form is inevitable, unless the attitude of the utility companies toward regulation and in the functioning of the regulating commission are radically changed; but they "do not feel that public opinion is yet ready for that alternative."

The last decade has registered great economies in generating and distributing current, in which the public is entitled to share.

The question is made further acute by the formation of many large mergers and planning for more of them. The utility merger has the great advantage of effecting economies.

In order to gain full benefit of their modernized service, both the utilities and the regulatory bodies had conscientiously to do all in their power to make sane regulation a success.

The power problem promises to be a chief storm center in our politics for many years to come.

New Haven, Conn., March 9.—The tremendous expansion in the consumption of light and power in industry emphasizes the public interest in the industries which furnish these utilities. This may be seen in the general criticism from many quarters of the recent action by the New York Telephone Co. in raising its rates without consulting the public service commission of that State. The commission itself has been severely censured by members of the commission on revision of the utilities law.

Members of the latter commission urge, among other recommendations, "prudent investment" as the proper basis for rate making; a people's counsel to initiate and handle cases before the public utilities commission and the courts; a uniform accounting system; granting municipalities larger powers to build or take over public utility plants. These critics assert flatly that public ownership in some form is inevitable unless the attitude of the utility companies toward regulation and in the functioning of the regulating commission are radically changed; but they "do not feel that public opinion is yet ready for the alternative."

The Companies' Side.

On the other hand, Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., laments that his company had been trying to get an increase of rates in New York since 1920, and that the increase recently granted should really date back by about ten years. Mr. Gifford maintains that had the company secured what it needed in 1920, probably it would not feel constrained to ask for an increase. Moreover, he asserts with some force that the change in purchasing power of the dollar since then has necessitated an increase. The depreciated dollar of 1920 would buy about 40 cents worth of goods compared with the present dollar. But, of course, the last decade has registered great economies in generating and distributing current, in which the public is entitled to share.

This is understandable from the huge earnings and enormous building plans for the various utility companies. They are now at the height of activities in the shaft, referred to by the Hoover committee on recent economic changes as from a "machine civilization created by steam power to a machine civilization created by electric power." For example, the New England Power Association in 1929 had a total of 125 construction jobs, out of which 90, involving the expenditure of more than $20,000,000, had been finished. This work is typical of the growing demands on utility companies made by the public.

Consumption Caused Building.

The increased use of electric energy required the expansion of the generating, transmission and distributing facilities of this association. The result in 1929 was the building of a new 200,000-horsepower hydroelectric development on the upper Connecticut River at the Lower 15-Mile Falls Site, which will be open for general operation about October, 1930. This is the largest development of the kind scheduled for completion in the United States this year. It will be the second largest hydroelectric station east of Niagara Falls.

Such a project shows clearly the increased participation of the public in the offerings of utilities companies, and the increased stake of the communities they serve in the right conduct of these companies. Until the present most of this construction has been done under private ownership. Only lately the question has been raised, with increasing insistence, whether such projects for the betterment of the community should not belong to the community rather than to a small group. The question is made further acute by the formation of many large mergers and planning for more of them. The utility merger has the great advantage of effecting economies through the centralization of its distribution units.

Large System Now Successful.

The trend of earnings by the larger systems shows a distinctly rosy hue. Preliminary reports for January of several electric power utility companies indicate sizable gains in output and profits, over the corresponding months of 1929, and considerable increase over November and December in 1928. With further economies effected, it is fair to assume that the receipts will reach even a higher ratio.

Electric power produced during 1929 reached a new high record of 97,292,000,000 kilowatt hours, an increase of 11 per cent over 1928. This was at a faster rate than the increase of 1928, which recorded 10 per cent advance over the preceding year. Total gross revenues of utilities ran to approximately $10,000,000,000 per year.

Growth Meant Regulation.

In order to gain full benefit of their modernized service, both the utilities and the regulatory bodies had conscientiously to do all in their power to make sane regulation a success. But instances have appeared wherein utilities leaders have seemed to avoid some of the responsibilities imposed by regulation. Also, at times the regulatory bodies have not seemed to avoid bias either for or against the utilities corporations. As in the case of the railways a generation ago, political pressure is great. On the one side is the public, with its voting power, demanding lower rates; on the other are powerful capitalists whose campaign contributions control political organizations. Just now the spotlight in Connecticut is on Prof. Albert Leavitt and his fight against J. H. Roraback, over the utilities issue. The problem affects the politics of New York City and State, and reaches to national politics. It underlay the long dispute over Muscle Shoals. It underlay the Senate fight over Justice Hughes and the Supreme Court. Along with prohibition, the power problem promises to be a chief storm center in our politics for many years to come.

The growth of chain department stores has been one of the outstanding business features of the last few years. Their further development will be discussed by Prof. Fisher in one of his forthcoming Monday articles.

NEW YORK STOCKS GAIN NEW HIGHS

Eleven Out of 20 Groups Make Best Prices Since the Crash.

BUSINESS SEEN UPWARD

Eleven out of twenty groups make their peaks since the November crash—chemicals recover nearly one-half of loss between September high and November low, while electrical equipment stocks regain three-fifths of loss between August 24 and November 13.

As the commodity market slumps the stock market rises to new peaks since the crash. The one reflects the bitter past, the other the hopeful future. For it is the function of the stock market to discount future values, and the continued rise in equity securities in an acutely selective marken can mean only that prospects of business recovery are good. Eleven out of twenty groups in the Fisher stock indexes last week reached new peaks since the November crash, while the other nine groups made substantial gains.

The latest upward movement, starting February 21, registered 151.8 on March 7, the highest since the crash. This high point shows a 24 per cent increase in prices of common shares over the low of 122.7 on November 13.

Half Made Gains.

Of the 320 stocks quoted in the Fisher indexes, 48 per cent made gains, 22 per cent losses last week, while 30 per cent showed no change. Pronounced gains were in Westinghouse Electric, Loew's, International Business Machine, Johns Manville, Case Threshing Machine, Goodyear Tire, American Tobacco B, Liggett & Myers, Drug, Inc., American Power & Light, North American and Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe.

All stock groups showed the upward movement, with largest gains in agricultural equipment, tobaccos, foods, electrical, radio, chemical, office equipment and oils. Radio's gain over the November low was 77 per cent; electrical, 74 per cent; chemicals and agricultural products, 47 per cent; office equipment and tobacco, 37 per cent; miscellaneous and utilities, 32 per cent; auto accessories, 22 per cent; foods, 21 per cent, and preferred stocks, 7.5 per cent. Chemicals have recovered 49 per cent of 158 points lost between September 3 high and November 13 low. Electrical equipment stocks have recovered 59 per cent of the 238 points lost between August 24 high and November 13 low. The remaining nine groups show considerable gains over their lows.

Values Rise in Stocks.

A groundswell was manifest last week in the stock market. Tradings in common industrial stocks on the New York Stock Exchange rose by $29,700,000; an increase of $10,200,000 in utilities and of less than $1,000,000 in rails and preferred stocks brought the all-stocks tradings to $201,500,000, rising by 25 per cent above the preceding week. The unexpected total of $94,000,000 increase in brokers' loans told the tale of increased activity.

Seventeen of the twenty groups rose with utilities, chemicals, electrical equipment, radio, agricultural equipment, oils and coppers, showing large increases.

Motors fell off by $300,000; machinery and railway equipment by $1,200,000, and steels by $1,900,000.

March 5 was a record trading day for foods and oil stocks. For foods, $13,100,000 represented the largest day since November 13, last, when $20,700,000 was reached. Oils tradings of $12,700,000 compares with $13,500,000 traded December 20, last.

London and Paris Prices Down.

Average common stock prices in London are virtually back where they crashed last fall and winter, with the sharp recovery following the bottom of December 27 all but obliterated. London stocks fell last week by 0.64 per cent to 1.8 per cent above the low.

Prices on the Paris Bourse lost by 0.07 per cent last week; the index stands 5.4 per cent above the low of the crash on November 29, 1929.

Berlin stock prices showed no change last week, following the slight rise of the preceding week. The Berlin index is 2.6 per cent above the low of the crash on November 29.

Exchange Movements Surveyed.

The compact survey of New York Stock Exchange movements of common industrial shares is given below in price indexes (1926 equals 100). There are two indexes of market price movement. The first ("Share Outsanding") represents all common industrial shares listed on the exchange, the importance of each stock being considered according to the shares in existence, or outstanding. The second index ("50 Leaders") shows the price movement of the common industrial stocks most heavily dealt in during the week, this list changing weekly with the shifts in trading popularity.

The "Shares Outstanding" index shows what a substantially representative $100 worth of stocks in 1926 would now amount to if held unchanged since that year. The "50 Leaders" index shows the result of reinvesting the $100 every week in the market favorites of that week.

The last column of the table gives the rate of return on the week's 50 leaders at current prices.

	Shares outstand'g.	50 market leaders.	Rate of return.

The stock market acted healthily last week, with the investment group rising faster than the speculative and semispeculative issues. Investment stocks gained 2.5 per cent to total recovery of the 5 per cent loss incurred during February. At the close last week this group was 28.4 per cent higher than the low of the November crash.

The speculative group slackened its pace early last week, but closed 1.5 per cent up from the preceding week's close, and 27 per cent above the low of November 13, 1929.

Semispeculative stocks, which advanced slowly during February and last week, were up 1.8 per cent at the close last week and 20 per cent above November 13; but they were still 1.8 points below December 10, the peak since the crash.

Below are shown index numbers of prices of common industrials on the New York Stock Exchange, arranged in classes derived from Moody's ratings.

Wheat Ls Unharmed By Low Temperatures

By KARL G. KARSTEN.

More seasonable conditions produced a cold snap last week in the wheat belt. Beyond localized freezing and thawing which caused some heaving in the Ohio Valley no damage appears to have been done.

Two weeks of unusually warm weather preceding last week's had caused considerable greening, but the lower temperatures of recent days brought very little winter-killing, it being confined to southern Kansas. Elsewhere, especially in the great plains area, condition remains very good to excellent. Only slight addition to soil moisture in the southern part of the belt is needed.

COMMODITY PRICES ARE STILL DROPPING

MONEY RATES LOWER

By H. B. BROUGHAM
(Irving Fisher Service).

How severe the business depression of the last half year has been is indicated by the sharp drop in commodity prices by nearly 1 per cent last week to a new low below that of January, 1922. The index last week stood at 91, the lowest since September, 1916, when it was 86.9.

The stimulus of purchases by the Federal Farm Board failed to raise the price of wheat last week, while cotton reached a new low, and five times as many commodities fell in price as rose.

The admission by Secretary of Labor Davis last week that unemployment had reached a total of 3,000,000 workmen was coincident with this fall in commodity prices. It meant that the streams of consumer purchasing power are being affected by disemployment, and this operates further to discourage production.

It is part of a world process of price deflation, occasioned by tight money conditions during the past two years and accentuated by lack of balanced production, from prime production through the intermediate processes to the making and distributing of goods at retail. The decline was first in the price of raw materials. But this is usual, occasioned by noting that the increase in the rate of demand for finished goods had slackened, as compared with the rate of producing them. Petroleum, raw silk, coffee, sugar, rubber, nonferrous metals and grain crops, besides other commodities, have piled up in huge surpluses which must now be gotten rid of before prices can mend.

Money Rates Lower.

The remedies are being applied. Money rates last week went lower, not only in America, but in Great Britain, Germany and Denmark. Building programs have been maintained and extended. Lower prices have themselves acted as a corrective factor. The bottom should soon be reached.

Foods Cause Price Slump.

The farm products and foodstuffs groups bore the main brunt of the heavy slump in commodity prices last week, taking more than half the falls in the entire list. Such commodities

PREFERENCE STILL STRONG FOR BONDS

Offerings Up to Near $100,000,000 in First Week of March; Big Gain.

INDEX GAINS 19 PER CENT

Bond offerings last week rose to nearly $100,000,000, comparing with the total of $344,875,000 for the entire month of February, and with the week's issuance of only $3,000,000 in common stocks. The preference for bonds over stocks since the November crash has been pronounced. But February bond financing dropped to 55 per cent of the January issues, while the opening week of March shows gratifyingly above the rate for 1929 at this time.

Bond prices and tradings which had slumped slightly early last week, increased on Thursday and Friday to the largest day's volume since February 19. Prices closed with 0.19 per cent gain in the daily index. Average daily tradings on the New York Stock Exchange rose by $1,100,000 over the preceding week. Of the 70 bonds in the Fisher index, 46 per cent rose, 23 per cent fell and 31 per cent showed no change at the week's close.

Rising prices in all rails and U. S. Government bonds aided recovery in the all-bond index. Industrial, utility and foreign government bonds have been inactive thus far in 1930, varying not more than half a point.

First grade rails equaled March 7 the 1929-1930 high of 101.0 recorded January 11, 1930. During the three weeks following January 11, this index declined to 99.0 on January 31; during February, prices were steady.

Second grade rails are but 0.1 point below their 1929-1930 high of 103.6 on February 10.

U. S. Government bonds showed slight weakness during January; rising prices since then have within five weeks brought the index to the highest point since January 8.

Commodity Drop Not Alarming.

When any one professes alarm over the present decline in commodity prices, some students of economics point to the times before 1921. In those days it was nothing for the commodity to fluctuate much more violently—both ways.

WALL STREET GOSSIP

New York, March 9 (A.P.).—Gains in industrial activity to augment the natural recovery from the slump of last year are in evidence, but improvement is proceeding slowly, says the American Bankers Association Journal. It adds, and the pace is still below that of a year ago as measured by the usual statistical barometers.

New securities to be offered tomorrow will include an issue of $9,000,000 State of Arkansas 4¾ per cent short-term notes, due December 7, 1930. The notes are being issued for highway purposes.

The bureau of railway economics of the American Railway Association reports that capital expenditure made by the class 1 railroads in 1929 for new equipment and additions and betterments to property used in transportation service totaled $583,721,000, the largest amount of any year since 1926, when $885,086,000 was expended.

Sales of the Budd Wheel Co., of Philadelphia and Detroit, for February were approximately 50 per cent above those of the preceding month.

An order for 41 elevators to be installed in the new 45-story Starrett Building in Cincinnati has been received by the Westinghouse Elevator Co., a subsidiary of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. The elevators will cost about $1,000,000.

An issue of $1,000,000 City of Seattle, Wash., 4½ per cent water revenue bonds, maturing April 1, 1941 to 1960, inclusive, is being offered for public subscription tomorrow. The bonds will be priced at 99½ and interest.

What an Index Number Is.

An index number is a measurement that tells the degree of change from one period to another in prices, production, sales, contrasted with a record of some given period as 100 per cent normal. For example, if cotton production was 109 last year, that means that it was 9 per cent above 1926, the year chosen as normal.

Chemical Industry Is Strong.

In the face of the general drop in commodity prices, the U. S. chemical industry holds out very well. This is probably due to its firmer foothold on the world market. According to the American Chemical Society's annual analysis, an adverse balance of trade in chemicals of nearly $6,000,000 in 1928 was changed to a favorable balance of $8,000,000 in 1929.

WASHINGTON: MONDAY, MARCH 10, 1930. 13

WOLTZ-ST. MARTIN'S FEATURE AS A. A. U. TITLE PLAY STARTS

Montrose, With Western Stars, Starts Big Program.

J. C. C. Flashes Play Arcadians; Church Five Clash.

THE District A. A. U. basket ball championships get under way tonight in a new setting and under the direct supervision of a new governing body. Tech High School's spacious gymnasium is the scene of the opening battle and will be the battleground on which many of the major contests will be staged throughout the tournament.

The recently organized District Association of the A. A. U. will supervise the tournament, held annually under the auspices of The Washington Post, for the first time.

All preliminary requirements met, 85 teams, seeking titles in the seven divisions, stand ready to meet their first-round assignments. Eight of these teams, four contenders for the men's unlimited title, go into action tonight.

Representative Fred A. Hartley, jr., of New Jersey, will toss the first ball into play at 7 o'clock tonight, to send the Montrose A. C. and Remsen Unlimited Teams into the throes of title combat.

Woltz Faces Test In Opener.

Seeded at the top of the first bracket, the Woltz Photographers are called upon to defend their unlimited title at the very outset. The St. Martin's Catholic Church, headed by Johnny Wanley, high scorer this year in the Prince Georges County League, was drawn to meet the title holders. Never before in three previous tournaments have two such outstanding teams in their class been pitted against each other in a first-round contest.

Two rival church teams in quest of the 145-pound championship are to face in the initial game of that class. The Wallace Memorial and Calvary Baptist Fives are to clash at 8 o'clock, with each battling to sidestep the inevitable elimination that is to befall one of the two.

Rivaling the Woltz-St. Martin's contest as the headliner of the evening's program, the Jewish Community Center Flashes and the Arcadians, each a potential 130-pound championship combination, will meet in the 9 o'clock contest.

Flashes Have Remarkable Record.

The Flashes went to the semifinal round last year before losing their first game of the season, and this year have won 21 straight games after dropping the first assignment of the campaign. The Arcadians tote a record as impressive and have been rated strong contenders for the 130-pound title from the start.

The Woltz Photographers will have their strongest combination in action tonight in an effort to pile up a commanding lead, but the Saints, depending largely upon Wanley, plan to batter down the favorites with a defensive that has stopped many of the powerful scoring combinations throughout the season.

Many figures familiar to Western High School fans will sport Montrose A. C. colors. The Remsens, greatly underrated, are not pessimistic concerning their prospects. Former high school players and Government Printing Office employes largely comprise the Wallace Memorial Team, which faces a formidable foe in the Calvary Baptist Drakes, who have left a trail of victims in Sunday School League circles.

Two of the outstanding stars of the A. A. U. unlimited teams playing tonight are pictured above. At top—John Wanley, St. Martin's forward and high scorer of the Prince Georges County League. At bottom—Jimmy Thompson, Western's all-high forward, who returns to his old club, Montrose, for the tourney.

Princeton and Columbia In 1932 Grid Contest

New York, March 9 (A.P.).—After a 27-year lapse, Princeton and Columbia will resume football relations in 1932.

Announcement of a home-and-home series for 1932 and 1933 between the two universities was made today by Reynolds Benson, graduate manager of athletics at Columbia. Princeton will play at Baker Field here October 8, 1932, and will act as host to Columbia at Palmer Stadium October 14, 1933.

Princeton and Columbia first met in football on November 14, 1874. Princeton winning six goals to none. Games were played in 1875-76-77-79-81-82-89-90-99 and 1900-02-05. Of the thirteen games played Princeton won twelve.

Harrisonburg Sextet Wins in N. Y. Games

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., March 9.—In triumphing over New York University, 71 to 19, and Savage School, 28-24, in their first invasion of New York City, the Harrisonburg State Teachers College court sextette returns here tomorrow with a record of being undefeated over the past two seasons of play against the strongest schools in the East. Harrisonburg has registered sixteen straight victories. Only one game was lost in the season of 1928.

Seeded Pairs In Four-Ball Victories

Sarazen and Farrell Win in Play for $5,000 Purse.

By REX SAFFER.

MIAMI, Fla., March 9 (A.P.).—Favorites in the first day of play in the $5,000 international four-ball match classic stroked their way to easy victory over Miami Country Club Course today as sixteen two-man teams won their 36-hole matches.

Gene Sarazen and Johnny Farrell, winners of the 1928 event, and runners-up for 1929, had an easy time as they chalked up a 7 and 6 win over Jack Thompson, Youngstown, Ohio, and Johnny Connell, Chicago. The former champions were one down during the first nine holes, but squared themselves on the eighteenth and on the out-bound trip in the afternoon piled up a five-hole edge that resulted in their 7 and 6 score.

Horton Smith, newly signed professional at Cragston, N. Y., and Ed Dudley, of Wilmington, Del., held their seeded position in the lower bracket with a 3 and 2 victory over Wilfred Reid, snappy eDtroit professional, and Charlie Murray, from Toronto, Ontario. The winners led all along the way.

Manion and Dante Win Thriller.

The day's only extended thrill to the gallery was the Willie Dow-Earl Howell affair with Johnny Manion, St. Louis, and Jim Dante, Madison, N. J., in which the latter won 1 up in 38 holes.

Dow, from Fargo, N. Dak., and Howell, from St. Louis, were alternately int eh lead and behind until the twenty-seventh hole. From then on they were even up to the thirty-eighth, where Dow missed a 16-inch putt to give the day's laurels to his opponents.

Denny Shute, Columbus, Ohio, winner of the 1930 Los Angeles open, paired with Tony Manero, Elmsford, N. Y., in an overwhelming 7 and 5 defeat of Mike Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., and Herman Barron, Portchester.

Lou Waldron scored a hole-in-one during his afternoon round. Waldron's feat was performed with a mashie niblick on the 155-yard eighth hole.

Other victors in today's upper bracket matches were:

Frank Walsh, Chicago, and Al Watrous, Detroit, scored 6 and 5 vicotry over Ray McAuliffe, Bridgeburg, Ontario, and Ed. Stokes, Denver.

Bobby Cruickshank, Purchase, N. Y., and Mike Brady, Mamaroneck, N. Y., won 2 and 1 from Tom Creavy, Larchmont, N. Y., and Charlie Rice, Summit, N. J.

Fred Miley, Fort Pierce, Fla., and Bob Tinder, Anderson, Ind., lost 4 and 3 to Cyril Walker, Saddle River, N. J., and Clarence Gamber, Bocaraton, Fla.

Additional lower bracket results were:

Harry Hampton, Chicago, and Neil McIntire, Indianapolis, won 3 and 2 from Phil Turnesa, Elmford, N. Y., and Art Straub, Maplewood, N. J.

George Bowden, Cincinnati, and Jimmy Watson, Hollywood, lost 5 and 3 to Johnny Golden, Paterson, N. J., and Billie Burke, Greenwich, Conn.

Plan "Captain Control" System for Schools

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., March 9.—A movement which "will almost completely revolutionize the system by which the average high school coach holds his position" has been started by the Virginia High School Literary and Athletic League and will lead to the adoption of "captain-control" in Virginia high school athletics within approximately three years, if the plans of the organization are consummated.

Charles H. Kauffman, executive secretary of the league, who made the above statement, announced today that the State legislative council of the association has passed a resolution empowering the subcommittee "to work on an educational program of acquainting the high school executive personnel throughout the State with the general merits of this system and doing what they could to create public sentiment, so that the possible adoption of this system could be accomplished in the course of three or four years."

Duckpin Body Meets; Make Tourney Plans

All officers were reelected and and April 21 was set as the opening date for the twentieth annual tournament at a meeting of Washington City Duckpin Association yesterday afternoon at the Raleigh Hotel. Revised constitution and by-laws were adopted. Representatives of 41 leagues attended.

IN THE COLLEGE CORNER

By JACK ESPEY

THE All-American inconsistency—that part of college sport control wherein you are forbidden to voice your emotions during the progress of boxing bouts but are free to yell your lungs out at any other sort of contest—is becoming no whit less ridiculous as time and the college boxing meets pass by.

As you probably know, you're supposed to sit quietly through the boxing, no matter how exciting it may be, and wait for the one-minute intermission between rounds to say what you feel or think about it.

And, as you also probably know, if you've attended one of these meets, the no-noise rule is not very well observed. Personally, we've never seen it complied with as its makers intended. The violations have varied in degree from stage whispers to full-throated yells and in classification from laughing to cursing.

The rules governing college boxing also make it compulsory upon the referee to stop a bout when the audience violates the no-noise regulation. This, too, hasn't been complied with, although many times we've seen the referee halt proceedings to issue a warning on the subject. In justice to the referee, we hasten to state that he used good judgment under the circumstances; the audience wanted to see the remainder of the bout and he realized it.

Isn't Natural to Remain Silent

But even then we've seen the audience forget not more than five minutes later and resume the "law breaking." And why?

It just isn't natural to remain quiet while watching any sort of athletic contest, let alone boxing. In some manner you're going to feel like applauding or protesting.

Imagine yourself keeping lips tight, hands clasped and feet on the ground when somebody knocks the ball over the fence or runs the length of the field for a touchdown or comes from

BLUES' STAR AGAIN TOPS SCORERS

Cosgrove Retains His Honors With 213 Points.

FOR the second year in succession, Del Cosgrove, of Gallaudet, wins individual scoring honors among Capital college basket ball players, according to final statistics for the season just closed. The triumphant total of the keen-eyed Blues forward for the 1929-30 campaign is 213, scored in 16 games.

Cosgrove's total includes 90 field goals and 33 one-pointers, the field goal figure giving him top honors in that respect, too. Last winter he completed the season with a first-place total of 189 compiled with 77 fielders and 35 single markers.

Trailing Cosgrove in second place is Joe Walsh, of Catholic University, whose sensational performances in the latter part of the season enabled him to finish with a total of 179 points. This figure is made up of 59 field goals and 61 foul points, the latter being the largest number of converted charity chances credited to one player. A year ago Walsh was far down the line at the finish.

In third, fourth and fifth places are Bob Gaylor, of Maryland; Johnny Ringle, of Gallaudet, and Bozie Berger, of Maryland, respectively, with totals of 154, 149 and 143. Seven others accumulated more than 100 points apiece, making 12 in all who forged ahead of the century mark this season, as compared with seven who topped that figure last winter.

Mesmer, of G. U. Has 142 Points.

The other seven and their totals are, in order: Freddy Mesmer, Georgetown, 142; Maurice McCarthy, Georgetown, 139; Don Dutton, Georgetown, 128; Irving Fine, George Washington, 124; Shorty Chalmers, Maryland, 109; Paul Dillon, Georgetown, 105, and George Olsen, American, 104. Mesmer, McCarthy and Dutton, in addition to Cosgrove, scored more than 100 points for the second year in succession.

Team statistics show that three of the six local teams improved on their won-and-lost records of the previous season. Maryland led in this respect by winning 16 out of 21 games as against 7 out of 15 the season before, while George Washington has 9 victories out of 16 games to show against its 1928-29 record of 2 out of 10. Gallaudet finished with 10 wins and 6 losses as against 8 and 7 a year ago.

Georgetown's victory list this winter is not nearly so imposing as last, the Hoya Quintet winning but 13 out of 25 games, whereas in 1928-29 it won 13 out of 18. Catholic scored the same number of victories—3—both seasons, but lost 4 more games this year than last. American, with an inexperienced team, slipped slightly below its previous record, winning 9 and losing 7 as against 10 and 6.

3 Hilltop Trackmen To Seek Senior Titles

Georgetown will have three representatives in the national senior amateur track and field championship games at Madison Square Garden on March 18, Coach John D. O'Reilly announced last night. Lee Sexton, all-around star, recent winner of the intercollegiate shot put title, will compete in the shot put and the high jump. Artie Briggs, of the one-mile relay team, will run in the 300-yard event and Jim Kelly, of the two-mile team, will be in the 1,000 yards.

Sexton and the mile quartet of Briggs, Burke, Carlin and Ricca will enter the University of West Virginia meet at Morgantown, W. Va., on March 22.

THIRD SACKER SHOWS NO ILL EFFECTS OF LEG INJURY IN TEST

"Goose" Goslin Faces Suspension and Fine

Special to The Washington Post.

Biloxi, Miss., March 9.—President Clark C. Griffith indicated tonight that Leon "Goose" Goslin, who failed to report as scheduled today, will be suspended and fined if he fails to put in his appearance within the next three days. After that period the club may take action against the big outfielder under the rules of organized baseball.

Griffith again denied that any deal was being considered in which Goslin is involved. "Goslin will either play for the Washington club or suffer the consequences," the Nat president announced.

Goslin remained in seclusion at his Salem, N. J., home yesterday and last night. All efforts to communicate with him by telephone proved to no avail.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

BILOXI, Miss., March 9.—Biloxi fans turned out in force to see the Nationals go through their first Sabbath drill here this morning and, with weather conditions ideal, Manager Johnson's athletes opened their guests' eyes with a varied work program which made the Nationals look like they are just about ready to get into a real game.

The first actual batting practice of the season was staged and this was followed with an infield drill in which some of the players, especially Jack Hayes, out for the first time, showed top form. Hayes held down the short field berth and lined up with him were Ossie Bluege at third, Buddy Myer at second and Joe Judge at the doorway.

With a catcher behind the plate for the first time, the pitchers let out a notch or two, all showing more speed than has been permitted in the past while one or two hooks were slipped over on occasions. Against these offerings of the whole mound staff except Herb Pyle, who is being slowed up by an attack of neuritis, Red Barnes took hitting honors, slamming the apple to all corners of the field and through the infield.

Most Impressive Session.

It was by far the most impressive session yet held by the Nats and, with the bars against speed partially let down as regards the pitchers, much progress is expected from now on. Manager Johnson admitting this evening that except for the newcomers, he considers the preliminary workouts as ended and actual baseball with nothing barred, will be on the cards from now on.

The Nat leader was particularly enthusiastic over the manner in which Ossie Bluege performed at third in the infield drill. Ossie, probably the best third sacker in the league, has been held under wraps since he reported here while Trainer Mike Martin has been giving his left knee, on which an operation was performed last fall, special attention. The player has contended that it was just as good as ever, but it was not until this morning that he had furnished any proof.

Of course, one practice session may not mean a whole lot in this respect but Bluege went to both sides of him and was called upon to make many sudden stops and jumps and the manner in which he went through the tests was highly gratifying to Johnson, who makes no secret of the fact that Ossie is the mainspring of the Nats' inner workings. Tonight, the player reported no ill effects from his efforts.

Shortstop McLeod Reports.

Shortstop Jimmy McLeod was the only Nat expected who showed up here today, although Bill Bradley, first baseman; Alvin (Jake) Powell, outfielder, and perhaps Pitcher Garland Braxton were looked for on late trains tonight. The latter has not communicated with President Clark Griffith since his 1930 contract was sent him in January. This does not necessarily mean that he is a holdout, however, and the Nat owner is confident that he will show up with his signed contract in his pocket. "Goose" Goslin also is under orders to report, but no one expects him to show up.

Jack Hayes, the "Alabama Wild Man," held a short conference with President Griffith this morning after breakfast, the result being an announcement that he affixed his signature on the dotted line of a contract.

Today's hot sun seemed to start the sap flowing in the strong right arm of Don Savidge and this youngster had much stuff in today's workout.

Six Baseball Games Booked for Western

Six games have already been scheduled for the Western High Baseball Team in addition to its four interhigh contests, with the likelihood that several more may be definitely arranged within the next few days, according to Manager Joe Little, who is handling the schedule.

Games with Georgetown Prep, Gonzaga, Devitt and Episcopal High School appear on the list, but at present only one local college freshman nine has been scheduled. The Catholic University yearlings are to be met at C. U. on May 16, but it is thought that the Georgetown and Maryland Cubs will also be encountered. Although an interhigh game is scheduled with Eastern for May 30, this contest is likely to be advanced to June 3.

The Western nine will open its season against G. U. Prep on April 4, at present its only contest before its first appearance against Tech in the interhigh series on April 29.

The schedule as it now stands follows:

June 3, Eastern, Interhigh game.

Tilden Beats Brugnon In 5-Set Net Finals

Mentone, France, March 9 (A.P.).—In one of the poorest finals ever seen on the Riviera, Big Bill Tilden, of Philadelphia, today won the singles title of the Mentone tennis tournament from Jacques Brugnon, veteran French internationalist, in five sets. The scores were 10—8, 7—5, 3—6, 4—6, 6—1.

The first four sets went to one or the other chiefly because of opponents nets, faults or outs and both Tilden and Brugnon played extremely slip-shod tennis. In the last set, however, Tilden recovered his real form and won without trouble.

In the finals of the doubles, Tilden and Wilbur F. Coen defeated Tamio Abe and Carl Aeschliman, 6—3, 6—3, 4—6, 6—3.

Uncle Robby Smiles Again, Troubles Reduce in Number

By BRIAN BELL
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 9 (A.P.).—Sixty-seven-year-old Wilbert Robinson, whose enthusiasm can not be dulled by the advancing years, is satisfied that Brooklyn has a fine team in the making. All his Robins have to do is convince the other National League clubs.

In spite of the absence of his hardest hitter, Babe Herman, who has not signed his 1930 contract, "Good Old Robby," with the Brooklyn baseball civil war ended, is pleased by every prospect—except perhaps a little early season control by some of his pitchers. Time will remedy this, he thinks.

Robby sees Glenn Wright, who was a 1929 casualty, throw to first base, something he could not do last year, and booms "Look at that." Jake Flowers scampers about second as though he had never been sick a day in his life, and Robby yells "See that."

The Pacific Coast twins, Neal Finn and Gordon Slade, who may not be able to jimmy their way into the lineup at the outset, dash about the field just like major leaguers, and the manager smiles from ear to ear.

Bissonette Still Hors de Combat.

Del Bissonnette, the clever first baseman who had a serious operation during the off season, has not entirely recovered, but the optimistic Robby expects him to be in the lineup. "If old Del can't play, old Harvey Hendrick can play first pretty well," he said. Everybody is "old" to Robby. Even if the early cheer created by Wright's apparent return to throwing form should be overemphasized the club will not be weak at shortstop, for Slade has shown that he can play the position and hit fairly well. Finn, his partner, can hit a lot and play very well at second base.

Flowers and Wright will make up the early second base-shortstop arrangement, with Wally Gilbert taking care of third. This arrangement will leave the best assortment of reserve material Brooklyn has had in many moons, including Slade and Finn as

LEITER'S PRINCE D'AMOUR PROVES WINTER STAR

Juvenile Cost Owner Only $2,200

Colt to Be Pointed for Belmont, Pimlico Futurities.

That is what students of the game are saying about Joseph Leiter's sensational Royal Canopy 2-year-old, Prince d'Armour, the champion juvenile of New Orleans' current winter racing season.

And of more more than passing interest to Washington turf devotees is the announcement that prince d'Amour will sport the primrose yellow and green silks of the former president of the Washington Gas Light Co. during the impending Maryland campaign.

Bred in the purple, yet bringing but $2,200 at the Saratoga yearling vendue of last August, this gray son of the imported Royal Canopy promises to be one of the bargain thoroughbreds of the year.

Brought Paltry Sum Of $2,200.

Placed on the block at Saratoga he was hammered down to Mr. Leiter for the paltry sum of $2,200. It was upon the suggestion and advice of Trainer W. J. Hughes that Mr. Leiter bid the colt in. His conformation was nothing to become enthused over, while his gray coat—well, horsemen have a way of passing up grays.

With others of the Leiter string Prince d'Amour was shipped to New Orleans last fall. Hughes had a world of confidence in the colt. He shared it alone. Bill Morris was the "big gun" of the juveniles. Four times he had gone postward and four times he was the first to greet the placing judges.

Trainer Hughes had saddled the "Gray Ghost of the South," for his maiden effort on February 19. Prince d'Amour breezed home an easy winner and the only remark heard was "just another fair 2-year-old. Wait until he meets Bill Morris."

Bill Morris Meets Defeat.

A week ago today the Louisiana Jockey Club held the renewal of its Louisiana juvenile stakes. It looked like a "pipe" for Bill Morris, yet there were quite a few that had not forgotten the Leiter youngster's first and only effort.

The stake is now history. And, almost as much can be said of Bill Morris' reputation. Willie Fronk broke Prince d'Amour with his field and the farther he went the farther he left the opposition behind—Bill Morris included. He romped home in :34 2-5, the fastest three-eighths ever run over the Fair Grounds track, and was well up in Fronk's lap for the last sixteenth.

Few winter champions carry on, but those who witnessed the Leiter champion in his only two starts predict great things for the colt. They fail to see how he can lose his speed unless he loses a leg.

If Prince d'Amour continues to train soundly and continues to display improvement with each succeeding start, which naturally can be expected, if he is half the colt they say, the Leiter colors will have strong representation in this year's Belmont and Pimlico Futurities. "The Gray Ghost of the South" is eligible for both stakes.

Exalted Ruler Dam Of Juvenile.

Prince d'Amour has blood lines that carry back to Belgrade Turk. His dam was Exalted Ruler, a winner of ten races at 2, 3 and 4. Exalted Ruler was by Superman, a winner of Brooklyn and other stakes. The Prince's sire, Royal Canopy, needs no introduction to race followers. Imported by Capt. P. M. Walker in 1923 the imported son of Roi Herode has sent a fair number of winners postward.

While Mr. and Mrs. Leiter have been spending the greater part of their time in late years either at their Beverly Farms, Mass., and Chicago residences, or hunting preserve in Louisiana, they still maintain a home here at Eighteenth street and New Hampshire avenue. Mr. Leiter was president of the Washington Gas Light Co. from 1911 to 1914.

SCHOOL FIVES LOSE STAR PLAYERS

Western Least Affected by Graduation of Court Aces.

WESTERN HIGH, losing only 2Bob Freeman, all-high center, by graduation before another basket ball season rolls around, is the most fortunate of any of the high school teams through retaining the services of its player for the 1931 court campaign. Although Milton Chatlen, another regular, will be too old to compete in interhigh competition after this year, Western will have Jimmy Thompson, Everett Buscher, Alton Rabbitt and Paul Chatlen all available for duty, the only school to have more than two regulars from 1930 holding over.

The first two mentioned are dealt the severest blows, losing every member of their first-string 1930 quintets with little hope of reserve strength in the background. Capt. Wilbur Cross, George Brandt, Russ Lampson, Stanley Parkins, Bill Farhood and Stanley Korman are all slated to receive their diplomas from the Columbia Heights institution this coming June, leaving only Delisio of this year's squad for Coach Coggins' team next winter.

Business Has Dull Outlook.

Business' outlook, which was so strangely promising lats year with a wealth of material on hand, will be even darker than usual next season, with even that material which failed to come through as expected missing. Capt. Nate Newman has already left, while Spencer Chase, Fred Finley, Pete Loftus and Mitchell Singman will be no more at Business after June 1.

The championship Tech Team, with four of the five players who brought the title to McKinley for the second successive years on the outgoing list, will have only Everett Russell to whom to look for a nucleus in 1931. Capt. Carl MacCartee, George Lassise, J. B. Olverson and George Talburtt will be among thoes missing, while Tom Wilson, a reserve who broke into a few games, will also graduate.

Joe Robey, Bill Noonan and Capt. Tom Ryan will not be at Eastern next year, but Coach Guyon has an abundance of material remaining from his 1930 squad. Captain-elect Kane, Kessler, Lieb, Shirley, Wells and Zola will all be on hand again to pursue the championship which came within Eastern's grasp at the fag end of the season.

High School Track Here Turns Out High Jumpers

By MIKE KELLEY
(Eastern High School Coach).

DURING the past several years of track and field competition in the local public high schools one event, the high jump, has been the medium for considerable record breaking at the hands, or feet, if you will, of our thin-clad athletes, and the mark now existing on the record book for this event compares favorably with the standard of high school competition in any part of the country.

Calvin Milans, erstwhile Central luminary, is the present record holder, with a leap of 6 feet ½ inch, which he established in 1928. At first glance one would be apt to believe that this mark would stand for many years, but of late there seems to be a regular epidemic of high jumpers, and should this condition continue to exist some phenom is liable to come along and push the mark still higher.

Incidentally Milans, now a freshman at Dartmouth, has continued to improve in his specialty, as attested by his jump of 6 feet 2½ inches a short time ago in a dual meet, thus breaking a freshman record of ten years' duration at Dartmouth.

Though Milans stood out above the others, it is a fact that we have had a crop of very good jumpers in recent years, whose work was considerably better than shown at any time in the history of local competition. Bond of Eastern set the ball rolling four or five years ago when he raised the existing record of 5 feet 8 inches to 5 feet 10 inches, and followers of the local schoolboys felt that Bond's name would have quite a stay as title holder.

Then two seasons ago the news drifted out of Central that Milans had been clearing 6 feet in practice and this report proved to be true, for he twice made this mark in competition in the "C" Club meet and the interhigh meet.

Pushing Milans upward was Steele, of Western, whose excellent work was lost sight of somewhat by Milans' brilliance. Steele, however, was credited with being able to jump 6 feet, and he did reach 5 feet 11 inches again Milans in the interhigh meet.

Hipsley and Jenkins Above Average.

Though Milans and Steele are gone from our competition, there are two good competitors still doing well above average work, in Hipsley, of Tech, and Jenkins, of Eastern. Jenkins was second and Hipsley was third to Milans in last year's meet. As the Virginia games recently these two battled it out for first place, with Hipsley gaining first place with a jump of 5 feet 10 inches, while Jenkins cleared 5 feet 9 inches, which is very good jumping for schoolboys indoors.

Freeman, at Western, is considered a capable high jumper, so the high standard set up in this event of late years should be lived up to again this season.

DAWSON WINNER.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 9 (A.P.). John Dawson, of Chicago, won the Southeastern amateur golf championship here today by defeating Mally Reynolds, jr., of Jacksonville, 6 and 4, in the finals.

MACKEYS GET START.

EAGLES BEAT BALTIMORE QUINTET

Avenge Early Season Defeat, 42-20; Duke Allen Shines.

THE Skinker Bros. Eagles Five gained revenge by a liberal margin yesterday when they defeated the East Arlingtons of Baltimore, 42 to 20, at Silver Spring. The visitors had trounced the Eagles early in the campaign and the setback had left one of the few black spots on the team's record.

With Duke Allen setting the pace for the scorers, the Eagles romped to the front with comparative ease at the start and were never threatened, being content to take things easier in the second half.

Bennie and Sweeney Score Freely.

Aided by Bennie and Joe Sweeney, Allen accounted for five field goals and four successful foul shots. The Eagles were in the van, 28 to 10, at intermission. Marks, alone of the victims, was able to pierce the cords more than twice.

CONCORD RALLIES TO WIN IN SOCCER TOURNAMENT

Silver Spring Defeated by Marlboro

British Uniteds Beat Gaelics, 4-1, in Good Game.

Kuhner and Shule in Starring Roles for Concord Club.

By RICHARD S. TENNYSON.

MAKING a game comeback in the second half after trailing for 45 minutes of the game Concord defeated Washington Soccer Club yesterday in a cup tie match, 3 to 1. At half time the score stood 1 to 0 in favor of the Washington kickers, but the inspired play of the younger Concordians in the final minutes of play was too much for the aging limbs of the defeated club.

Marlboro had difficulty in defeating Silver Spring, 3 to 1, and Gaelic-Americans put up a good battle against British United although defeated, 4 to 1. These games were cup matches also. Drawings for the third round will be made at the regular weekly meeting tomorrow night.

Early in the game the veteran Dave McLean put the W. S. C. in the lead with a hard boot past Heiss, but this was the last success scored by the vanquished eleven. Concord made several trys for a marker in the first half but Watts continued his good play that has been a feature for several weeks and blocked all attempts in the opening half.

The little Concordian forward line started the second period as though it meant business, and when the smoke had cleared away, they had piled up 3 goals. Kuhner and Shule were the outstanding Concord players while Malloch and Pete Faulds were the W. S. C. luminaries.

Clever work by the United wingmen was a big factor in its victory over the Gaelic-Americans. Time after time Morris and Smith crossed and centered to advantage. Turner and the Knight brothers also teamed well to aid Smith, scoring two of the goals. Silver Spring fought hard against Marlboro but lacked the experience to stop the fast-flying Prince Georges County kickers.

Rosedale Soccerists Win; Wilson Injured

Rosedale Soccer Club won a costly victory from the North Point Soccer Club of Baltimore on the Rosedale Playground yesterday. The local kickers gained a 3-to-1 verdict, but in doing so Fred Wilson, clever back, received a possible fractured leg and the entire team stands a chance of being suspended.

At the last meeting of the Washington Soccer Association the Rosedale lads requested permission to play the Baltimore team, but the request was denied, since Rosedale had refused to complete its schedule in the Capital City League and secondly, all games were sidetracked yesterday for the local cup ties.

John MacBeth, president of the association, told Manager Wilson of Rosedale emphatically that the game could not be played, so it was thought last night that the Northeast kickers would draw a suspension. The exact nature of Fred Wilson's injury will not be determined until today when an X-ray will be taken.

IN THE COLLEGE CORNER—BY ESPEY

The college boxing solons argue the rule is necessary to prevent rioting, more or less, because the bouts are held indoors where naturally one's voice or other sound-producing implement is aided. The spectators are close at hand, too, or rather, there isn't enough space for the safety of the disinterested, the peace-loving and the innocent if fighting should break out outside of the ring, which, think the governors, probably would materialize if "words of advice or encouragement" was allowed.

The rule makes it nice for the referee inasmuch as all hooting at his decisions must be confined to the one-minute intermission. The "ref" at the Georgetown-Western Maryland bouts at Westminster, Md., the other night doubtless found the rule very comforting.

Georgetown fans came back with a tale of the weirdest decision rendered in this vicinity in many a year.

Buddy Bordeau, Georgetown lightheavyweight, was knocked down by Barnett, of Western Maryland, whereupon the referee started counting. Although evincing a desire to get up immediately and resume fighting, as he wasn't hurt by the blow, Bordeau was instructed from the Hilltop corner to take a partial count so that he could rest. Previously, he had been outpointing Barnett easily.

At the count of "five" the referee started wiping the resin from Bordeau's gloves, and continued the count. At "nine" Bordeau arose and resumed action, but the official stepped in, stopped the bout and lifted Barnett's hand in token of victory.

The Hilltop supporters were forced by the rule to do their justifiable booing only for the short space of time ensuing before the start of the next bout, whereas they properly wanted more time to make a good job of it.

Hitting the Baseball Trail

LOS ANGELES, March 9 (A.P.).—Rogers Hornsby showed the way with two home runs, a double and a single in six trips to the plate, and the Chicago Cubs evened their exhibition series with the Los Angeles' Angels by taking today's game, 17-12.

The Pacific Coast League Team humbled the National League champions in their first meeting yesterday, 12 to 10.

Six home runs featured today's game. Hack Wilson and Slug Tolson added one apiece to Hornsby's circuit clout to bring the Cub total to four, and Johnny Moore and Wee Schulmerick hit for four bases for the Angels. Tolson, who had just entered the game in the fourth inning as a pinch hitter, brought three men in ahead of him on his trip around.

Cards Pound Way to Win Over A's, 17-14.

Miami, Fla., March 9 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Nationals took the world champion Philadelphia Americans into camp today in a dizzy exhibition, 17 to 14.

Rommel held the Cards scoreless for three rounds, but after that the Mack rookies, Maron, Snider and Supplee were lambasted to all corners of the lot.

Shotton Shifts Phils' Line-Up.

Moore Hits 2 Homers As Chisox Win.

Houston, Tex., March 9 (A.P.).—The Chicago White Sox lambasted the New York Giants in a training game here today, the Windy City boys collecting eighteen hits off Walker and Scott, while Weiland and Lyons held the Giants to ten.

Jim Moore, outfielder obtained from Dallas, of the Texas League, was the White Sox hero, one of his wallops sending Chicago into the lead in the seventh inning. Moore's day included two homers and a single.

Thomas As Tigers Rout Braves.

Tampa, Fla., March 9 (A.P.).—Coming from behind, the Detroit Tigers made five runs in the third inning and continued to increase their lead until they defeated the Boston Braves, 14 to 5, in an exhibition game here this afternoon. The Tigers made their runs on an equal number of hits.

Spectators were treated to seven home runs, two of which were accounted for by David Dale, Alexander, Tiger regular first baseman. Henry Greenberg, who came up from New York semipro diamonds, took a turn at first and knocked out another. The only homer scored by Boston was by Moore, third baseman.

Pirate Regulars' Win, 4-to-0.

Paso Robles, Calif., March 9 (A.P.).—The regulars of the Pittsburgh Pirates' training camp squad today avenged a previous defeat by winning over the rookies, 4 to 0. The Yannigans took the first practice game of the season Saturday. French and Stoner each allowed the youngsters one hit, while the third first-string hurler, Heinie Meine, didn't even let the rookies have the fun of tipping a foul. A homer by Gus Suhr in the fifth was the first tally for the regulars.

George Kelly Reports To Reds.

Orlando, Fla., March 9 (A.P.).—George Kelly, elongated first baseman for the Cincinnati Reds, arrived in camp today, making the team's personnel complete for the start of the second week of intensive training tomorrow. This was a holiday at Tinker Field, but the last one the Reds will have for a long time. Golfing and fishing were the most common means of diversion today.

Oxford Lacrosse Team Has 8 U. S. Players

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., March 9.—When the Oxford University Lacrosse Team appears at the University of Virginia on April 7 for a game with the Cavalier Stickmen, eight Americans will be included in the personnel of the visiting outfit, in addition to one Canadian, one South American and nine English students. One of the Americans is Charles L. Gleaves, a recent University of Virginia student, who was a member of the Orange and Blue Boxing Team.

Two other Americans, L. H. Farinholt and J. J. McDonough were on last year's Oxford Team. Farinholt was on the Johns Hopkins Olympic Lacrosse Team and also received further honor as an All-American player. McDonough played football, baseball and basket ball at the University of Virginia.

Malcolm MacIntyre, former Yale stick captain; Alfred Cornsweet, Brown University football, wrestling and lacrosse luminary; M. J. Grove, of Yale, and Lucien Giddings, from Birmingham-Southern, are the other American representatives.

The Britishers will sail for the Unite States on March 23 for four weeks of play against American twelves. The opening game is with the Navy, at Annapolis, April 3.

Dr. Allen Voshell, coach, has been putting the Virginia stick candidates through some intensive practice sessions the past week, in which scrimmages were the predominating features. Practice will continue through the examination period and it is expected that all members of the squad will report whenever their studies permit.

ROBINS HAVE ADDED STRENGTH IN BOX

When Herman comes to terms he will resume his right field engagement with Johnny Fredericks, a star his first year up, again in center. Hendricks and the veteran Rube Bressler may again alternate in left with some likely recruits from the minors threatening to make themselves so valuable they can not be let out. Max West, a Newark standby last year, has been impressive in practice.

Alfonso Lopez has worked well enough as a catcher in the spring training period to suggest that he will catch many games this year. A good hitter and boasting a deadly arm, Lopez seems able to take his place as one of the brilliant young catchers promoted to the big time. Two veterans, Hank Deberry and Val Picinich, will balance and complete the staff.

Dazzy Vance, who had a very un-Vancelike year in 1929, has been working as hard as any recruit in the practice and has announced a comeback platform for 1930. The strikeout king was handicapped by illness last year but expects to be himself again this season.

Elliott Looks Okay Once More.

"Big Jim" Elliott, the huge southpaw who was incapacitated by sickness last year and unable to work, has been showing his old-time stuff. "Is he all right?" repeated Robby. "I expect to start him in one of the first exhibition games." William Watson Clark, a left-hander, who pitched great ball last season, will be in there again, as will Ray Moss, Cliese Dudley and Johnny Morrison.

Adolfo Luque, the veteran Cuban pitcher, transferred from the Reds, will see plenty of work under Brooklyn colors. Hollis Thurston, formerly with the White Sox and Washington, who was drafted from San Francisco, has been pitching well and hitting like an outfielder. Jim Faulkner, thoroughly left-handed, another pitcher obtained through the draft, will be given every chance to make a place for himself.

There are seventeen pitchers in the camp and Manager Robinson, with a farflung reputation as a judge of talent, expects to assemble a capable staff.

"That's all we need now," he said. "Just some good pitching and we'll get somewhere. This is no second division team."

Certainly his players go about their work with a vim, and if the spirit threatens to lag, all they have to do is to look at the bench to see Robby exuding perspiration and enthusiasm from every pore.

Hitchcock to Play.

Aiken, S. C., March 9 (A.P.).—Thomas Hitchcock, jr., American polo player and captain of this country's international team which will defend its title this summer against a British team, arrived in Aiken today. He will take part in the polo play going on here as preliminary conditioning for the international matches.

Scimitar Is Victor In Mexican Feature

Agua Caliente, Mexico, March 9 (A.P.).—What was considered a try-out for the big coast stake events gave a number of high class horses a chance to show their worth in the Calcutta Handicap, the feature of today's card. It was a $2,000 purse event at a mile and a sixteenth. It was won by Scimitar, from the Agua Caliente stable.

The winner was ridden by Frankie Catrone and paid $25.60 in the mutuels machine. It was the third win of the day for Catrone, he having ridden Rock Thorn, winner of the first and Zacaweista, winner of the fifth, the National Turf Digest Handicap. Nashaipur was second and Alexander Pantages was third. The Warm Stable's Victorian, was fourth. Vanity, the favorite, finished fifth.

Scimitar was always up with the leaders and running well at the end won by half a length.

Sarazen and Farrell Win Opening Match

Miami, Fla., March 9 (A.P.).—Gene Sarazen and Johnny Farrell, seeded team at the opening of the seventh annual international four-ball matches, won their initial 36-hole encounter with Jack Thompson, Youngstown, Ohio, and Johnny Connell, Chicago, 7 and 6 here, today. The teams were even at the eighteenth.

Willie Dow, Fargo, N. Dak., and Earl Howell, St. Louis, furnished a thrill for the Sunday gallery at Miami Country Club as they went to the thirty-eighth hole before Dow missed a 16-inch putt to give their match to Johnny Manion, St. Louis, and Jim Dante, Madison, N. J.

The victors will meet Sarazen and Farrell tomorrow. Denny Sullivan, Chicago, and Jimmy Martucci, Teterboro, N. J., surprised dopesters with their 2 and 1 defeat of Willie Klein, Wheatley Hills, Long Island, and Tom Kerrigan, Siwanoy, N. Y.

ARGENTINE POLOISTS WIN.

Del Monte, Calif., March 9 (A.P.).—The Argentine Polo Team defeated the Monterey Peninsula All-stars, 16 to 8, in a fast game here today. An unusually large crowd including many New York society persons witnessed the match.

G. U. BOXERS TO OPPOSE BUCKNELL

Swimming and Track at C. U. Also on Week's Card.

BOXING, swimming and indoor track hold the stage in competitive college athletics here this week, Georgetown, George Washington and Catholic figuring in the program. With the basket ball season closed, all of the six local schools will push training work in various spring sports and football, but nothing in the way of competition is scheduled in these lines before March 20 when Georgetown's Baseball Team opposes Davidson College at Davidson, N. C.

The features of the week's card are the Catholic University indoor track and field meet at Brookland, where more than 240 collegiate and scholastic athletes will gather on Wednesday night, and the Georgetown-Bucknell boxing match scheduled on Saturday night at the Hilltop.

Tomorrow night, however, an event of especial interest to the teams involved is listed in the Catholic University pool where Catholic and George Washington will vie in their initial swimming meet. The C. U. natators will return to action Saturday night in a meet with Johns Hopkins in the Blue Jay pool.

G. U. Trackmen At N. Y.

Ten Georgetown trackmen will compete Wednesday night in the Knights of Columbus games at New York. They are Leo Sexton and Erik Kjellstrom; the mile relay quartet of Chuck Carlin, Louis Ricca, Vic Burke and Artie Briggs, and the two-mile team of Jay Julicher, Jack Mara, Jown Downing and Jim Kelly.

Bucknell's strong showing against Catholic in the Brookland ring last week indicates that Georgetown's mittmen will encounter plenty of trouble in the bouts Saturday night. From bantamweight to heavyweight the Bisons are unusually well fortified.

Bucknell's outstanding light-heavyweight and captain, Lou Mutzel, will face Buddy Bordeau, Georgetown's hard-hitting 175-pounder, and if past performances are repeated this pair should stage a blood-tingling battle, as each has had a triumphant career thus far.

Lepore-Fish Bout A Feature.

The bout between Frank Lepore, Bison welterweight, and Capt. Charley Fish, Georgetown's intercollegiate 145-pound champion, also should develop some highly interesting action. Lepore holds a victory over Harry Stunkard, of West Virginia, who defeated Fish on an extra-round decision early in the season.

Still another attractive bout on the card is the Mickey Boerner-Mike Tardugno affair in which two undefeated featherweights will clash. Tardugno is the only Georgetown boxer with a clean record for the season.

EASY FOR CELTICS.

The St. Mary's Celtics Five was not extended yesterday to trim the St. Andrews Team, of Baltimore, 53 to 25, in Schulers Hall at Alexandria. Rodgers, of the losers, was the outstanding star. The Clovers defeated the Shiner Bros. Five, 20 to 13, in the preliminary.

Stevens New Captain At Washington College

Chestertown, Md., March 9.—At a meeting of the varsity basket ball players of Washington College, titleholders of Maryland here today, Edward L. Stevens, of Waterbury, Conn., 6 feet 5 inches, center of the team, was chosen captain of next year's quintet. It will be his senior year and his fourth in college basket ball. Joseph J. Kilbriede, of the same city, was elected manager.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., March 9.—The banquet given last night by Mr. Hexton for the Episcopal High School Basket Ball Team was a success, Cleveland being the only letterman that was absent and therefore they were unable to elect the captain for next year. Coach Fleming will call a meeting of the letter men some day this week and elect the captain. Speeches were made complimenting the boys on their great playing of the past season and it is expected that a number of the boys will return to school next fall.

Alexandria High School Basket Ball Team left this afternoon at 4 o'clock for Charlottesville, Va., where they will compete in the basket ball championship of the State. They will play the first game tomorrow afternoon but their opponent has not been named as yet. Eight players and manager and Coach Reynolds made the trip. Those making the trip are as follows: Capt. Sinclair, Pete and Jeff Williams, Stone, Schriner, Paul Travers, Frank Backus, Sperling and Manager J. C. Lindsey.

Baseball and track practice will get under way as soon as Coach Reynolds returns from Charlottesville, as the Alexandria High School has a hard schedule in both sports this season. Prospects for strong teams are excellent.

MARYLAND U. FAVORED IN C. U. MEET

S. Conference Victories Boost Chances of Old Liners.

MARYLAND UNIVERSITY'S TEAM, by virtue of the performances of Urban Linzey, John McDonald and Bob Remsburg in the Southern Conference championship meet last Saturday, probably will be the favorite to win the open division of the Catholic University indoor rtack and field games Wednesday night in Brook'and Gym.

While it is not expected that all of Maryland's scoring will be confined to these three, it is felt by many observers that their work will produce a margin sufficient to give the Terrapin Team an edge over any other team in the field.

Linzey won the half-mile run in 2 minutes 2 seconds in the Dixie games, while McDonald captured the shot put with a toss of 42 feet 10½ inches, and Remsburg took second in the 440-yard dash.

Maryland to Enter 30 Athletes.

"So far as is known, their respective rivals in the Catholic University meet have never been able to excel those marks. No other entrant in the half-mile is known to have bettered 2:02 and none in the shot put has improved on 42 feet 10¼ inches in the shot. In the 440-yard dash, several competitors have done around 52 seconds, which is about the average time of Remsburg.

Maryland will have about 30 athletes in the forthcoming games and looks to Bob Quinn, among others, to participate in the scoring. Quinn finished close on the heels of Jack Elder and Chet Bowman in the recent Meadowbrook meet at Philadelphia.

No other team in the open division of the meet boasts of as large an entry list as Maryland. Nor is any believed to be as well balanced. The C. U. Team is expected to give Maryland the most opposition.

Montrose Five Gives Hawks Drubbing, 37-19

As a final prep for its initial stand in the District A. A. U. tournament tonight, the Montrose A. C. Five yesterday defeated the Brentwood Hawks, 37 to 19, at the Hyattsville Armory, holding the Hawk passers to three field goals. Good teamwork enabled the Montrosemen to score consistently. They led, 18 to 8, at intermission.

Inside! Outside!

...the war against Spitting is a crusade of decency...join it. Smoke CERTIFIED CREMO!

The law says "No" to the spitter! But we all know there still exist hundreds of dirty places where the cigar-maker rolls the leaves with filthy fingers... and seals the ends with spit! In fact, more than half of all cigars made in this country are still made by hand, and therefore subject to the risk of spit!

Certified Cremo protects you against this abomination! Every tobacco leaf entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that foil, wrap and tip the cigars without the possibility of spit!

Try a Certified Cremo—see how wonderfully good it is! Made of the choicest, tenderest leaves that the crop affords, we claim Certified Cremo's quality is tastier than that of any other cigar. Don't let its 5c price stand in your way.

Your physician has in mind a cigar like Certified Cremo when he recommends a mild smoke in place of heavy brands.

Crush-proof... immaculate... foil-wrapped... Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar the late Vice-President Marshall undoubtedly was thinking of when he said: "What this country needs is a good 5c cigar!"

COMMODITY PRICE DECLINE CONTINUES TO BE MARKED

as apples, hogs, lambs, eggs, grains, flour and sugar went off sharply, pushing down the farm products index 3 per cent and the foodstuffs 2 per cent. These items also appeared in the raw materials and semimanufactured divisions, throwing these indexes off 1.5 and 0.7 per cent, respectively.

Finished goods were off only 0.6 per cent last week, and are still nearly 3 per cent above the low of November 15, 1929.

Nonagricultural items did not suffer as heavily as the remainder of the list last week. Textiles, metals, building materials and chemicals shared the largest falls, but hides and leathers, fuels and the miscellaneous groups all held steady.

Wholesale commodity prices in European markets continue to sag to record lows. Prices in Germany were the weakest, showing a loss of over 1 per cent as compared with the previous week. A decline of 0.7 per cent was realized in England and of 0.6 per cent in France.

The rate of decline in wholesale prices in all foreign markets has been remarkably alike, as expressed by the Fisher indexes. The gradual decline began in England and France early in April, 1929, and to date losses of 11 per cent have occurred. Prices in Germany showed marked weakness in April and May, slight recovery in June and July, then a gradual decline. Over all German prices have shown a similar loss to the other foreign markets.

Fluctuations in the general wholesale price level and in the purchasing powed of the dollar are given below for the United States for various periods, based mainly on Dun's quotations. The average for the year 1926 is the base used.

Sheriff Eppa P. Kirby, accompanied by Prohibition Inspector Virgil Williams and Deputy Sheriff Henry Magarity paid a visit to Lacey's dance hall, near Baileys Crossroads, late Saturday night and arrested Howard M. Lee, of Herndon, and Everett Howard, of Washington, for being drunk and disorderly. They were both taken before Justice of Peace John B. Dowden at Baileys Cross Roads, where a fine of $19.50 each was imposed. Everett Howard was unable to pay his fine so he was remanded to the Fairfax Jail. Sheriff Kirby stated yesterday that unless the public dance halls in Fairfax County were conducted with less rowdyism and drinking he would be forced to take more drastic measures.

The prisoners at the Fairfax Jail were going to have beef and beans for Sunday dinner, but before daylight Sunday some daring person raided the cupboard on the back porch of the jail and made away with more than 15 pounds of meat and an extra large kettle of beans.

Starting today Commissioner of Revenue James U. Kincheloe will be in Falls Church and Lee districts to meet the taxpayers to make returns of their income and tangible and intangible properties for the year. The law requires that the returns be made by June 1. Failure to do so means a penalty of 10 per cent of the total amount of the tax, with a minimum of $2.

The commissioner or his deputies will be at the following places in Falls Church District: Annandale, March 10; Lincolnia, March 11; Stantons Store, March 12; Baileys Cross Roads, March 13; Merrifield, March 14, and in the town of Falls Church in the office of M. E. Church, March 17 and 18. In Lee District they will be at Woodyards Shop, March 10; Alvin Davis Store, March 11, Lorton, March 12; Burke Station, March 13, and at Archie Hall's Store, March 14.

The Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce will meet tomorrow night in Dunham Hall at Lewinsville as the guests of the McLean School and Community League and the McLean Volunteer Fire Department. Representative Paul John Kvale, of Minnesota, will address the meeting. The officers of the two local organizations will act as an entertainment committee. The general public has been invited to attend. Several questions of interest to Fairfax County will be discussed.

Every Tuesday during the assembly period at the Clifton School the faculty has been conducting a course in vocational guidance. Last Tuesday Mrs. Fannie Lou Seamons, of Herndon, Fairfax County health nurse, addressed the assembly, explaining her work. Tomorrow morning Mrs. Wyckliffe Buckley's room Lwill be in charge and will give a minstrel program. Miss Edith Thompson, rural supervisor of white schools, will give a talk on the advantages and disadvantages of school supervising.

The Willing Workers class of the Southern Methodist Church at Lincolnia has elected the Rev. W. H. Gray president; Miss Mary Lewis, vice president, and Pettus Carter, secretary-treasurer.

The town council of Herndon will meet this evening.

Speedways and Drives Are Clogged With Cars as Motorists Enjoy Warm Sunshine, While Residents of Zoo Strain at Bars.

Real spring peeped around the corner yesterday afternoon, and residents of Washington were not slow to avail themselves of the opportunity to get out in the sunshine and enjoy the balmy air.

Presummer dresses and Eastertime suits were to be seen promenading up and down F street. The speedway drive and parks about the city were filled with cars and people who were out for the first taste of the summer's most popular sport, motoring. The roads leading into nearby Maryland and Virginia were well filled.

The sun came out with a rather surprising swiftness, for early in the morning the thermometer gave the temperature as 40, and with a steady climb it reached 56 at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, according to the Weather Bureau. The thermograph which stands at the corner of Pennsylvania avenue and E street northwest, gave the highest reading at 3:45 o'clock yesterday of 61, the difference due to the fact that the kiosk is in a more exposed situation.

Animals at the zoo also sensed the coming of better weather, and most of them strained at the bars attempting to get out into the runways. Chim, the 18-year-old chimpanzee, always one of the biggest attractions for the younger visitors, growled and kicked at his bars all day long, refusing to play with the basket ball which the attendants have placed in his cage for his amusement. Many of the monkeys and baboons have already been placed in the open-air cages.

The animals in the zoo have enjoyed an unusual winter, according to F. O. Lowe, who has charge of the lion house. With the exception of Mombasso, the female hippopotamus who died during January, there have been no deaths, and very few of the animals have experienced any illness. There have been a few additions to the roster of residents, including two lion cubs born January 4, and four young wart hogs, who came to gladden their mother's heart during December. A few monkeys have been received as gifts, and all of the new arrivals seem to have become acclimated to their new home.

Pants Pocket Yields $50 as Owner Sleeps

A sneak thief stole $50 from the trousers pocket of Joseph Lustus, of North Amherst, Mass., while he was asleep in his room at 233 Massachusetts avenue northwest Saturday night.

Lustus made a report of the robbery at police headquarters yesterday afternoon and gave a description of the suspect. Besides the money, the thief also stole insured mail receipts.

Lions of West Virginia To Assemble March 14

Clarksburg, W. Va., March 9.—Members of West Virginia Lions Clubs will gather at Parkersburg March 14 for a State business session and banquet, at which Benjamin A. Ruffin, of Richmond, president of Lions International during 1928-1929, will be honor guest and principal speaker, according to arrangements announced today.

Approximately 200 members from the 28 clubs in the State will participate. A concluding feature will be a dance at the Parkersburg Elks Club.

Fight Victim's Condition Serious.

Brake Lining, Allegedly Stolen, Found; Man Held

Following the discovery of a large quantity of brake lining in a garage near his home, Francis Hazen, of Twentieth street, between R and S streets, was arrested by headquarters detectives yesterday on a charge of investigation.

Police identified the material as some taken from the Bearing Sales Co., on Fourteenth street near T street northwest, last week. The amount stolen was valued at $1,000 and consisted of 2,100 feet. The major part of the stolen property was found in the garage.

Escaped Life Convict Returned to Georgia

Caught after enjoying freedom for three years, Benjamin Lee Anderson, colored, a life prisoner at Augusta, Ga., was taken back to the prison camp yesterday by Sheriff J. L. Watkins, of Augusta.

Anderson was arrested near the gas house at Twenty-sixth and I streets northwest by Policeman William V. Christian and James L. Rockford, of the Third Precinct. He had been convicted on a charge of slaying a colored woman.

ARLINGTON COUNTY PLANS FOR BONDS

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The school board of Arlington County will immediately formulate plans for a $580,000 bond issue to provide for needed school facilities of the county, and to retire $225,000 in short-term loans, according to an announcement made yesterday by County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp. Authority has been received in a special act of the Assembly.

Superintendent Kemp further announced that plans for creating of an organization to carry out the recommendations set forth in the recent report filed with the school board by the United States Bureau of Education, will now proceed without delay.

The recommendations included in the report provide for enlargement of the Washington-Lee High School with 42 additional classrooms, to take care of present and future needs of the county.

It is understood that the plans for the additions to the Washington-Lee High School and to several of the elementary schools have already been prepared by the State school architect.

The Back to the District Association will at a special meeting to be held tonight in its headquarters in the Rucker Building at Clarendon, consider the election of a successor to Dr. Frank T. Stone, resigned president.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 o'clock and Vice President Richard L. Eacho requests that all persons interested in the movement attend the meeting.

With plans and specifications for the Clarendon Postoffice Building rapidly nearing completion, bids will be asked for within the next week.

The building, which is to be erected at the intersection of Wilson boulevard and Wheeler avenue at an estimated cost of $80,000, will also provide two store rooms and office space on the second floor.

The building will be of stone construction. The postoffice section will provide twice the floor space of the present building now occupied by the postoffice.

The Cherrydale Volunteer Fire Department will hold its tenth annual minstrel show in the auditorium of the Firemen's Hall Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights of this week. Proceeds will go to the maintenance fund of the department.

Election of officers will be the principal business of the Clarendon Citizens Association at a meeting tomorrow night. Among other matters to be considered will be the proposed bond issues for schools and sewers. The meeting will be held in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce in the Reese Building at Clarendon.

There will be a meeting of the Thomas Nelson Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution tomorrow night at the home of Mrs. John W. Palmer, Beech street, Clarendon.

The feature of the monthly meeting of the Lyon Park Garden Club, which meets Wednesday in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, Rees Building, at Clarendon, will be an address by J. G. Smith, of the Bureau of Soils of the United States Department of Agriculture, on "Preparing Spring Gardens." A proposal will be made at this meeting to change the name of the club to the Arlington County Garden Club.

Plans are being made by the Parent-Teacher Association of the James Monroe School for a St. Patrick's card party to be held at the Boulevard Bakery at Clarendon next Monday night. Mrs. J. L. Mathusa is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

The board of governors of the Lyon Park Community center will hold its monthly meeting tonight at the home of Mrs. A. T. Rowell at 8 o'clock.

The Aurora Hills Civic League meets tonight in the community house at 8 o'clock.

A benefit card party, under the auspices of the Ballston Volunteer Fire Department, will be held in the auditorium of the Firemen's Hall tonight at 8 o'clock. The committee in charge of the arrangements consists of Thomas J. Crack, chairman; Howard A. Smoot, Eugene Payne, Grover E. Payne, J. R. Malloch, John E. Crack and John P. Divine.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Thomas Nelson Page School at Ballston will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow night at the schoolhouse at 8 o'clock. The program to follow the business session will be furnished by the music class under the direction of Mrs. Naomi Jones.

The Rev. Henry J. Miller, rector of St. George's Episcopal Church at Clarendon, will conduct the Wednesday night Lenten services at the Episcopal Church at Falls Church.

The Jefferson District Fire Department will meet in the firemen's hall tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

The Ballston Council, No. 221, Junior Order United American Mechanics, will hold its meeting Wednesday night in the firemen's hall at 8 o'clock. Degrees will be conferred on a class of candidates.

Christian Endeavor Will Hold Convention

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., March 9.—Christian Endeavor Societies of a dozen cities and towns of northern Virginia and nearby sections of West Virginia will hold a mass convention and institute here March 23, it was announced today by Miss Eloise Caldwell, president of the Winchester Christian Endeavor Union.

The meeting is to be addressed by a number of prominent churchmen, including Dr. Ira Landrith, of Texas and Chicago, citizenship superintendent of the International Society of Christian Endeavor, and W. Roy Breg, Southern secretary of the international organization. The convention probably will be held in Loudoun Street Presbyterian Church.

ALEXANDRIA PLANS SERVICES FOR LENT

Churches Announce Plans in Addition to Regular Programs.

PROFESSOR WILL SPEAK

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washinston St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The various churches of Alexandria will observe Lent with special services during the week, in addition to the regular Sunday services. Christ Episcopal Church has announced lectures for Tuesday evenings at 7:45 o'clock by the Rev. Wallace E. Rollins, D. D., professor of ecclesiastical history in the Theological Seminary of Virginia, and on Wednesdays a brief service and address at 5 o'clock. On Fridays litany services will be held, with a brief address at 5 o'clock. Regular services will be conducted by the rector, the Rev. Dr. William Jackson Morton.

At St. Paul's Episcopal Church there will be a mission study class on Monday evenings at 8 o'clock, conducted by Mrs. Ivan Green; Tuesdays, evening prayer at 4:45 o'clock, with music by the junior choir; Wednesdays, prayer circle at 7:30 p. m, service and sermon at 8 p. m., with visiting preachers; Thursdays, services and address at 4:45 p. m. by the rector, the Rev. Percy Foster Hall; Fridays, Communion at 10:30 a. m., service at the chapel of the Good Shepherd at 7:45 p. m.

Grace Episcopal Church, Wednesdays at 8 p. m., service with sermon by a visiting minister; Fridays, 7:45 p. m., litany service and address by the rector, the Rev. Edgar Carpenter.

St. Mary's Catholic Church, services Wednesdays at 7:30 o'clock with sermon by visiting priests; Thursdays, 3:15 p. m., for school children, when a devotional, "The Way of the Cross," will be followed by benediction; Fridays, services and address at 7:30 p. m.

Emanuel Episcopal Church, Braddock, midweek Lenten services Wednesdays at 8 p. m., and usual Sunday services with appropriate sermons by the rector, the Rev. George S. Vest.

Immanuel Lutheran Church will have a series of Wednesray evening services with sermons suitable to Lent, and will continue regular Sunday services and sermons featuring Lenten topics and music. The Rev. Carl J. Goette, pastor, will give a series of sermons at the midweek services.

Representative Edwin L. Davis, of Tennessee, will be the principal speaker at the annual celebration of Andrew Jackson's birthday Saturday night by Andrew Jackson Lodge, No. 120 A. F. and A. M., of this city. Representative Davis, who comes from Jackson's State and represents the district in which the seventh President was born, is considered well able to speak with authority on the life of the famous soldier-President.

The celebration this year will take a different form from that of previous years. The customary banquet will be omitted and a buffet supper served in the lodge rooms of the Masonic Temple, on Cameron street, at 8 p. m. Herbert W. O'Meara, worshipful master of Andrew Jackson Lodge, is arranging the event, and as features of the entertainment program he has secured talent from broadcasting station WRC in Washington. George Ross, announcer at that station, is on the program with an act of his own. There will be other acts.

The annual inspection and ladies' night of Old Dominion Commandery, No. 11, Knights Templar, of this city, will be held Friday night at the George Mason Hotel, when Frank G. Paynes, junior warden of the grand commandery, will be the inspector for the occasion and will address the knights.

R. Samuel Luckett is general chairman of the committee on arrangements. Others on the committee are Virgil C. Davis, Ernest L. Mankin, C. Philip Heishley, Leonard J. Miller, William L. Norford, A. M. Sherwood, Harry F. Kennedy and John Martin.

Mrs. Martha E. Baier, 70 years old, died yesterday at her home, 207 South Alfred street. She was the widow of John Baier and is survived by these children: Mrs. E. G. Hays, of Bradbury, Md.; Mrs. E. T. Harrison, of Baltimore; Mrs. G. J. Minor, of Fredericksburg; Miss Minnie Baier, of Alexandria, and Fred Baier, of Concord, Tenn. The funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Rites Set Today For Crash Victim

Popular Harrisonburg Boy, Killed Near Richmond, to Be Buried.

Harrisonburg, Va., March 9.—Funeral services for George Turner, 20, popular member of the Harrisonburg younger set, was instantly killed last night when the automobile he was driving en route to Richmond overturned in rounding a curve at Mount Pelier, 27 miles from the State Capital, will be held here tomorrow morning from the Church of the Brethren.

Miss Ivy Lou Jones, of Newport News, a student at the Harrisonburg State Teachers College, suffered a fractured skull and crushed cheek, according to reports from a Richmond hospital. Miss Virginia Moss, of Kinsdale, Westmoreland County, another college student, and Henry Rountree Crawford, of Harrisonburg, were only slightly injured and are expected to leave the hospital tomorrow.

The college students were visiting an aunt of Miss Moss in Staunton at the time. Turner had completed three years of work at Washington and Lee University and this year was manager of the storeroom at the State Teachers College. He was the oldest child of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Turner, of Harrisonburg.

Worker's DeathAscribed To Accidental Drowning

Clarksburg, W. Va., March 9.—A verdict of accidental drowning was reported today in the case of J. B. McClain, 45, employe of the Hope Natural Gas Co., at McMillan Station in Doddridge County, whose body was found in the waters of Big Flint Creek near his home late yesterday.

It was concluded he had suffered a fit of epilepsy and fallen into the creek. His widow and three daughters survive.

Services Held for Infant.

Winchester, Va., March 9 (Special).—Funeral services were held today for Harry Hunt Baker, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodhull Baker and grandson of the Rev. Dr. William D. Smith, prominent Episcopal clergyman of Richmond, who was found dying in a baby carriage on a porch at the home of the parents. The Rev. Robert B. Nelson, rector of Christ Church, officiated at the funeral.

THE NEW WEEK'S BILLS

METROPOLITAN

"STREET OF CHANCE." Paramount all-talking production, starring William Powell, supported by Kay Francis, Regis Toomey and Jean Arthur. Story by O. H. P. Garrett, directed by John Cromwell. Reviewed Saturday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

In so far as its relation to the Rothstein case is concerned, this taut subject solves nothing beyond the possible problem of how to make a rather more than ordinarily interesting picture of the underworld in various of its more sinister aspects and occupations. That the story was based on the famous New York murder case there can be no doubt. The sequence of pivotal events—as reported in the press—is the same. The deviation from the printed accounts are trivial—"Natural" Davis was not discovered shot in an obscure passageway in a fashionable hotel, but made his way to the outdoor taxi stand and died in the ambulance on the way to the hospital, laying the ambulance doctor 50 to 1 that he wouldn't survive. Gambler to the end, and true to the code that a regular does not squeal even in the face of death.

These considerations, however, are secondary to the admirable manner in which the sordid, and at times mildly harrowing, tale is told. Evidently devised with the idea of giving the most logical and coherent visualization of the workings of the subsurface stratum of Broadway's "big shots" on any of the underworld film dramas, "Street of Chance" is starkly accurate in its realism and flawlessly acted by a cast of remarkably deft selection.

In Mr. Garrett's masquerade, "Natural" Davis—the supposed counterpart of Mr. Rothstein—is imbued with the highest motives in his single, fatal violation of his vaunted credo of "Do not cheat, do not frame and do not doublecross." His errand, on the eve of going straight and departing on a second honeymooy with the wife who has endured much as the helpless helpmeet of a professional gambler, is to save his younger brother from a life of hazard by "breaking" him in the tougest "stud" game in town. When the kid crowds his streak and bids fair to break all the others in the game, "Natural" reveals his identity and attempts to take the youngster's roll himself. On the last hand, with more than $100,000 in the pot, he palms an ace to fulfill his purpose and is bumped off for his devotion to filial duty. That is the solution to the Rothstein mystery the cameras provide.

William Powell is a polished, kindly, generous John B. Marsden, bond broker, to those he loves; a hard, cynical, unbeatable plunger to those with whom he games. The character is rounded and complete and demonstrates by what a hairline the gentleman may be separated from the crook. Kay Francis, as the wife, is fully equipped to lend distinction to a character that has been taught to distrust even the truth, and Jean Arthur is no less effective in the role of the innocent bride of "Babe" Marsden, intent upon running his brother's $10,000 wedding gift into $150,000 at the game tables.

The three supporting roles that stand out above all the others are played by Regis Toomey, as "Babe" Marsden; Stanley Fields, as Dorgan, the big bootlegger from Detroit, and John Risso, the Times Square newsy who acted as tip-off man for the boys in the know. Perfect casting.

Two Vitaphone Varieties are among the supplementaries, one offered by Joe Frisco, under the title of "The Benefit," in which he does an oddly authentic impersonation of Helen Morgan, in addition to his usual clowning and dancing; the other, "A Battery of Song," in which Waite Hoyt, the Yankees' star pitcher, does better than you would expect as a singer, assisted by F. Scott Coots and an unnamed imitator of Helen Kane.

The Paramount Sound News, with flashes of the Miami fight, if that is what it was, completes a fine bill for the sophisticates.

FOX

"HAPPY DAYS." A William Fox presentation of a story by Sidney Lanfield; dialogue by Edwin Burke; lyrics by J. E. Hanley, James Brockman; Conrad, Mitchell and Gottler; Gilbert and Baer, Harry Stoddard and Marcy Klauber, and McCarthy. General directions by Benjamin Stoloff; stage direction by Walter Catlett; dance numbers staged by Earl Lindsay. Cast includes entire Fox acting personnel. Reviewed Saturday evening (second week) by W. A. Whitney.

Here is an extravaganza, with a dash of minstrelsy, presented as a benefit show for a showboat proprietor. Such is the basis of the story, and as such it starts out—but the logical conclusion is never reached and the story is never finished. What little gossamer thread of narrative is woven into the production is dragged in by sheer force of directorial will and not from any innate need for it.

The entire production, to these spectacled eyes, suffers from a grayness of photography that seems not entirely associated with the distant shots required to encompass the great stage effects.

Whether these technical faults are by-products of the picture's having been made primarily for the Grandeur Film and the narrow celluloid's having been an "accessory during the fact," I dare not say, yet it is within the range of possibility.

Of the 82 minutes of screen time, the 40 beginning with the Stage and Screen Club sequences and ending with the minstrel finale are the outstanding. During this time the most widely known Fox artists do their bits admirably. In the first part of this period the members of the cast appear in everyday habiliments and appear to be perfectly oblivious to the fact that they are before the camera. In the minstrel portion of the picture, such as are reintroduced are in costume.

This is predominantly a man's picture. Not that there are no women present, but it is the gentlemen of the company who have the principal skits and specialities. To name the entire personnel again would be folly—your favorite Fox star is there!

Like the feature picture, "Screenland Melodies" remains for a second week. Of special note are a toe dance by Lucille Iverson, a charming waltz by Everts and Lowry, Franklyn and Werner's show-stopping Apache dance, "Prof. Axel MacWoodcraft" Lamberti's incomparable xylophone solos, and Alexander Callam's rendition of Victor Herbert's "Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life."

Mrs. Williamson Rites Held in Charlottesville

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., March 9.—Funeral rites for Mrs. Isabel Williamson, wife of Lee R. Williamson, well-known civil engineer, were held at 4 o'clock this afternoon from her home, Rugby Hills, at the university. Her death followed a stroke of paralysis early in the week.

Before her marriage Mrs. Williamson was Miss Isabel Perkinson, daughter of Dr. William H. Perkinson, who was professor of modern languages in the University of Virginia from 1882 to 1898. Besides her husband, Mrs. Williamson is survived by three children.

PALACE

"NOT SO DUMB." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer all-talking picture, adapted from the stage play, "Dulcy," by George S. Kaufman and Marc Connolly, with Marion Davies starred, supported by Elliott Nugent, Raymond, Hackett, Julie Faye and Franklin Pangborn. Directed by King Vidor. Reviewed Sunday afternoon.

This is a case, it seems to me, in which the excellence of the cast is out of all proportion to the importance of the story. Not a characterization in an extensive and variegated gallery but is splendidly executed, but, even so, after the shooting is all over not a single bull's-eye has been hit, except, possibly, that of farcical humor. Not that "Not so Dumb" falls anything short of being a good screen rendition of "Dulcy," but rather that "Dulcy" itself was never anything to cable home about, save for those who like frothy, inconsequential and incessant chatter.

This juvenile Mrs. Malaprop, who gives a week-end house party to aid her husband in perfecting a business deal upon which his entire future depends, is enough to drive one cuckoo, she's that garrulous. Along some time after the second reel, this young idiot got so on my own nerves with her inevitable butting in and making herself generally an unconscionable pest, that I should have taken keen pleasure in strangling her beyond the possibility of further prattle. This, I presume, is a high tribute to the excellence of Marion Davies' performance in the formerly title role.

As a matter of fact, she does do a finely sustained piece of work. In proportion to their opportunities, however, she is not more proficient than the exceptional group of associate players by whom she is surrounded. While they do not all manifest the genius for doing and saying the wrong thing that seems to be Dulcy's particular endowment, they betray reactions to her peculiarities that are diversely interesting. These able players include Elliott Nugent, William Holden, Raymond Hackett, Franklin Pangborn, Julia Faye, Donald Ogden Stewart, Sally Starr and George Davis. The greatest of these are William Holden, Donald Ogden Stewart and Raymond Hackett.

The overshadowing personality of the bill is Trixie Friganza, who leads the cast of Loew's "Gym-Jams" stage unit. This silver-haired and ebullient "grand duchess of comedy" brings to her work all of the skill that might be expected to accrue to a veteran star of musical comedy, revue, vaudeville and all other forms of light musical entertainment. Her fun is contagious. This is true, I dare say, because Miss Friganza is one of the few comediennes who is able to kid herself effectively for the amusement of an audience. Her act consists of little else, song, dance, costuming and recited rhymes all being aimed at the Friganza figure and how it managed to get that way. And as a bathing beauty, Miss Friganza is a whole pageant in herself!

Davey White is the guest master of ceremonies who, in addition to singing, dancing and conducting the orchestra, introduces Flo Mayo, "queen of the air," on a swinging trapeze; Bobby Walthour, jr., treadmill bicyclist; Prosper and Maret, gymnasts, and the Chester Hale Girls, who yesterday missed a surprising number of times in their rope-skipping and hurdle-jumping. The Palace Syncopators do "A Little Kiss Each Morning" as their special number, and an exciting race features the finale.

The Hearst Metrotone News, M-G-M silent news, orchestral overture, "Beautiful Galathea," by Von Suppe, conducted by Harry Borjes, and the organ interludes round out a diverting but feathery entertainment.

COLUMBIA

"THE GIRL SAID NO." A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer talking picture, starring William Haines, supported by Leila Hyams and Marie Dressler. Directed by Sam Wood. Reviewed Saturday afternoon by Mary Porter Russell.

Some millons of dramas of the Great War remain unexploited. To find one it is only necessary to let the imagination hover in the storm, select a single flake of tragedy, and follow its human course to the end. This method, here intelligently pursued, has resulted in absorbing entertainment, and tells us something new about the war, or at least about what somebody thinks of war in general. The case of Sergeant Grischa is merely the fate of an illiterate Russian prisoner, held by the Germans in the heart of a Polish forest. Yet we follow his personal fortunes with the same attention that we should give to the breaking of a battle front.

The spectator may know nothing of war by experience, and if so, he is inclined to take the word of the author and the producers for everything. But, for all he knows, the novelist, Zweig, and the director, Brenon, may be as much outsiders as himself. Even if they had a part in the war they could only see a little of it, and the spectator's guess at how a German general would behave may be as good as theirs. It is just as well to look propaganda in the eye.

So your unwarlike reviewer, while sharing in the fascination of this production, ventures to doubt whether it presents a true picture of the grim workings of a military machine. Lives have been unjustly sacrificed in the stress of discipline, but not typically as the upshot of debates between one German general who is warm-hearted and sentimental and another who is cold and domineering. If real Grischas died, it was because such officers had something else to think about.

At any rate, Chester Morris is worth watching as the pitiable prisoner. So is Von Seyffertitz, as the general in command on the eastern front. Also Jean Hersholt, as a military judge with unmilitary ideas. Altogether this is a stirring but not quite convincing war play.

Short subjects completing the program are a Grantland Rice film depicting a wild hunt for a bobcat; an Aesop cartoon and news pictures. The theater orchestra has a pleasing stunt in the way of imitations of well-known radio features.

Martin M. Smith, 87, Is Dead in Annapolis

Annapolis, Md., March 9.—Martin M. Smith, 87 years old, prominent retired business man and one of the oldest citizens of Annapolis, died at his residence early today. In failing health for several years, complications developed during the last few weeks to hasten the end.

Mr. Smith is survived by two children, Dr. Martin H. Smith, of New York and Annapolis, and Mrs. Augusta Lloyd, of Annapolis. Funeral services will be held from St. Martin's Lutheran Church here Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, followed by interment in St. Anne's Cemetery.

Two Buildings Burn in Charles Town.

Charles Town, W. Va., March 9 (Special).—Fire broke out early today in the business section in a frame mercantile building owned by the Gibson estate and occupied by the N. B. Lorenzo Grocery Co., and spread to the Orsini & Palmeri Shoe Repair Shop. Damage is estimated between $3,000 and $4,000.

EARLE

"LOOSE ANKLES." First National talking, singing and dancing picture adapted from the stage comedy by Sam Janney, with Douglas Fairbanks, jr., and Loretta Young featured, supported by Louise Fazenda, Ethel Wales, Eddie Nugent and Otis Harlan. Directed by Ted Wilde. Reviewed Saturday night.

Except in the matter of motivating situation, here is a carbon copy of "Cradle Snatchers." The same farcical complications that attended the adventures of the elderly matrons in the former comedy overtake the elderly spinsters in this hilarious, wholly improbable and slightly more than risque recital of a futile effort to prevent the younger generation from inheriting a fortune and letting true love find a way. The analogy is made even closer by the fact that Louise Fazenda and Ethel Wales, who had much to do with the fun of "Cradle Snatchers," are also conspicuously cast in "Loose Ankles" in identical parts.

The fable begins with the reading of a will, whose terms are a bit stringent for the youngster of the family.
